More Police, Troops Asked As N.Y. Strike Area Widens

Elevator Service, Heat in 4,800 More Buildings to Be Affected.

Brooklyn, Queens Unions Called Out

By the Associated Press.

New York, March 5.—A labor crisis of major proportions gripped this city of skyscrapers tonight as striking building service workers extended their walkout to two new sectors and moved to take in virtually the entire metropolitan area.

Appeals for National Guard and extra police protection went out from harassed cloud dwellers as union leaders ordered a paralyzing tieup of elevator and heating service in 4,800 buildings in the Washington Heights and Harlem areas.

"The union is hurling its full strength into the battle," declared James J. Bambrick, leader of the walkout that already has affected 1,536 buildings in other sections of Manhattan and the Bronx.

"The union accepts the challenge to carry this battle on. We feel we have right on our side."

He indicated he would move tomorrow against the great mid-Manhattan area known as the Grand Central zone, where tower the world's tallest buildings.

To Affect Brooklyn, Queens.

Brooklyn and Queens also have been slated for strike calls tomorrow, he said, carrying the battle to four of the five boroughs.

Tonight's orders called for a walkout of 6,000 workers in Harlem and 4,800 in the uptown business-residential area of Washington Heights.

Negotiations for a settlement with the realty advisory board representing most of the building owners affected, collapsed after a 14-hour conference at City Hall.

The real estate men, calling the strike a "wanton assault on the public" refused to arbitrate as long as the union demanded the right to organize.

The police operating bureau said 200 buildings had been hit by the latest strike call, bringing the total of strike-stricken buildings to 1,725.

Chris Houlihan, president of the Hotel Workers Union, said he would order elevator operators, chambermaids, porters and doormen from "15 of the biggest hotels" tomorrow.

Ample Funds Promised.

George Scalise, international vice president of the Building Service Union, said he had received a telegram from Gerry Horan, president, saying he would arrive from Chicago tomorrow "with unlimited funds at your disposal to carry on your grand fight."

Moving swiftly to guard against renewed outbreaks of violence, police headquarters mobilized 5,504 men on the department's eligible list as a reserve force.

Only once before—during the World War—have the police eligibles been lined up for emergency duty.

Temperatures dropped below the freezing point for almost the first time since Sunday, when the strike began 24 hours ahead of schedule in a demand for a blanket $2 weekly wage increase, shorter hours and a closed shop.

As a result, hardships were increased in apartment houses where the boiler room crews had walked out.

Bambrick, denouncing Walter Gordon Merritt, counsel to the realty advisory board on labor relations, as a "menace to the community," said:

"I will not allow any union-hating attorneys to crush our members. The strike is going on.

"We are going into Brooklyn and Queens. Tomorrow we are going to hit department stores and hotels. That is our answer to the refusal

Drunks and Loafers on Relief In Maryland, Survey Reveals

By Edward T. Folliard,
A Staff Correspondent.

Annapolis, Md., March 5.—Taxpayers of Maryland learned today that money exacted from them for unemployment relief has, in many cases, been going to drunkards, and congenital loafers.

The news was contained in a 40-page report made public today by the State survey commission, appointed last year by the General Assembly to inquire into the relief situation.

As a result of the commission's findings, there is a distinct possibility that the Free State Legislature will refuse further appropriations for relief.

Case No. 1. Woman (white), receiving $2.75 a week. "This woman," says the report, "is a prostitute and drunkard, and has been arrested for same."

Case No. 2. Girl (white), receiving $3.64 a week, on relief one year. The report states: "The lady who rents the room to this girl, who is 20 years old, states she drinks and stays out all night two and three nights a week, and will not give her a key on account of bringing men to the house."

Case No. 3. Family (colored), has been on relief three years and now receives $18 a week. There are four in the family more than 16 years old and able-bodied. The report states: "He is a preacher and has two automobiles in yard."

Case No. 4—Man (colored), receiving $3.85 a week. The report states: "This address is the car barn of the Pennsylvania avenue car line."

Describing the case of a colored family that has been on relief for five years, receiving $11.18 per week, the report said:

"One baby and a house full of thieves."

The commission found 571 persons on relief owned real estate, 197 owned automobiles, 220 were using relief money for immorality or drunkenness, that 184 had given false addresses and 12 persons on the relief rolls claimed they had never received any relief money.

The report said: "Once established on relief, the recipient, in very many cases, becomes a permanent client, entirely satisfied with existing conditions, with no attempt on his part to seek work and frequently failing to seek work obtainable."

Public Vehicles Will Be Warned In Traffic Drive

Brown to Serve Final Notice Today; Police Ordered to 'Crack Down.'

By Howard F. Wentworth.

As a preliminary to his "crack down" campaign against public vehicle drivers, Superintendent of Police Ernest W. Brown will make a personal demand for traffic-law observance to transportation heads at a meeting today at 3 p. m. in Commissioner Melvin C. Hazen's office.

"We are giving these drivers an opportunity to correct conditions themselves. If they don't, we clamp down," warned Maj. Brown.

Immediately following his announcement, formal proposals to correct Washington traffic ills were submitted by the District Commissioners to members of the House traffic sub-committee.

These proposals resulted from a survey by a special committee appointed by Commissioner Hazen. Recommendations and suggestions were laid before Representative Carpenter (Democrat), Kansas, chairman of the House traffic subcommittee.

Want All-Night Parking Ban.

An all-night parking ban led the list of proposals. This ban, it was pointed out, could be imposed gradually and by zones until the entire city was covered.

Other recommendations included a parking space to be provided by the District and Federal governments for their employes; a five-year street widening program; a study of circles, with a view toward decreasing congestion; the use of privately owned parking spaces; a limitation in taxicabs and elimination of the parkway in the center of New York avenue.

The street widening program would include Taft Bridge, K street from Thirteenth to Masachusetts avenue northwest, Eleventh street from Massachusetts to Florida avenues northwest; and Fifteenth street from Pennsylvania avenue to K street northwest.

The District Engineer Department, working with the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, was advised to make a special study of Thomas, Scott, Logan and Dupont circles.

Speed Past Lights, Is Claim.

Maj. Brown, announcing his "crack down" conference, said numerous complaints have been received citing repeated traffic law violations by drivers of buses, taxicabs, street cars and trucks. Their daily actions, it was pointed out, menace motorists and pedestrians alike. Accident hazards are heightened by recklessness and apparent disregard for safety regulations, according to public reports.

"There is not a day passes when street cars and buses don't speed past red lights and stop signals," Maj. Brown said, testifying at re-

Haile Selassie Accepts Peace Plea by League

Telegram Stresses Efforts to Avert War; Mussolini Delays Reply.

By the United Press.

Geneva, March 5.—Emperor Haile Selassie tonight accepted the League of Nations appeal to make peace with Italy "within the framework of the League."

The reply was received at the League secretariat at 8 p. m.

Officials had waited all day for the communication.

Italy has not replied to the appeal of the Committee of Thirteen and is not likely to until after Premier Mussolini meets with his cabinet Saturday.

Lights burned late in the political section of the League of Nations secretariat as officials prepared the Ethiopian reply for publication.

"We agree to the opening of negotiations subject to the provisions of the League of Nations Covenant being respected," Emperor Haile Selassie informed the League's Committee of Thirteen.

Text of Telegram.

The Emperor's telegram, published by Joseph Avenol, League secretary general, said:

"We noted the telegram you communicated to our minister for foreign affairs in behalf of the Committee of Thirteen. All states which are members of the League of Nations are aware that even before the outbreak of war we did our best to assure peace by equitable conciliation in conformity with the spirit of the Covenant of the League of Nations.

"Italy, in violation of her international obligations and notwithstanding measures taken up to the present, continues her aggression. We agree to the opening of negotiations subject to the provisions of the Covenant being respected.

"We hope the Committee of Thirteen's proposal is made and that negotiations will be conducted in the spirit of the Covenant and within the framework of the League of Nations. Our detailed reply will be communicated to you through our minister at Paris."

The telegram was signed "Haile Selassie."

While gratified with the Ethiopian reply, League officials declined to speculate on the tone of the Italian reply, which may not be received until next week.

Will Not Cede Land.

Addis Ababa (Friday), March 6 (U.P.).—Ethiopia will not cede territory to Italy as the price of peace, a high government official said today.

Discussing Ethiopia's position in view of Emperor Haile Selassie's cable to Geneva yesterday accepting a plea for peace within the framework of the League, the official said:

"We are ready immediately to

By the United Press.

Plymouth, Mass., March 5.—Historic Plymouth, which claims to be the landing place of the Pilgrim Fathers, was all a-dither tonight because its selectmen allegedly indorsed a Boston brewing company's product christened "Pilgrim Ale."

Clergymen, Pilgrim descendants and business men vehemently protested association of the name Pilgrim with any malt beverage.

The weekly said town officials attended a party at the Boston brewery last Monday when the new ale was christened. They were ushered through the plant by men and women in Pilgrim costumes, it was said, and told the company was about to name a new ale in honor of the Pilgrims.

There a company executive quoted from the Pilgrim journal telling of the landing at Plymouth: "We could not take time for further search or consideration, our victuals being spent, especially our beer."

It was only fitting and proper then, the brewery official was quoted as saying, "that we dedicate this new ale to America's first brewers—the Pilgrims." Hence "Pilgrim Ale."

Treasurer Herbert K. Bartlett and Charles Howland, both Pilgrim descendants, were among those named as indorsing the product.

Bombs Kill 19 In Italian Raid On Red Cross

'Intentional,' Says Leader of Unit; Operating Tent Destroyed.

By the United Press.

Addis Ababa, March 5.—Nineteen people, including three patients in the British ambulance unit, were killed yesterday when the Italian military airplane S-62 bombed Quoram, the government announced today.

Four patients were hurt seriously.

The dead included four children, two women and ten noncombatant peasants.

Says Planes Flew Low.

Dr. Andre John Melly, leader of the British ambulance unit, telegraphed from Quoram that before the bombing, Italian planes circled Quoram nine times, flying low over the tent hospital pitched in the town plaza.

He emphasized that the British camp was laid out in the form of a square while Eithiopian camps always are circular.

Melly expressed opinion that the bombing was intentional, since the planes had ample opportunity to locate the Red Cross camp in frequent flights. The nearest military camp, he said, was 2 miles away.

Rome Admits Bombing.

Rome, March 5 (AP).—A government official said today that an Italian observation plane had bombed what may have been a British Red Cross unit of 30 trucks near Quoram yesterday.

He said the observation plane flew over Quoram Wednesday and saw the trucks bearing red cross emblems unloading various materials and supplies. The plane flew low, was fired on, and returned to its base. The pilot flew to the same spot yesterday and claimed that antiaircraft guns fired on him and that the plane was hit. The pilot then dropped small bombs.

Sweden Formally Protests.

Stockholm, March 5 (AP).—The Swedish government in a note handed the Italian government by the minister to Rome today maintained that the bombardment of a Swedish ambulance in Ethiopia December 30 was not an accident but was premeditated.

The note stated it presumed Italy would be ready to pay an indemnity and reiterates a demand expressed in the original protest that attacks against Swedish ambulances should be suppressed.

Sweden suggested that the amount of the indemnity should be settled by the two governments.

Cardenas Outlines Policy on Religion

Guadalajara, Mexico, March 5 (AP).—President Lazardo Cardenas, in a conference with school teachers of the State of Jalisco today, outlined the administration's policies in the controversy between church and state.

The President said his government "will not provoke anti-religious campaigns" and declared that former administrations had made the mistake of considering the religious problems as subordinate to other aspects.

Authorities throughout the country have been given strict orders, the President said, to fulfill constitutional regulations and laws governing religious worship.

Cardenas said the lives of rural and city school teachers will be protected from "attempts by small bands of people without conscience who are urged by enemies of the revolution into criminal efforts."

Fairbanks to Wed Lady Ashley 'Soon'

Paris, March 5 (AP).—Confident their request for exemption from the usual delays of French marriage laws would be granted, Douglas Fairbanks, sr., and Lady Ashley tonight planned a quick wedding.

Fairbanks made formal application to the state's attorney to suspend provisions of the law requiring 30-day residence and 11-day publication of bans before the marriage.

Authorities indicated they would approve the application which would allow the American movie actor and the former British musical comedy actress to be married despite their presence in the country for only a few days.

Earlier, Fairbanks had appealed to attaches at the United States consulate, but his request to be married had been refused. The attaches said they did not have authority to perform the marriage.

Tydings Tells State to Vote For Roosevelt

Ritchie 'Heir' Demands New Deal Modify Activities.

Budget Balancing Steps Are Following Credit Use, Says Hull.

By Franklyn Waltman.
A Staff Correspondent.

Baltimore, March 5.—President Roosevelt's Administration was both defended and criticized before the Young Democratic Clubs of Maryland tonight at a dinner of 1,600 persons opening the New Deal campaign in this State.

It was an unusual political meeting, marked by the cross-currents of a State politically torn in its attitude toward the activities of the Federal Government in the last three years.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull made a sweeping defense of the New Deal, undertaking to justify all of its major measures as necessitated by the severity of the economic depression which swept over the country in the years following 1929.

But, despite the fact that Secretary Hull is the ranking officer of the Roosevelt Cabinet, despite the fact that tonight he made his first really political speech since he became a Cabinet member, it was Senator Tydings' speech which was waited with the greater interest.

Contest On in Senate.

One of the severest critics of the New Deal has had in the Senate, Senator Tydings' attitude toward the re-election of President Roosevelt in this campaign was awaited anxiously here.

Marylanders wanted to know this not only because the Senator stands as the heir of Albert C. Ritchie as the leader of Maryland's Democracy but also because in this State Roosevelt's right to renomination is being challenged by Henry Breckinridge, Assistant Secretary of War in the Wilson Administration, in a primary fight which will be concluded early in May.

For almost 45 minutes—35 pages of manuscript—Tydings held his audience in suspense as he assailed the ineptitude and mistakes of previous Republican administrations and praised and criticized the policies of the New Deal. Finally he revealed, grudgingly, it might be said, that he would support President Roosevelt both for renomination and for re-election

Modification Urged.

But he declared that Maryland Democrats should urge on the President modification of a number of the emergency activities inaugurated to meet the depression. He proposed specifically that Maryland's Democracy should urge on the Philadelphia convention the necessity for a balanced budget, divorcement of the Federal Government from local problems and a return of them to the States; expansion of trade and "other matters of like import."

"A number of recent happenings," he asserted, "indicate that President Roosevelt himself, favors such a course."

Tydings and Hull spoke before an audience as representative of Maryland's Democracy as any which has ever gathered. Most of the Democratic leaders of the State attended the dinner, attracted chiefly by advance notices that Tydings would reveal the course he proposed to pursue in the campaign this year.

Eulogy to Ritchie.

Tydings commenced with a fulsome eulogy to the late Gov. Ritchie as "the most distinguished man of his generation in our State, regarded throughout the country as one of America's greatest citizens, recognized as Presidential timber and the greatest Governor Maryland ever had."

He cited the changing political standards throughout the world, resulting from the economic crisis. He reviewed the depths of economic depression which existed when the Democratic Party came into power in March, 1933, citing the collapse of the banking structure, the insolvency of farmers, the widespread unemployment and the general paralysis of commerce and industry.

Slump Laid to G. O. P.

"Let this fact stand out in letters of fire," he asserted, "that whatever may be said either pro or con about the present Administration or some of its policies, it cannot be truthfully said about it that either it or its policies brought on the depression—for that depression started under President Herbert Hoover in October, 1929, nearly three and one-half years before the Roosevelt Administration came into power."

He expressed continued opposition to subsequent measures of the New Deal, such as the NRA and the AAA. He justified his opposition to those measures at the time they were proposed on the ground that it was his duty "to vote in line with the traditions of my party and my own convictions and not to be a rubber stamp for any one."

The Senator turned back to the policies of previous Republican administrations, assailing in particular their approval of increasing tariffs and their stimulation of foreign trade on a foundation of American loans—policies, he contended, which created some of the problems which confronted President Roosevelt.

"We come now to a consideration of the situation with which Maryland Democrats are faced in the coming national election," Tydings finally asserted.

"Admittedly, some of the policies of the Roosevelt Administration are

Deeper Income Levies Offered as Alternative To Corporation Taxes

Hagood's Removal Followed WPA Protest, Hopkins Reveals

Letter to Dern Requested That Officer Retract Charges, He Says.

By Felix Bruner.

Harry L. Hopkins, Works Progress administrator, revealed yesterday his assistant, Aubrey Williams, had protested to the War Department about "slighting remarks" made by Maj. Gen. Johnson Hagood in testimony before a House sub-committee concerning the works program. The protest was followed immediately by an order by Gen. Malin Craig, chief of staff, relieving Hagood of his command.

The Williams letter, addressed to Secretary Dern, suggested that Hagood make a public retraction of his remarks. Hagood had referred to WPA funds as "stage money."

Hopkins, in his first press conference in weeks, predicted that 3,300,000 needy persons would be dependent on the Federal Government on July 1. The number at present is 3,800,000. Hopkins made his estimate just before going to the White House to attend a conference on the future relief problem.

The conference, which lasted nearly three hours, was attended by Hopkins, Secretary Morgenthau, Corrington Gill, assistant WPA administrator, and Daniel W. Bell, acting director of the budget. None of them would reveal the nature of the discussion. Morgenthau said he Estimates of Treasury Also Include Excises On Manufactures.

Proposals Bolster Roosevelt Support

Davis Submits Program On Processing Taxes to the House.

By Robert C. Albright.

The Treasury yesterday unloaded on the House tax sub-committee a welter of new revenue proposals ranging all the way from manufacturers' excises to deep income tax revision, as the only other alternatives for the President's corporation, processing and "windfall" tax recommendations.

Whether designed for that purpose or not, the maneuver had the effect of solidifying Democratic support for the President's original tax plan. There was still outspoken dissatisfaction with failure to propose "reasonable" exemptions for corporate reserves, and it was freely predicted that such exemptions would be written into the final tax draft.

Chairman Samuel B. Hill, of the tax sub-committee, made it clear that the latest Treasury proposals were in no sense recommendations, but simply represented a cross-section of tax studies made. The manufacturers' excise proposal ranged upward to 5 per cent, excluding food, clothing, medicine, tobacco and liquor now taxed under special levies, and was estimated to yield a maximum of $530,000,000. A combination of proposals for revising the income tax structure was estimated to bring $446,000,000, additional.

Process Taxes Offered.

Coincident with this deluge of new proposals, the Administration's plan for lowering recent taxes on processers, and broadening the range of commodities reached, was laid before the Hill sub-committee. Framed by Farm Administrator Chester C. Davis, the proposed new processing levies covered some 31 commodities, and were estimated to net $221,583,000.

The processing taxes were proposed in the President's message as "temporary" taxes to be imposed only over a period of two or three years. Coupled with the so-called "wind-fall" taxes, reaching refunded and impounded AAA levies by a special-class tax, they are counted on by the Administration for a total yield of $517,000,000.

Mainstay of the President's proposed "permanent" tax program, however, is the steeply graduated levy on undivided corporate earnings, counted on to yield a gross of $1,800,000,000, but a net of only $620,000,000 a year, on repeal of existing corporate levies.

3 Scales Proposed.

Treasury experts yesterday presented the sub-committee with three separate bracket proposals covering this plan, each designed to raise about $620,000,000 a year. The schedules were outlined by Chairman Hill as follows:

Undivided corporate earnings:	(Rates—per cent) Plan 1.	Plan 2.	Plan 3.
Under $2,000	25	20	28
$2,000 to $15,000	28	26	29
$15,000 to $40,000	32	32	33
Over $40,000	35	37½	37

It was apparent from these schedules that the Treasury is recommending no exemptions for earnings corporations find necessary to set aside as reserves, or for special types of corporations, such as banks or fiduciary institutions.

Sentiment for such exemption as a "safeguard" against emergencies and future depression cycles is becoming so strong, however, that it appears as if the sub-committee might take such action on its own initiative.

Vinson for Exemption.

Representative Fred M. Vinson (Democrat), of Kentucky, a member of the sub-committee, said last night he would offer such an amendment if no one else does. Vinson said he thought a "reasonable" amount for reserves should be allowed corporations, and on this portion of corporate earnings a tax of only 16.4 per cent (approximate amount these earnings now are subjected to) should be imposed.

"I feel this exemption is going to be put in the bill," Vinson said. "I think the idea of a reserve proposition of this kind is very firmly imbedded in the minds of members."

In addition to the income tax, and manufacturers excise proposals laid

Roosevelt Files In Maryland, 2 Other States

Launches 1936 Campaign, Also Signing in Ohio, Massachusetts.

President Roosevelt late yesterday formally began his campaign for re-election, by signing petitions to enter his name in the Presidential preference primaries of Maryland, Ohio and Massachusetts.

By nightfall his Maryland declaration of candidacy had been filed at Annapolis, and it was announced from Lincoln, Nebr., that the filing for the primary in that State, on April 14, had closed with the President unopposed on the Democratic ballot. The names of Roosevelt and Vice President John N. Garner had been filed at Lincoln Wednesday.

The President's action in entering the Maryland, Ohio and Massachusetts races was announced in a White House statement:

"The President has signed Maryland, Massachusetts and Ohio primary petitions. This means he enters the primaries of those three States as a candidate for re-election.

To Speak at Baltimore.

"The President also has arranged to speak at Baltimore April 13, to a meeting under the auspices of the Young Democrats. Young Democrats from neighboring States will be invited by the State chairman, Mr. Wickam. The Baltimore meeting also will be attended by State presidents of Young Democrat organizations and national officers.

The Maryland primary is May 4, that in Massachusetts April 28 and Ohio's May 12.

Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, entered the Nebraska primary on the Republican ticket, and was unopposed as the filing closed. Petitions for Gov. Alfred M. Landon of Kansas had been pocketed, by his supporters, "in the interest of party harmony."

To Enter All States.

The President will enter every State where the laws require such action for the pledging of convention delegates, according to Democratic National Chairman James A. Farley. Farley estimated this would mean entering his name in 10 or 15 States.

In Ohio and Maryland Mr. Roosevelt already has nominal opposition in the candidacy of Col. Henry Breckinridge, New York attorney. While Breckinridge is not conceded a chance, he will give conservative Democratic opposition to

D. C. Fund Cuts Stand; Blanton Near Fist Fight

Mrs. Norton Denied Chance to Debate as Increase in Lump Sum Loses.

By James D. Secrest.

Under the generalship of Representative Thomas L. Blanton, the sub-committee on District appropriations rode roughshod over proposed amendments to the District supply bill in the House yesterday amid a riotous session marked by a near fist fight.

Chairman Mary T. Norton, of the House District Committee, made a vain attempt to restore the lump-sum payment by the Federal Government to $5,700,000, but was cut off from even debating the issue by Chairman Blanton, who predicted that next year Congress will eliminate the contribution which the sub-committee slashed to $2,700,000.

The reading of the bill was interrupted by frequent clashes between Blanton and Representative Zioncheck (Democrat), of Washington. During one incident Zioncheck shouted that Blanton is "muscle-bound between the ears," while in another the Texan in sotto voice said to the Washingtonian:

"Go on away from here or I'll knock hell out of you."

Several members came between the two members as they drew menacingly toward each other.

Only about half of the bill was read before the House adjourned, but it was apparent that Blanton, with the aid of Representative Ditter (Republican), of Pennsylvania, will be able to resist all major amendments.

Members of the House gasped in amazement and then snickered as Ditter and Blanton sought to outdo each other in heaping compliments on one another. It was recalled that only two years ago Ditter and Blanton engaged in such a bitter battle on the House floor that the former had the words of the Texan taken down for expungement from the Congressional Record.

As a prelude to the reading of the bill, Rrepresentative Taber, ranking Republican on the House Appropriations Committee, attempted to defend the work of the subcommittee in slashing health and school items, although he admitted that he had not read the hearings and was not an authority on District affairs.

It is traditional, he said, for the local newspapers and civic organizations to berate the chairman of

Chewnings to Divide Custody Of Children in 'Friendly Split'

By the terms of a "perfectly friendly agreement" the children of Mr. and Mrs. William Jeffries Chewning, jr., grandchildren of Senator James Couzens, will divide their time between their estranged parents.

The Chewnings, who startled Capital society with a Baltimore elopement six years ago, have been living apart since last fall. Mrs. Chewning and the children, William Jeffries 3d, who is nearly 5, and Margaret Ann, who is nearly 2, have been spending the winter at the Couzens home at Birmingham, near Detroit, Mich.

The agreement calls for the children to be brought to their father March 15, the boy to remain for three months, the girl for one. While in their father's custody, the children will stay at the home of the Chewning's parents, near Fredericksburg, Va.

Details of the Chewning's arrangement for the custody of their children were confirmed last night by Alvin Newmyer, attorney for Chewning.

Mrs. Chewning Newmyer said, is expected to bring the children East within a few days and to live at her father's Washington home at 2850 Woodland drive northwest.

"No divorce is contemplated as far as I know," Newmyer said. "There is no disagreement between Mr. and Mrs. Chewning. Mr. Chewning recognizes that because of the children's age they should spend most of their time with the mother. Both parents are very fond of their children."

Slum Clearance Policy Dropped By Government

Home Construction Abandoned; Revised Plan to Help Local Groups.

With completion of a draft of the Wagner bill, outlining a new Federal housing policy, Solicitor General Stanley Reed went into the Supreme Court and had dismissed a case which tested the Government's power to condemn land for housing.

The Wagner bill will provide for Government financial assistance for local housing authorities, but will carry no provision for building by the Government itself. The appropriation to be necessary was reported to be small.

The suit, brought to the court from Louisville and Detroit, had been set for argument this week. The suddenness of the change in the Government's tactics was indicated by the fact it had filed a brief ten days ago and had showed every intention of pressing the appeal.

Funds Diverted.

In a statement the Department of Justice said that "in view of the long period of delay, caused by court proceedings, the funds originally allocated have been diverted to other projects not involved in litigation and where it was possible to go forward with the work promptly."

"Even if the cases had been considered by the court," the statement continued, "and the theory of the Government sustained, it would not have been possible to proceed with either of the undertakings notwithstanding that confirmation of the legal right to use the power of eminent domain in connection therewith. It was concluded, therefore, that it was not proper to submit to the court for decision cases which, as a practical matter, had become moot."

The decision will not affect in any way the 49 housing projects now under way under the PWA.

Ickes, in commenting on dismissal of the suit, pointed out that his housing division had no money with which to buy new land. He said the Louisville project involved in the suit had been abandoned and two others in the same city substituted.

22 States Ready.

It was Ickes who revealed that the Wagner bill will provide for the right of condemnation by local authorities. He said he had a draft of the measure on his desk, but declined to divulge its contents further. Wagner may not introduce the measure before next week.

Asked whether he approved the action in dismissing the case, Ickes said that he was not going to engage in a "long-distance debate" with the Justice Department.

"The action was within their discretion," he said.

Ickes said that 22 States now have housing authority enabling acts permitting them to operate under provisions of the Wagner bill. He said the country can absorb any amount of housing likely to be built.

President Roosevelt will resume his consideration of the housing problem at a conference with a group of labor leaders Monday. The American Federation of Labor has proposed a housing program with emphasis on Federal assistance.

Mother-in-Law Day.

Politics and People

Maryland Doubtful, Democratic Leaders Admit; Ritchie Death Makes Difference.

By Franklyn Waltman

BALTIMORE, Md., March 5.—In this year's Presidential contest Maryland is, and, in all probability, will remain until November, a doubtful State. This is the privately expressed view of several of the smartest Democratic leaders in this city—the real Democratic end of the State. Publicly these same leaders are claiming the State for President Roosevelt by a margin of many thousands of votes.

Albert Cabel Ritchie's death has made a difference in the Maryland situation. In the first place, the former Governor was venerated as the State's foremost citizen. His influence as a citizen was widespread. People who disregard other political figures listened to him—and he courageously gave expression to his convictions. Thus the foes of the New Deal lost an influential leader.

Secondly, many of the sectional Democratic leaders — some of whom tried to persuade Mr. Ritchie to go along with the New Deal—felt a binding obligation to support the former Governor in whatever course he might pursue. Now they are free to go their own way — and in large numbers they are becoming "regular"—jumping for the Roosevelt bandwagon because as politicians —hoping for a future—they see no other place to go.

* * *

All of this, on the surface, makes it appear that in the last two weeks a sharp shift toward the New Deal has taken place in Maryland. But it is an illusion. Nothing has happened that would not have happened had Mr. Ritchie lived. All of the Democratic leaders who now have declared for the renomination and re-election of President Roosevelt would have done so eventually. They could not do anything else and remain in Democratic politics.

But even among those who have made ardent declarations of support for the President, there is no enthusiasm. Nurtured for years in an ultra-conservative community, educated along the lines of the Ritchie philosophy of State rights, and what might be called Jeffersonian Democracy, they find President Roosevelt a strange, discomfiting leader.

Moreover, a number of the old-line Democratic leaders have been ignored in the distribution of Federal patronage here—and patronage is the fuel which runs political organizations. On top of that, there is a first-class battle starting in Maryland over the party's leadership in the State, with all eyes on the Statehouse two years hence, and some of the jockeying and maneuvering involving the Presidential situation now going on is really inspired by the local situation.

* * *

The burning desire of the moment of Maryland Democratic leaders is to establish their party regularity. They feel they must give lip-service to the New Deal, even though they damn it privately, do not believe in it and will not, as one said, "break any legs" in supporting it.

But more important than the motions which the politicians go through is the sentiment of the non-political Marylanders. Hostility, sometimes bitter hostility, to the New Deal is found not only among the business and financial hierarchy in Baltimore, but also among the professional classes, those receiving moderate salaries and even among the small wage earners. Of course, there is enthusiasm for the New Deal among some farmers, in some groups of industrial workers and among those who hate the rich. But the Maryland press, where it is not antagonistic to the New Deal, is, at its best, lukewarm in support, and that is a factor.

The fact that in Baltimore, a larger percentage of families own the homes in which they live than in any other city in the country goes far toward explaining the attitude of this city toward the New Deal. Ownership of those homes was achieved by the practice of all the copybook maxims—hard work (not limited work weeks), thrift (not spending extravagantly), saving for the rainy day (not spending in excess of your income) and all the others. As one Democratic politician here said: "Anyone who has read a book on political economy thinks the New Deal is crazy."

* * *

If the meeting of the Association for the Defense of the Constitution held here last night were the bulwark of Roosevelt opposition, the New Dealers would not need to worry. That meeting helped rather than hurt President Roosevelt, even though many of those present were Democrats and in the past have been substantial contributors to the Democratic Party.

The reason is that it was almost solely what is known here as "a silk stocking" meeting — those present wore dinner jackets—their wives mink coats—champagne bottles, as one local newspaper pointed out, popped at various tables. Those present included a number of bankers and stock brokers. Indeed, the gathering was socially so elite that one newspaper assigned its society editor as well as its political reporter to cover the event. Such a political meeting to open a fight against President Roosevelt is as stupid as the American Liberty League dinner attended by 12 du Ponts.

If the truth of that observation is doubted, listen to an old-time Democratic boss of a downtown ward, who, incidentally confessed no enthusiasm for President Roosevelt, but said he, of course, would go along. Said he: "When we tell 'em down in our ward about these plutocrats sitting up there popping champagne and fighting Roosevelt it will make votes for the President. We don't intend to talk about New Deal measures—just things like that—that's the stuff that will make our ward safe."

But there are a large number of people, in this city at least, who will not be fooled by such red herrings.

Goodyear Told To Halt Price Cuts to Sears

FTC Finds Practice Fosters Monopoly; Ruling Follows Long Fight.

By the Associated Press.

The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. was ordered yesterday to cease granting price favors to Sears Roebuck & Co. on the ground that the practice tended to destroy competition and create monopoly.

Officials of the Akron firm, idle because of a strike, announced they would appeal to the courts the Federal Trade Commission ruling, which climaxed two years of hearings.

The commission held smaller manufacturers and dealers were damaged, or destroyed, by excessive discounts, secret rebates, and prices on sales of Goodyear tires to the Chicago mail-order and retail firm.

"Widely Used Practice."

Goodyear officials contended the decision, if upheld, "would wipe out a widely used trade practice under which a substantial portion of the country's total retail business is done."

The order was made public as several hundred independent merchants, continuing a two-day meeting here, concentrated on calls on Congressmen to urge more specific laws to make illegal the practices of which Goodyear was accused.

Headed by J. A. O. Preus, former Minnesota Governor and counsel for the National Association of Retail Druggists, a delegation called on President Roosevelt to seek his aid toward enactment of the Robinson-Patman bill, intended to end "discrimination" in favor of chain stores.

Letter Given Roosevelt.

Preus termed the conference satisfactory. He presented a letter to Roosevelt asserting "there remains unfilled the (Democratic platform) pledge to revise the antitrust laws for the better protection of the small distributor and producer."

The Institute of Distribution, claiming to speak for chain and other larger retailers, announced it planned to publicize the "danger" of higher retail prices if such legislation is passed.

Four Democratic members of Congress, including Senator Robinson, had told the merchants legislation was necessary to prevent monopoly.

Discounts "Not Justified."

The trade commission ruling said Goodyear granted discounts from 29 to 40 per cent greater to Sears than to independent dealers, that these discounts were not justified by differences in quality or quantity, or necessity of meeting competition, and that they had the effect of "substantially lessening competition and tending to create a monopoly."

Because of the alleged special prices, the commission found Sears' volume of tire sales had "increased more rapidly than any other retail distributor," and that Sears' competition was "a major factor in driving out of business a large number of retail tire dealers."

Loss of these dealers, the commission added, had the further effect of reducing the "manufacture and sale of pneumatic rubber tires to a smaller and smaller number of independent manufacturers and dealers" and of increasing Goodyear's "dominant position in the tire industry."

Other Tires Cited.

P. W. Litchfield, president of the Goodyear Co., announcing the appeal, argued that "on practically every line of merchandise, large distributors, department stores and others are having special brand goods produced for them at quantity discounts by independent manufacturers."

Declaring that "this practice itself is on trail—not Goodyear," he added:

"Low-cost manufacturers, working in combination with low-cost distributors, have brought low prices in many lines of merchandise. It seems incongruous that a Government, professing to stand for the masses of consumers, should undertake to block such an arrangement."

Teachers' Oath Repeal Sought By Educators

Harvard, Smith and Tufts Presidents Ask Legislature to Act.

By the Associated Press.

Boston March 5.—The presidents of Harvard University and of Smith and Tufts colleges urged the Massachusetts Legislature today to repeal a teachers' oath act which compelled their faculty members to swear oaths of fealty to Federal and State constitutions.

Dr. James B. Conant, of Harvard, declared such oaths to be an attack on academic freedom. He placed on record as also opposed to the law the presidents of Radcliffe, Wheaton, Amherst, Williams and Mount Holyoke colleges. He appeared at a legislative committee hearing on a petition for repeal.

Dr. Conant surprised an inquiring legislator much concerned with communism by declaring that Harvard professors were free to determine truth as they saw it and to teach it without interference.

This statement, before a highly partisan crowd of 1,000 teachers, professors, students, labor leaders and heads of civil liberties groups, embarked the committee members on numerous side excursions into definitions of communism.

Proponents of the legislation last year held it would combat communism and the spread of subversive propaganda.

Today State Representative Frederick T. McDermott, of Medford, sought to imply that Harvard had a Communist on its faculty.

He referred to J. Raymond Walsh, Harvard economics instructor, who declared earlier at the hearing that the teachers' oath act had resulted in intimidation of four teachers in Taunton. There, he said, police recently ordered a labor organizer to quit the city. He said the teachers were ordered to say nothing of the incident.

McDermott tried to get Dr. Conant to admit the proposition that in as much as Walsh had interested himself in the case, and the union involved, was, he said, a Communist union, Walsh was therefore a Communist.

An undertone of hissing developed among the spectators at this line of questioning, which Senator Charles G. Miles, of Brockton, cut short. Prolonged cheers followed Dr. Conant's testimony.

President William Allen Neilson, of Smith College, also was subjected to attack by McDermott, who asked: "You are not connected with the University of Moscow?"

Black Defends Inquiry's Right To Seize Wires

Colby Assails Committee's Action as 'Infamy,' Abuse of Power.

The controversy over examination by the Senate Lobby Committee of private telegrams sent by New Deal opponents reached the floor of the Senate yesterday when Senator Hugo L. Black (Democrat), Alabama, arose and defended the action of the committee, of which he is chairman.

Publication of the names of individuals and organizations whose messages have been subpenaed left no doubt that the committee is engaged in a systematic search of the telegraphic correspondence of concerns and individuals who have been active in opposition to the Roosevelt Administration.

Black, however, continued to insist that the committee merely was seeking evidence to determine the extent of lobbying activities.

Meanwhile, the Western Union Telegraph Co., defendant in an injunction suit to prevent it from turning over certain private telegrams to the committee, filed an answer in District Supreme Court in which it said it had been doing only what it was legally compelled to do.

Many Involved.

The Black "fishing expedition" has gone into telegrams received and sent by such organizations as the American Liberty League, the National Economy League, the Crusaders National Organization, Inc., the Women's National Republican Club, and into the private telegrams of hundreds of law firms and manufacturing and mercantile concerns.

Among the individuals whose messages were seized was Bainbridge Colby, Secretary of State during part of the Wilson Administration. In a statement, Colby said:

"I have not ever represented any utility interest. If my name were included among those whose telegrams were seized, it shows desire to harass anybody they feel is unsympathetic or critical to the New Deal.

"My sympathy is entirely with anyone, no matter in what field of activity, who is subject to this form of outrage. It is an infamous abuse of Government power and is contrary to every theory of individual freedom and the citizen's immunity from governmental espionage and oppression.

"Abounds in Infamy."

"The record of the present Administration so abounds in infamy that this is simply one more of a long series."

Another individual picked out by the committee was E. T. Weir, president of the National Steel Co., who last year opposed New Deal labor legislation in the courts.

It was reported yesterday that other prominent individuals may join Silas Strawn, Chicago lawyer, in his suit to stop inspection by committee investigators of personal correspondence. Strawn is a former president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and of the American Bar Association.

The case will be argued next Wednesday, with Frank J. Hogan, who has previously clashed with Senate investigating committees, representing the plaintiffs.

Black, in his Senate speech, charged he was a victim of a "malicious campaign of misrepresentation."

Charges Malice.

"It is not accidental," he said. "It is a deliberate malicious effort to impede the progress of the committee because of the desire to prevent an investigation of things that people are entitled to know.

"The committee is proceeding on exactly the same line of policy and under the same type of procedure as has characterized every investigation since the first in 1792. That first investigation resolution gave Congress the power to obtain letters and papers. The same has been true of practically all since that time.

"If the time ever comes when the courts issued injunctions to prevent the production of papers, the power of the Senate to conduct investigations is completely lost."

Black insisted that every telegram obtained by the committee had been secured by summons or had been voluntarily turned over to it in answer to a questionnaire.

Referring to the Liberty League, Black denounced "people who work behind the scenes." He suggested that the name "league to protect profits" had been rejected by the organization.

He pointed out that corporations are forbidden by law from contributing to political parties. He said they were flouting the law in contributing to an organization "which seeks to shape and fashion the destiny of the millions of this country."

He insisted that subpenas had been issued for telegrams only of those who the committee had reason to believe were attempting to influence legislation. He said that the committee was not following any partisan course and that "we do not care what administration they support."

"We are interested in letting the people know whose money it is that seeks to influence legislation. The public has a right to know," he said.

A number of officials and employes of the company testified and of each of them Black asked a similar question.

Hagood Ban Followed Protest

"supposed" there would be further conferences.

Hopkins discussed in characteristic fashion charges that there is politics in the relief administration. He reavealed that Senator Vandenberg (Republican), Michigan, had complained of a Democratic Party official soliciting relief funds in Pennsylvania. Hopkins, in a letter to Vandenberg, said he could not be responsible for "dumb, stupid politicians."

He added that "we are telling our people to pay no attention to these damn politicians."

Referring to criticisms of former Gov. Pinchot of Pennsylvania, Hopkins said Pinchot was "trying to climb back on the old-guard bandwagon."

"He doesn't back his charges up with facts," Hopkins said. "We are not going to investigate charges of people who don't know what they are talking about. If they have facts, we'll go after them."

The relief administrator declined to comment on charges of Senator Holt (Democrat), West Virginia, of relief politics in his State. Hopkins said the charges were being investigated and pending conclusion of the investigation he would have nothing to say.

The Williams letter to Secretary Dern was written immediately after newspaper publication of the general's testimony.

The letter said:

"My attention has been called to a public statement made by Maj. Gen. Johnson Hagood, in which he refers critically and slightingly to the works program of this Administration.

"I quote: 'Speaking of the "different pockets of Uncle Sam," the major general said, there is budget money, which is very hard to get; there is PWA money, which is not so hard to get, and then there is WPA money, which is very easy to get for trifling projects, but almost impossible to get for anything worthwhile.' He said he called WPA money 'stage money' because 'you can pass it around but you cannot get anything out of it in the end.'

"I wish to submit for your consideration that it is not only unseemly and undignified for a high official of one department of the Government to publicly criticize the activities of another department, especially when such a criticism is without adequate foundation, but that such action also serves to confuse the public mind and injure confidence in the Government as a whole.

"It is not the desire of this Administration to enter into a newspaper controversy, but it must be clear that statements of this kind cannot be ignored. The fact that Gen. Hagood is totally uninformed regarding the purposes for which funds expended by this Administration are used, does not lessen the ill effects and unfortunate consequences.

"Rather than for this Administration to issue a public statement refuting the statement made by Gen. Hagood, it would seem to be desirable that Gen. Hagood be directed to inform himself regarding the program being carried on by this Administration, and that he issue a public retraction himself. We would be very glad, indeed, to provide Gen. Hagood with the necessary information."

The letter was written by Williams while Hopkins was in Florida.

The Pennsylvania situation was called to the attention of Hopkins by Senator Vandenberg. The Senator charged that Harry W. Fee, Democratic chairman of Indiana County, had written to persons of WPA relief asking for contributions as high as $27. In a letter to relief workers he told them if they did not contribute they would not be considered for further appointment after the works program ended, it is charged.

"It would appear a reasonable assumption that this pillage is a general practice," Vandenberg wrote.

Hopkins replied with documentary evidence that employes had been told they need not contribute to any fund, but that employes would not be prohibited from making voluntary contributions. Hopkins said only $1.25 had been paid as a result of the solicitation.

Hopkins said a Republican organization offered relief workers as much as $25 apiece for copies of the Fee letter.

Hopkins said the planned reduction in WPA rolls from 3,037,440 at present to 2,310,100 by July 1 was part of the original plan.

"As other agencies on larger projects go up, ours goes down," he said. They are scheduled to go up to 400,000 by July 1."

He said that rolls could be reduced as farmers on relief go back to work and that the normal reduction in WPA rolls has been about 3 per cent per month. He said between 250,000 and 300,000 persons were working for WPA who had not been on relief and that some of these would be removed. He said he had not noted that reported increased unemployment had added to the relief problem.

2 Are Killed as Plane Crashes on Mountains

Rich Mountain, Ark., March 5 (AP). Two men killed in the crash of a private plane that burned on Rich Mountain today were identified as Harley E. Woodward, 34, millionaire oil man of Houston, Tex., and his cousin, Edward Martin, Daisetta, Tex., through personal effects found in the wreckage.

Militia Ready In Puerto Rico Revolt Threat

Mobilized After Arrest of 7 in Nationalist Plot; Bomb Seized.

By the Associated Press.

San Juan, Puerto Rico, March 5 National Guard units, mobilized in barracks after discovery of an alleged Nationalist plot to over throw the insular government, awaited further orders tonight as seven Nationalists were released under $10,000 bond each.

Police continued their investigation which led to the arrest of Pedro Albizu Campos, asserted leader of the conspiracy, and six followers.

The official investigation disclosed a loaded rifle and a bomb, together with 50 wooden drilling guns and recruiting cards headed "Army of Liberation, General Headquarters."

The Nationalists were charged with conspiracy to overthrow the insular United States Government, inciting insurrection and recruiting soldiers.

Albizu is known as the leader of the movement which seeks to establish independence for Puerto Rico. He is a graduate of Harvard.

He surrendered as soon as he learned United States Marshal Draughon held a warrant for his arrest. With the other prisoners, he was taken before United States Commissioner Ramon Julia, entered pleas of innocence for all seven and completed arrangements for bond.

In Washington, Secretary of the Interior Ickes, whose department administers the affairs of Puerto Rico, said Albizu is "a very dangerous person" and the Government should prosecute him for treason.

The arrests followed filing of affidavits by police and detectives telling of Nationalists' efforts to enlist and drill recruits. The official charges also detailed a speech by Albizu last December in which he suggested that if the military insular forces could be called out, the Nationalists could make the question of insular independence an international one.

A grand jury investigation into the alleged conspiracy is to be called next week. The jury will inquire also into the assassination of Col. E. Francis Riggs, head of the insular police, shot down February 23. Two suspects in Riggs' slaying were killed later by police, who said the prisoners attempted to draw guns while being questioned.

Nationalist activities in the island recently came under the scrutiny of Department of Justice agents, who surveyed the efforts of the party to promote island independence.

The official inquiry began after 12 persons were killed and more than 100 injured during the election registration in January.

Faces Treason Charge.

By the Associated Press.

Secretary Ickes announced yesterday that Pedro Albizu Campos, self-styled "President of the Puerto Rican Republic," will be prosecuted for treason against the United States.

The alleged "rebel" chieftain, known as "Albizu" among Puerto Ricans, was described by Ickes, whose Interior Department has supervision of the island government, as "a very dangerous person."

"He is not only opposed to United States sovereignty over Puerto Rico," Ickes said, "but believes—and has tried to make his followers believe—that Puerto Rico is an independent country."

The Department of Justice, following Ickes' statement, announced last night that A. Cecil Snyder, United States attorney for Puerto Rico, had been authorized to take any action necessary.

Earlier yesterday, Dr. Ernest Gruening, chief of the Interior Department's Division of Territories and Insular Affairs, emphasized that "the Administration proposes to maintain law and order in Puerto Rico."

"Assassinations," he asserted, "will not be tolerated."

Street Workmen Repair Cold and Snow Damage

Damage caused to the District streets by the recent cold and snows is being repaired by 15 gangs sent out by the Highway Department. Most of the work is in "flat patching" the roadway, which was damaged by automobile tire chains and the breaking of pavement by freezing and thawing.

"In spite of the cold, the streets are in pretty good condition," said Len Robinson, acting head of the Highway Department.

Hauptmann's Chances Ended, Says Hoffman

By the Associated Press.

Trenton, N. J., March 5.—Bruno Richard Hauptmann must die four weeks hence for the Lindbergh baby killing unless new evidence is discovered, Gov. Harold G. Hoffman said today.

"As matters now stand," the Governor said, "there will be no further reprieve."

Reports have mounted recently that the Governor, who stayed Hauptmann's execution January 16, 29 hours before he was to go to the electric chair, would again prolong the life of the convicted kidnap-murderer. One of these reports emanated from a high prosecution source.

Attitude Unchanged.

"I haven't the legal right to give Hauptmann another reprieve," the Governor said in New York. "The 90 days from his sentence in December will have expired by the date set for his electrocution.

"My attitude of January 17 is unchanged. Unless something arises that will bring Mr. Wilentz (Attorney General David T. Wilentz) and myself into agreement to go before Justice Trenchard based on new evidence, there will not be a reprieve."

The Governor's reprieve power, in the light of this statement, would expire March 12. The Supreme Court of the United States rejected Hauptmann's appeal for a review of his case on December 9, and four days later Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Trenchard, who presided at the trial, fixed a new date for execution. The present date was fixed February 19.

Hauck Statement.

Taking cognizance of the reports a new reprieve would be signed, Prosecutor Anthony M. Hauck, jr., of Hunterdon County, where Hauptmann was convicted February 13, 1935, had indicated he would challenge the Governor's right to stay Hauptmann's execution.

The Governor, apparently with this in mind, said:

"Those who were going to challenge my right to give Hauptmann another reprieve have been barking at the moon. The question of the challenge has not yet appeared because no reprieve is in prospect now."

Fascist Youth Is Ready For War, Says Leader

Rome, March 5 (AP).—Vezzio Orazi, Fascist chieftain of the Lazio division of Italy, today told thousands of Fascists celebrating the recent Italian successes in Ethiopia:

"The victories in Africa are a triumph of Fascist youth. We will face with equal courage a battle against the European line-up."

Bosco the Bear Takes a Holiday Until D. C. Cowboy Twirls Rope

Bounding Bosco, the bear, and Billy, the goat, got into trouble with the Eleventh Precinct Police yesterday.

Probably scenting spring and longing for his native Ontario woods, Bosco, mascot at the Randle Stables on Mount Dome, at Thirty-fourth street and Pennsylvania avenue southeast, somehow slipped his chain and trotted through the sparse woods around the stables, giving the seven blooded horses who are his buddies the bear equivalent of "au revoir."

His lumbering progress met no opposition until he appeared in the yard of Richard Selby, 20, of 2917 N street southeast.

Armed with a rope Selby lassoed Bosco, and Bosco, more frightened than anything else, bit Selby in the arm. Children, gathered for Bosco's roundup, cheered, and a startled Negro youth climbed a tree.

"Put distance between me and that old bear," he shouted.

Bosco, who is the property of Stanley Lawson, superintendent of the stables owned by U. S. Randle, sportsman and realtor, was purchased from Canada as a pet. He has a reputation for geniality, and drinks milk and sometimes stronger liquids from a bottle.

"I can vouch for Bosco's character, for I've known him ever since he's been around my stables," asserted Randle yesterday.

"Why, look—even the horses are crazy about him!

"He's a great pal. Bears are grand pets, and if Bosco was at all vicious I'd send him to the Zoo."

Bosco eats honey, meat and mush, and his table manners are excellent. After his capture he welcomed Randle, who gave him a cookie.

Police said they would press no charges against Bosco, inasmuch as he was simply on a holiday and had character witnesses, such as his owner, Randle, and any number of men, women and children who have been amused by his antics.

The troubles of Billy, the goat, however, led him to Eleventh Precinct Jail, where, at a late hour last night, he remained unable to furnish either owner or bail.

Possibly inspired by the fierce goat pictures on the Bock beer signs, Billy took a ramble, and soon mothers were calling up from the 4400 block of Alabama avenue southeast.

"There's a goat in our neighborhood, and we're afraid for the children," they told police.

Eubanks and Oppert again were pressed into service. Oppert discovered Billy sampling a few canapes, which for goats are tin cans flavored with grass.

"Shoo—" yelled Eubanks, and Oppert caught Billy by the horns.

Billy took captivity philosophically last night. His white beard quivered like that of an outraged grandee, but otherwise he was calm.

Janet Esch Is Hurt In Fall From Auto

Miss Janet Esch, 25, the daughter of George Esch, an attorney with the Interstate Commerce Commission, was seriously injured yesterday when she fell from an automobile on the Tamiami trail near Vienna, Fla.

Miss Esch, who lives at 2908 Brandywine street, Chevy Chase, was vacationing in Florida with a group of friends from New York City.

On a motor ride yesterday she was thrown from the car when she attempted to close a door which had opened. She is in the Florida Medical Center for treatment of a fractured skull.

Dr. W. H. Haskins, who is attending her, said she had an even chance of recovery. Her father left for Florida soon after word of the accident was received.

American Red Betrays Chief, Leaps to Death

By the Associated Press.

Rio de Janeiro, March 5.—A young American Communist chose death today when he learned information he had given police resulted in arrest of Luiz Carlos Prestes, famous Brazilian revolutionary and long a fugitive.

Victor Allan Barron, 26, listed as a son of Harrison George, said to be an international Communist of the United States, leaped three floors to death in police headquarters.

Shortly before 53 government agents had surrounded the pajama-clad Prestes in a home here and arrested him, guns leveled.

"Don't shoot me," Prestes cried. "I am not a dynamiter! I'll give up!"

When told Prestes, "bearded knight of hope" of the Sao Paulo revolt of 1924, had been seized, Barron leaped.

He had been held since January, accused of an important part in last November's revolt under Prestes by operating a clandestine wireless set with which calls went out to Leftists in northern provinces to revolt.

The outbreak was short but bloody.

After "persistent questioning," police said, Barron called for a map of Rio de Janeiro and put his finger on the spot where he said Prestes and a blonde named Olga sought refuge three months ago.

Authorities had told the United States Embassy that if Barron would tell them where Prestes could be found they would free him to return to the United States.

The American Consulate said Barron registered there August 8, 1935, saying that he was born in Portland, Oreg., and was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Barron, of San Francisco.

German Tells War 'Success' In Trial as Spy

By the Associated Press.

London, March 5.—A German accused of espionage in England, Dr. Hermann Gortz, in Old Bailey today described his "great success" in questioning American, French and British pilots during the war.

He denied, however, he was engaged or contemplated engaging in post-war secret service work.

Got U. S. Air Force Data.

Dr. Gortz said his war duty was to question "brought-down pilots."

He explained that in 1918 "Development of the American air force was most interesting to us. My duty was to find out how quickly the Americans could build up an air force."

"My method was successful," he continued. "I generally treated every 'brought-down' pilot as a gentleman and my comrade. I invited them to dinner or lunch and, in the excitement, they told me really more than I wanted to know."

"Not at all," replied Gortz when asked whether his activities in the Verdun sector constituted "espionage or secret service work."

Later the defendant said secret service agents do "quite different things" from intelligence officers, for "they go abroad and try to get secret information."

His attorney then asked: "Have you ever applied for secret service employment?"

"I have never thought of such a thing," Gortz replied.

Documents had been introduced which the crown said were applications by Gortz to the German air ministry in 1935 for secret service work.

Girl Pictured as Aid.

The Government, charging Gortz violated the official secrets act, contends he had British air force documents in his cottage near an air field last year and had been aided in espionage work by an attractive young woman, posing as his niece, who fled the country.

Gortz argues that he was merely collecting material for a "great novel."

After the war, he said, he practiced law in the United States, but "I refused to become an American citizen and had to return to Hamburg." He had applied to the German air ministry since then for work as "an intelligence officer," but not in the secret service, he said, explaining:

"I pointed out in one document that I had good acquaintances, especially in America. I was thinking of duty in the German Embassy. Therefore I pointed out that I still had good connections, especially in America, because there I made the acquaintance of some former pilots I interrogated as prisoners."

Snag Reported As Hirota Gets Japanese Helm

By the Associated Press.

London (Friday), March 6.—A Reuters (British) News Agency dispatch from Tokyo said today a deadlock had been reached in formation of a cabinet by Premier-designate Hirota because of non-co-operation of military groups.

Tokyo, March 5 (AP).—Koki Hirota, veteran foreign minister, made marked progress tonight toward forming a new cabinet to succeed the one shattered last week by bullets from army revolvers.

Several hours after he had been summoned to the imperial palace by Emperor Hirohito and entrusted with the task, he announced he had filled more than half the posts, assured of support from many quarters.

His selections were Koki Hirota, premier; Shigeru Voshida, foreign affairs; Osami Nagado, navy; Count Juichi Terauchi, war; Eeichi Baba, president of the Hypothec Bank, finance; Tamikichi Kawasaki, home, and Naoshi Obara, justice.

Murahei Yuasa was appointed to succeed Viscount Admiral Makoto Saito, assassinated, as lord keeper of the privy seal, and Tsuneo Matsudaira was named minister of the imperial household, to succeed Yuasa.

A Surprise Selection.

Hirota, a surprise selection, has been popular with a majority of the army and navy blocs, although occasionally he has opposed expansionist plans. He was more acceptable to rightists, too, because of a strong statement of foreign policy to the Diet January 21.

(In this speech Hirota scored Soviet rearmament, called upon China to regain "active and effective collaboration with Japan" and to recognize Manchukuo, and promised that the "friendly policy" of Japan toward the United States and Great Britain would not be altered by developments at the London Naval Conference.

Yoshida, foreign minister designate, was once Ambassador to Italy and formerly served on the staff of the embassy in Washington.

Backed by Okada Foe.

Army leaders were quoted as saying Hirota would be acceptable. Yonezo Maeda, leader of the strong Seiyukai Party, which has vigorously opposed Premier Okada, was understood to have agreed to support Hirota. Businessmen generally welcomed the selection.

The Diplomatic Corps was pleasantly surprised. Consensus was that Hirota would attempt a conciliatory course and that his premiership probably would prove an aid to peace.

War Menace Laid To Great Powers

Oslo, Norway, March 5 (AP).—Dr. Johan Ludwig Mowinckel, former premier of Norway and former president of the League of Nations Council, charged today that the big powers were increasing the danger of war.

He said the conditions under which Norway entered the League of Nations were broken by the big powers' armament and secret treaties.

He made the statement in a vigorous debate in the Storting (Parliament) concerning Norway's obligations toward the League.

"It is doubtful," declared the veteran statesman, "as to whether Norway can continue her traditional neutrality and maintain her isolation if war breaks out.

"If there is war, all Scandinavian countries should issue a joint declaration refusing to follow Europe's war path."

Russia Warns Japan to Settle Mongol Dispute

Early Accord Held Necessary After Stalin Pledges Arms for Defense.

By the Associated Press.

Moscow, March 5.—Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet foreign commissar, today informed Japan that Soviet Russia considers immediate steps to settle differences between Manchukuo and Outer Mongolia necessary for strengthening friendly Soviet-Japanese relations.

His statement, made to the Japanese Ambassador, Tamekichi Ota followed publication today of a declaration by Soviet Leader Stalin that Russia would go to Mongolia's aid in case that country was invaded.

Ota called at the foreign office to give assurances that the recent Japanese revolt will not alter Japan's foreign policy.

Ota said he had been instructed to suggest speedy negotiations for a friendly solution of all outstanding questions with the Soviet Republic.

Particularly urgent, Ota said, was formulation of a new fisheries convention to replace the convention expiring this year.

Heaters Approved.

Winchester, Va., March 5.—New heating plants will be installed in public schools at Stephens City and Middletown, Va., as a result of action taken at a meeting of the Frederick County School Board, here, yesterday, Leslie D. Kline, superintendent, announced. During the extreme cold of the winter, heating plants in both buildings proved inadequate, it was said.

Empress Nogako, 33 Today, Waits Loss of Son to Empire

Toddling Crown Prince This Year Will Be Taken to Live in His Own 'Palace' Under Spartan Soldier Code.

By the Associated Press.

Tokyo, March 5.—Empress Nogako enters the thirty-fourth year of her life tomorrow—the year in which she must surrender her infant first-born son to the empire.

Official observance of her birthday has been postponed indefinitely because of the present uncertain political situation.

Before the year has ended, toddling Crown Prince Akihito Tsugu-No-Miya—who some day will become Emperor—will leave the house of his parents to live henceforth under the stern rule of military tutors in study of Japan's Spartan soldier code.

Saturday, also without ceremony, will mark the fifth birthday of his sister, Princess Yori, who also soon will leave the imperial household to dwell in her own quarters under chaperonage of high ladies of the land.

The crown prince is 2. Already the imperial architects are drawing plans for his "palace," which will be built in the compound of the ornate Akasaka Palace, a half mile from the imperial residence. It is expected that shortly after his third birthday, next December 23, the little prince will be taken there to rule over his own "court."

From among the military heroes of Japan will be selected his chief tutor who henceforth will direct his education in a strictly masculine household.

The present Emperor, Hirohito, had as his tutor the greatest of Japan's heroes, the late Admiral Count Heihachiro Togo.

There is some indication Gen. Baron Shigeru Hondo, commander of the Japanese forces in Manchuria at the beginning of the conquest there, now aid de camp to the Emperor, may train the little crown prince.

Ahead of little Akihito Tsugu-No-Miya is a life in which he will be allowed few choices.

At 10, he will begin his army and navy careers by receiving commissions as sub-lieutenant in each service, in which he is destined to rise to the ranks of field marshal and admiral of the fleet and commander in chief of all the armed forces of his realm.

At 18, he will be considered to have reached his majority. Finally, he will assume, on death of his father, the takamikura, the august high seat of the empire.

Greek Minister of War Resigns; Disputed King

The controversy arose over the monarch's apparent intention to deal liberally with the officers who participated in the revolt last March against the campaign to conciliate political factions.

Gen. John Mataxas, former cabinet minister and high army official, was named to Pagagos' post.

200 Jewish Refugees Arrive From Germany

New York, March 5 (AP).—Nearly 200 German Jews arrived today aboard the United States liner Washington to make their homes in this country.

Businessmen, lawyers, doctors, dentists and other professional men comprised the group of expatriates, the largest to arrive on a single ship since the exodus of Jews from Germany as a result of Nazi anti-Semitic policies began. They traveled as ordinary quota immigrants.

In interviews several of the refugees said the growth of prejudice against Jews in Germany made it impossible for them to earn a living.

75,000 Demonstrants Cheer Return of Exiles

Beirut, Syria, March 5 (AP).—Crowds of Nationalists, estimated by police to number 75,000, demonstrated in welcome at Damascus yesterday to exiled Nationalists returning under an amnesty granted by the French high commission. The amnesty ended a series of anti-French riots.

A committee of six deputies today presented to Count Damien de Martel, French high commissioner for Syria, a petition asking full restoration of the Syrian constitution, a treaty with France and admission of Syria into the League of Nations.

Roosevelt Launches Campaign

the New Deal a chance to register a protest. Apparently he has no organized backing. The American Liberty League denied any interest in his candidacy.

In Massachusetts Democratic politics have been considerably unsettled because of the repudiation of New Deal policies by former Gov. Joseph B. Ely.

Direct Attack.

Chicago, March 5 (AP).—Republican leaders of "Grassroots" section predicted today they would carry the Midwestern farm belt in November, if the party made its campaign a direct attack on President Roosevelt.

A "decided shift" in sentiment away from the New Deal was claimed by Republican chairmen and committeemen from 15 States. They said the President retained his personal popularity in the minds of many, who "think the Roosevelt heart is in the right place, but that he is being misled by his advisers."

To offset this sentiment, leaders agreed the campaign should be directed "not at the New Deal, not at the Brain Trust, but at the President himself."

"The President appointed the Brain Trusters, and he can remove them at will," declared G. W. Dalton, of Poplar Bluff, Mo., at a conference called to perfect party machinery in the Midwest.

Aside from the Presidential popularity, the conferees said their biggest campaign obstacle was "intimidation" of voters on relief by Democratic office holders.

Communist on Radio.

New York, March 5 (AP).—Every great crisis in American history has required a new political party to solve it, Earl Browder, secretary of the Communist Party, said in an address tonight, and the Communists feel such a party should come in 1936.

Browder was allotted 15 minutes by the Columbia Broadcasting System, in pursuance of its policy of permitting free air time to representatives of established political parties, for discussion of public problems.

"We Communists propose," said Browder, "that in 1936 all workers, farmers and middle-class people should get together to form a Farmer-Labor Party.

"Such a Farmer-Labor Party," he said, "would not require that we all agree on a complete program. It would not take up the full program of Socialism, for which many are not prepared. It would pledge itself to carry out only those few simple measures which millions of Americans are already agreed upon.

Britain Studies War Situation; Eden Gives Data

Foreign Minister Tells Cabinet of Parleys; Baldwin Will Seek Vote.

By the Associated Press.

London, March 5.—The entire western European and East African situations were subjected to a minute review at a special cabinet session today following the return from Geneva of Anthony Eden, foreign secretary.

Eden, said to be pressed by France for an answer to the delicate question of exactly what the British propose to do in case Germany fortifies the Rhineland, gave full reports of developments at Geneva and in Paris.

Simultaneously, government opponents prepared to bombard the huge new British defense plan in House of Commons debate Monday.

Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin, stung by a preliminary barrage of criticism of the plan, decided to ask a vote of confidence. Labor in turn approved a strongly worded motion of censure to be introduced Monday.

In the face of repeated demands for the cost of the defense scheme and who will be the new minister to co-ordinate it, Baldwin steadily refused details, as did Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer.

This led the opposition to make lobby charges that Britain is being asked to sign a "blank check to enter an armaments race."

Chamberlain said because of the flexible character of the program, together with the undetermined rate of execution, it was impossible even to approximate the total cost.

The magazine Cavalcade said the program will cost "nearer £400,000,000 (about $2,000,000,000) than the estimated £300,000,000 and will be spread over a period of from five to six years." It declared secrecy is being kept because "the government is afraid of Left and foreign opinion."

Baldwin refused a suggestion in Commons that an imperial conference be called to consider the rearmament plan.

Japan Cheers Delegates Who Quit Naval Parley

Kobe, Japan, March 5 (AP).—Japan gave a hero's welcome today to Admiral Osami Nagano and Matsuzo Nagai on their arrival from London after their spectacular withdrawal from the international naval conference because the other nations declined to accept Japan's proposals for full fleet equality. Crowds on the pier and in the streets cheered the former delegates.

Admiral Nagano said in a statement, "Beginning in 1937, naval limitation treaties are terminated and thereafter we will be beset with many difficulties. All people must unite to promote the empire's well-being and to cope with future developments."

King Edward Visits Slums in Glasgow

Glasgow, Scotland, March 5 (AP).—King Edward VIII climaxed a visit to the new liner Queen Mary today with a tour of an overcrowded slum district during which he was asked by a 5-year-old boy, "Are you really the new King?"

Edward, patting the little questioner, Charles Storrie, on the head, replied: "Yes, little man, I am."

The King visited six flats near the center of the city and inquired especially as to the question of overcrowding. He knocked on the door of each and asked: "May I come in?"

At Clydebank, 2,000 workmen on the giant new liner cheered the King as "good old Teddy"—his Scottish nickname for Edward. For nearly three hours, the new ruler walked about the partly completed ship.

of the real estate men to accept a fair offer we made in City Hall."

He continued to hold forth an offer to call off the strike if the realty board would agree to arbitration.

Merritt, however, said the building owners refused to grant wage increases "at the point of a pistol," and added:

"The employers rejected the closed shop because they felt that elevator service was of such vital necessity to the service that it should not be subject to the uncontrolled power of monopoly, at the hands of a militant union, the officers of which openly threatened and encouraged force and violence."

Mayor F. H. La Guardia was plainly disgusted by the collapse of the peace parley. He urged building operators to negotiate for independent settlements with the union. Many have followed that course.

Unofficially, it was learned from union sources that the Empire State, Chrysler and Rockefeller Center buildings would not be hit by the strike. They were described as not sufficiently organized.

About a dozen appeals for National Guard or extra police protection were telegraphed to Gov. Herbert H. Lehman during the day by apartment dwellers and real estate operators.

The telegrams were referred to Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine.

Reverberations of the strike reached the floor of the State Assembly where a Republican member criticized the Governor for what he termed a "lack of interest" in the situation.

Behind closed doors, District Attorney William C. Dodge questioned Bambrick and George Scalise, vice president of the International Union, about what the prosecutor considered inflammatory remarks.

Afterward, Dodge said the labor men had promised they would choose their words carefully so as not to incite their followers to violence.

"Nobody is going to create any disorder while I am district attorney," said Dodge.

Most of the day's developments, prior to tonight's new strike orders, were verbal.

There was action on some scattered fronts, however, resulting in half a dozen arrests for disorderly conduct or assault.

Strike Leader Bambrick announced receipt of encouraging words from the American Federation of Labor and the Greater New York Federation of Churches.

"I know the general public will be with us," he said.

Governor Gets Pleas.

Albany, N. Y., March 5 (AP).—About a dozen appeals for National Guard or increased police protection have been telegraphed to Gov. Herbert H. Lehman by apartment dwellers and real estate owners involved in the Building Service Employes' strike in New York City, the Governor's office reported today.

Italo-German Move to Smash Pact Forecast

Copyright, 1936, by the Associated Press.

Berlin, March 5.—Germany and Italy, drawing together in the current European crisis, may jointly denounce the Locarno treaty guaranteeing peace in Western Europe, a high government official said today.

International developments during the next week, this official added, will determine whether Reichsfuehrer Hitler and Premier Mussolini will break away from the pact, contending it has been violated by France and Great Britain.

(The Locarno treaty was signed in 1925 by Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy and Belgium and provides for mutual assistance against aggression.)

This official disclosed for the first time this was a principal subject of secret negotiations between Germany and Italy.

Italy and Germany, this source asserted, disagreed on many things, but both believe France and Great Britain have violated the spirit, if not the letter, of the Locarno pact.

Germany contends the Franco-Soviet mutual assistance pact is a violation, while Italy resents the mutual Mediterranean defensive agreement against Italy reached by Britain, France and several other powers.

The official refused to intimate what steps Italy would take if the pact is denounced, but frankly said Germany would feel free to act in the demilitarized Rhineland when she felt the time to be ripe.

The Reich will act as her own interests dictate, not as other nations want her to act, he added.

Paris, March 5. (AP).—French officials said tonight they were gravely concerned by the possibility of impending collapse of the Locarno Treaty, but for a long time, had been considering a substitute.

Franco-British efforts to get an air and naval pact, coupled with the Franco-Soviet mutual assistance treaty and affiliations with Danubian counties are designed to reinforce the Locarno pact, but nevertheless answer much the same purpose, they declared.

Suspect Survives 3-Story Plunge

John Leonard Grimes, colored, 28, arrested Saturday night as a holdup suspect, was recovering yesterday in Gallinger Hospital after leaping from a third-floor window at police headquarters Wednesday. Grimes was being questioned in connection with the murder of another Negro during a holdup of a grocery store on Ninth street northwest more than a week ago, when he broke away from his police guard and dived through the window.

X-ray pictures disclosed Grimes did not have a fractured back as was first thought. He will be released from the hospital in a few days, physicians said.

Selassie Accepts League Plea

agree to cessation of hostilities on terms suggested by Geneva, but even if Italy also agrees little progress can be expected in the peace discussions if we are asked to cede territory.

"We still are not beaten," he said, "and can still fight for years. Therefore, we are not willng to cede anything to Italy."

Italian Approval ndicated.

Rome, March 5 (AP).—A qualified Italian acceptance of the League of Nations appeal for peace in Africa was indicated tonight by informed sources.

An official said, however, Ethiopia's agreement to conciliate would not "stampede" this country into an early reply.

It is considered unlikely that Premier Mussolini will reply prior to Saturday's cabinet session. Should Italy agree to discussions, it will be only on a basis of her "conquest and sacrifices," an informed source said.

(Emperor Haile Selassie cabled Geneva today an unqualified acceptance of the peace plea whereby negotiations would begin immediately under League sponsorship. Italy has until next Tuesday to answer.)

Would Keep Territory.

Italy's principal contention will be, it is understood, that territory already occupied by her in Ethiopia must be considered her property and not subject to the peace talks.

Italy also was believed ready to contend that it would not be possible to have an immediate cessation of hostilities.

While Fascist officials worked over the peace proposal, they also conferred with Prince Ernest von Starhemberg, vice chancellor of Austria. Fulvio Suvich, under secretary for foreign affairs, was closeted with the Austrain leader this morning and he was received this afternoon by Il Duce himself.

All outstanding problems of the European crisis were studied, it was understood.

These included a possible Italo-German rapproachment and the forthcoming Italo-Austro-Hungarian conference here beginning March 18 on Danubian problems.

An official comunique today said 346 of the 60,000 workmen in East Africa died between January 1, 1935, and February 29, 1936.

William Bade, Finder of Lost Mizpah, Is Dead

Palestine Institute Head Was Known for Work in Other Fields.

By the Associated Press.

Berkeley, Calif., March 5.—Dr. William F. Bade, 65, discoverer of the lost city of Mizpah in Palestine, died last night after a paralytic stroke.

As director of the Palestine Institute, Dr. Bade directed the work that determined the location of the ruins. He returned here last August.

Dr. Bade, a native of Carver, Minn., was professor of Semitic literature and comparative literature at the Pacific School of Religion.

William Frederic Bade was eminent in three fields of study. He was recognized as an authority on the Old Testament. He was known as a biologist, and as the literary heir of John Muir, the naturalist, and was credited with having added much to modern knowledge of ancient times through his archeological work in Palestine and in other lands.

Bade's scientific and religious research, he held, did not develop conflict between science and religion. As a professor in the Pacific School of Religion, Berkeley, Calif., Bade subscribed to the belief that physical man evolved from lower forms of life, but that at some point in the line of ascent there came into being a moral consciousness, which marked the spiritual birth of man.

A long friendship with Muir, during which Bade assisted the famous naturalist in the presentation of some of his notable works, led to his being named literary executor in Muir's will. He published Muir's letters and wrote his biography. He edited Muir's "A Thousand-Mile Walk to the Gulf" in 1916, the "Cruise of the Corwin" in 1917 and "Steep Trails" in 1918.

"The Old Testament in the Light of Today" was probably the most widely read of Bade's biblical works.

Bade did his first archeological excavation abroad in 1925-26. In 1927 he returned to Palestine, locating and uncovering the ruins of what was believed to be the historical city of Mizpah. Pottery and other relics which he unearthed at that time helped to confirm, he believed, Old Testament history of civilizations, both before and after the invasion of the Canaanites. His finding of the skull of a woman showing indications of modern hair dressing modes was received by the press as the discovery of a "bobbed haired Venus."

Col. W. R. Doores Burial Tomorrow

Funeral services for Col. William R. Doores, 64, U. S. A. retired, who died Wednesday at his home, 5913 Thirty-second street, will be held tomorrow in Arlington National Cemetery with full military honors. The hour will be announced later.

Born in Washington, Col. Doores entered the Army as a lieutenant during the Spanish-American War and served in Puerto Rico. After the war he served as an artillery officer at various posts both in the United States and in the Philippines, where he was stationed during the World War. His last post was in Erie, Pa.; in 1932 he retired from the service.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Emily Doores, a daughter, Miss Emily Doores; a son, William R. Doores, jr., and a sister, Mrs. Annie B. Johnston, all of this city.

Twin Scotties Lost.

MRS. JULIAN C. DORR.

Mrs. Dorr Dead; U. S. Consul's Wife

Mrs. Julian Childe Dorr, 37, wife of J. C. Dorr, United States Consul in Mexico City, died of a heart attack in that city Tuesday, it was learned here yesterday. Her body will be cremated and the ashes brought to Washington for interment in Arlington.

Mrs. Dorr, a former resident of this city, was married here February 25, 1921, to Mr. Dorr, then a newspaperman. After their marriage, Dorr entered the State Department and was transferred to Czechoslovakia. His next post was in Genoa, where they lived for eight years. After a short stay in the Barbadoes, British West Indies, Mr. Dorr was transferred to Mexico City.

Dorr will not be able to attend the burial here because of a collapse.

Maj. and Mrs. George D. Shea and Maj. and Mrs. Thomas B. Woodburn, sisters of Mrs. Dorr, arrived here yesterday from Fort Leavenworth, Kans., and Governor's Island, New York, respectively, to await services.

Other survivors include Lora Rita Dorr, daughter; Joseph B. and John M. Manheim, brothers; Hinda Manheim and Mrs. John J. Brauner, sisters, and Mr. and Mrs. I. B. Manheim, Mrs. Dorr's parents.

AUGUST G. HERRMANN.

J. Preston Shannon, D.C. Salesman, Dies

J. Preston Shannon, a real estate salesman for many years, died yesterday at his home, 3538 Park road northwest, after a long illness.

He was born in Baltimore in 1869. He came to Washington when he was 13 years of age. After he left school he engaged in the real estate business.

He is survived by his wife; four daughters, Edith and Beryl Shannon, Mrs. Fred Krockenbrink and Mrs. John Ray; a son, Frank Shannon, and a brother, Herbert Shannon.

Funeral services will be held at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow in St. Gabriel's Church.

G. Q. Houlehan, Safety Employe Of I. C. C., Dead

George Q. Houlehan, 70, employe of the Bureau of Safety in the Interstate Commerce Commission, died yesterday in the Georgetown University Hospital.

Born in Gardiner, Me., June 18, 1866, Houlehan came to Washington about 1890, when he took a position in the Patent Office.

In 1898 he transferred to the Interstate Commerce, where he was employed at the time of his death. His home was at 1619 Hobart street northwest.

He was a member of the Sacred Heart Catholic Church. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. George Houlehan, and two sisters, Mrs. Walter Welch, of Summerville, Mass., and Miss Margie Houlehan, and one brother, William Houlehan, both of Gardiner, Me.

Funeral services will be held Monday morning at 10 o'clock from the Sacred Heart Catholic Church. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Roosevelt Will Start Fishing Trip March 19

By the Associated Press.

President Roosevelt is expected to leave Washington about March 19 for his annual fishing cruise in Florida waters.

He was understood to be planning a stop at Warm Springs, Ga., to visit his winter home and the Warm Springs Foundation. From there the President presumably will go to a Florida port to board the new Presidential vessel—the Potomac.

A. G. Herrmann, Long Southeast Leader, Dies

Retired Business Man Was Stricken Unexpectedly; Rites Tomorrow.

In 1932 a nervous breakdown forced his retirement from business and from all other public activities. At that time the association gave a celebration in his honor attended by the District Commissioners and other officials. As an expression of gratitude for his long service, the citizenry of the southeast dubbed him "mayor."

Health Regained.

Though he had been in poor health at the time of retirement, Herrmann had recovered and until a few hours before his death was in better health than he had enjoyed during the last ten years.

He returned home from an automobile drive early Wednesday evening and a few minutes after entering the house suffered a stroke. He died at 7:15 a. m. yesterday.

Herrmann was born August 29, 1862, at Upper Marlboro, Md., but his family moved to Washington when he was six months old and the city had been his residence since.

In 1874 his father, John F. Herrmann, who died in 1927, founded the Herrmann Bottling Works, subsequently to become the Herrman Ginger Ale Co.

The younger Herrmann became a partner in th efirm in 1885 and its sole owner in 1902. A corporation was formed to operate the business in 1932, Herrmann retaining the title of president while the actual operation fell to his son, William F. Herrmann, as vice president and treasurer.

Herrmann's business interests embraced other fields. He at one time held directorships in the Oriental Building Association and the National Capital Bank.

Though his principal civic activities were with the citizens association and the fight for Eastern High School and other projects for the development of Southeast Washington, Herrmann was widely known in Masonic circles.

Active in Masonry.

He was a member of the Lebanon Lodge, a past high priest of Naval Chapter, R. A. M., a member of the DeMolay Commandery of the Knights Templar, the Almas Temple of the Shrine and the Kallipolis Grotto.

He also belonged to the Elks and the Board of Trade and held a life membership in the Congressional Country Club.

The funeral will be held at the residence at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow. The burial will be in Cedar Hill Cemetery.

Surviving in addition to his son, are his wife, Annie S. (Miller) Herrmann; a daughter, Mrs. Feda E. Murray; two grandchildren, Herrmann and Dorothy Murray; three sisters, Mrs. Emma K. Schlotterbeck, Mrs. Claus J. Schwartz and Miss Margaret Herrmann, and two brothers, Charles F. and Ferdinand E. Herrmann, all of Washington.

Holt Charges 2 U. S. Officials Were Lobbyists

Claims Coal Concern Paid Pair; One a Member of Coal Commission.

By the Associated Press.

Senator Holt (Democrat), West Virginia, charged in the Senate yesterday that two West Virginians now holding Federal positions had been "lobbyists" for the Appalachian Coals, Inc.

In addition, he inserted three letters in the Record. One, written he said by a "lobbyst," mentioned the "attitude" taken on an undisclosed matter by a man identified only as "McIntyre." Marvin M. McIntyre is a White House secretary.

Varying his recent attacks on the West Virginia Works Progress Administration and persons he termed "bosses" in the distribution of State WPA jobs, Holt yesterday centered his fire upon C. E. Smith, a member of the National Bituminous Coal Commisson, and Walter R. Thurmond, collector of internal revenue in the State.

Holt said that Smith, prior to his appointment to the coal board, and while secretary of the International Joint Commission at a $5,000 annual salary, "became a lobbyist for the Appalachian Coals, Inc." He introduced a letter he said was written by the corporation last April 1, addressed to Smith and inclosing a check for $197.06, "covering your expenses for the week of March 24."

Holt put into the record a letter he said was sent by Smith to former United States Senator C. W. Watson, of West Virginia, at a New York hotel March 8, 1935, stating that C. B. Huntress, of Appalachian Coals, had told Thurmond that he and Smith "would not be needed here next week."

The letter also stated:

"Confirming my telephone call this morning, I am afraid you are right that Guffey (presumably Senator Guffey, of Pennsylvania) has taken too much for granted. When I got in touch with him he immediately made a luncheon engagement with the President for Monday and will insist that his bill is in keeping with the President's message concerning coal, oil and gas.

"Guffey is inclined to minimize McIntyre's attitude, but as I told you, he will talk it out with him later today."

Holt then offered a letter he said was signed by Thurmond and addressed to Smith in Washington March 12, 1935, which stated:

"I am very glad that Senator Watson feels that I can be of some service down there, but he told me that when I was employed, and I believe it was in your presence, that I would be subject to the orders of Mr. Huntress."

The Senator said Thurmond was holding "nightly conferences" with Abe Forsythe, district director of the WPA in Parkersburg about the distribution of WPA jobs and that "Thurmond dictates who shall be put on the pay roll in Logan County."

Holt said he would have more to say next week about "the big boys."

Railroads Ask Long Extension Of Surcharges

I.C.C. Told Carriers Need Revenue; Present Set-up Expires July 1.

By the Associated Press.

Testimony that the need for emergency freight surcharges "will continue for a long time" was received at an Interstate Commerce Commission hearing yesterday on an application by railroads for indefinite extension of the charges.

The testimony was given by C. E. Johnston, president of the Kansas City Southern Railway, who added that railroads "need more revenue and need it badly."

The emergency surcharges scheduled to expire July 1 are estimated to yield the railroads $104,500,000 of additional revenue annually.

If the railroads "are to be maintained as the backbone of our transportation system," Johnston testified, "we must go into the vitals of the trouble.

"We seem entirely to overlook, not only the fact that it is utterly impossible for many important railroads to operate at a profit under existing conditions but also that generally speaking the railroads have piled up and are continuing to pile up, deferred maintenance in physical property."

Carriers' Suit Sustained.

Attacked by the Nation's leading class 1 railroads, the railroad retirement act suffered its first reverse in the District Supreme Court yesterday when Justice Jennings Bailey held the motion of the Government to dismiss the carriers' suit, should be overruled.

More than 130 of the class 1 railroads joined in an attack on the act. They claimed it was unconstitutional and asked that the Government, or more particularly, the retirement board, be restrained from placing the act into effect.

The Government met this attack with the assertion the board had not yet begun to function and could not, therefore, be restrained. With that assertion, Justice Jennings Bailey failed to agree. He said that "the court can assume that the members of the Railroad Retirement Board will attempt to carry out the duties imposed upon them by the act."

Dick Powell Loses Voice Recovery Expected Soon

Hollywood, March 5 (AP).—Dick Powell, film singer and actor, lost his voice today.

Powell rushed from the studio headed for a physician, fearful his vocal power had vanished for good. His trouble, however, was diagnosed as laryngitis. He was advised proper treatment will restore his voice in a few days.

Browder Urges Red Revolution In Radio Talk

By the United Press.

New York, March 5.—Comrade Earl Browder, former Kansas accountant, now absolute head of American Communists, tonight pledged everyone jobs paying $36 to $230 a week within two months if a majority votes the Communist ticket in the November election.

Browder, dark-visaged secretary of the Communist Party—the office Joseph Stalin holds in Russia—spoke over a Columbia national network. Columbia gave him free time on the air as part of its policy to recognize each legally registered political party, despite protests.

Six New England broadcasting stations, comprising the Yankee network and controlled by John Shepard 3d, of Boston, declined to broadcast Browder's speech.

The Yankee network is affiliated with Columbia, but it is controlled by Shepard, Columbia officials said. It is the privilege of any individual station to decline an item on the Columbia program, they added. They had heard of no other affiliated stations refusing to relay Browder's speech.

The Communist leader, whose tooth-brush mustache and black forelock are reminiscent of Adolf Hitler, proposed a common political front of all workers in a new Farmer-Labor Party to accomplish the Communist program.

"It would not yet take up the full program of socialism, for which many are not yet prepared," he said. "It would pledge itself to carry out only those few simple measures which millions of people are already agreed upon."

But his ultimate aim, he stated frankly, is to re-make the United States "along the lines of the highly successful Soviet Union, on the basis of socialism."

Will this program include violence, confiscation of wealth and bloody revolution, as in Russia?

"When we have the support of the majority of the toiling people," Browder said, "we will put that program into effect with the same firmness, the same determination, with which Washington and the founding fathers carried through the revolution that established our country, with the same thoroughness with which Lincoln abolished chattel slavery."

Boycott Urged.

Grosvenor Dawe, director of the Plain Talk Institute, tonight appealed for a boycott of all advertisers of Columbia Broadcasting System because Earl Browder, secretary of the American Communist Party, spoke over the radio chain.

In a telegram to William S. Paley, president of the Columbia System, Dawe protested against the "prostitution and inexcusable abuse of the privileges accorded the Columbia Broadcasting System through grant of the franchise of the air from the people of the United States."

Parents Threaten a Coup d'Etat As 3,500 Alameda Pupils Strike

By the Associated Press.

Alameda, Calif., March 5.—A high school students' strike, protesting ouster of Superintendent William G. Paden, tonight threatened to develop into a municipal upheaval with irate friends and parents seizing all city offices in a march on city hall.

Approximately 2,000 high school pupils and 1,500 elementary students continued the strike today, refusing to return to classrooms vacated yesterday. Only 250 of 2,300 students attended high school classes.

The Alameda Voters League threatened establishment of a "de facto government," with citizens seizing the offices of mayor, city manager and councilmen.

The striking students and adult supporters plan to march on city hall. An effigy of City Manager B. Ray Fitz has been prepared for burning.

Oakland, Berkeley and Piedmont high school students began sympathy strikes today but finally were persuaded to return to classes.

"Pickets" surrounding high school and elementary school buildings formed hand-in-hand chains to dissuade pupils from attending classes. Teachers eventually persuaded the pickets to abandon their lines.

Co-operating in the "persuasion" were theaters, which offered "reduced prices for the duration of the strike."

Paden, superintendent for 11 years, insisted that the city council and three newly named members of the board of education acted without proper authority in appointing Einar Sorenson to replace him. He said he had a three-year contract at $6,000 annually yet to run. His supporters charged his dismissal was sheerly political.

The Alameda council of the Parent-Teachers' Association asked District Attorney Earl Warren and the county grand jury for aid in investigating school and board of education conditions, first adopting resolutions deploring dismissal.

U. S. Develops 'Mystery' Gun To Balk Enemy Bombing Raids

Copyright, 1936, by the United Press.

A powerful "mystery" gun—so "kickless" that a glass of water balanced safely on the weapon's barrel during bursts of fire—is being developed by the Army and Navy in another move to make American coastal and strategic interior cities invulnerable to hostile air attack.

The weapon, the United Press learned, combines the best features of the machine gun and of artillery pieces. It is said to be capable of hurling one-pound, high explosive shells to the edges of the stratosphere at the rate of 150 shots a minute. These projectiles are fitted in the nose of the bullets with detonating fuses so sensitive that they explode the shells upon contact with any substance harder than the air.

The explosive carried in these projectiles is sufficient to blow the wing off a modern bomber if a wing surface is hit.

The ordnance experts who have developed this gun claim that it will revolutionize anti-aircraft defense. At present this defense is provided by regulation .30 and .50 calibre machine guns, whose vertical range is not much above 15,000 feet, and by artillery shooting timed-fuse high explosive shells. The machine gun bullets must strike a vital part of the plane, or the pilot, to disable the machine.

The artillery shells are timed to explode in the general area of the hostile air raiders and the "scatter gun" action of the exploding shrapnel is depended upon to disable the plane or pilot.

The projectiles of the 1.1 inch "kickless" gun explode upon contact. The gun is capable of firing them to an altitude of 30,000 feet or more, which is well above the "ceiling" of any modern plane loaded with bombs.

Fired like a machine gun, the new weapon shoots a smoke "tracer" bullet every fifth shot. Due to the extreme ease with which the gun can be swung about while firing the gunner is able by these tracer bullets to correct errors of fire so long as the target is within sight.

An anti-aircraft battery of six of these weapons could literally fill the air with high explosive projectiles at the rate of approximately 1,000 shots a minute, any one of which would disable a plane upon striking it.

The ease of handling the new gun, which is actually a small artillery piece, is due to elimination of the recoil or "kick." This is accomplished through a patented mechanism and principles by which a portion of the gas propelling the projectile out of the gun barrel is forced through a port or hole into a chamber just below the barrel. This chamber is fitted with a heavy piston which is driven forward at approximately the same rate of the speeding bullet.

Invading Personal Rights.

The Black committee's wholesale and indiscriminate examination of the contents of telegrams sent by private corporations and individuals has enabled it to secure information that in earlier days would have been buried in letter files not so easily accessible. Indeed, to secure possession of private papers not voluntarily surrendered, it would have been necessary to obtain a search warrant specifying the nature of the documents desired. But the Black committee apparently assumes that the senders and receivers of telegrams are not entitled to claim the protection afforded them under the fourth amendment to the Constitution, guaranteeing the "right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects against unreasonable searches and seizures."

Despite charges of being reactionary, the courts have shown an ability and a willingness to interpret the Constitution as a living document in the light of the changed conditions of the modern world. That world has become increasingly dependent upon telegraphic and telephonic communication for transmission of indubitably personal and private information. The time has come, therefore, when the courts may decide to take a more realistic view of the situation and put the records of messages transmitted by wire into the category of letters and effects.

Even if the Black committee successfully defends itself against charges of illegal action, however, it remains open to condemnation for its high-handed action in probing into private affairs that are entirely outside the scope of the inquiry.

No Sunday Liquor Sales.

The Dirksen bill to permit the sale of liquor in Washington on Sunday has been rejected by the House District Committee and local public opinion will welcome the fact. But a curiously empty argument seems to have impelled the rejection. Mrs. Norton, the committee chairman, explained that the majority's vote was based on a feeling that if Sunday liquor sales were allowed, arguments for the return of prohibition (as proposed in the Guyer bill, now happily shelved) would be considerably strengthened. This is not the proper attack.

There is no more reason for liquor stores to be open on Sunday than would be the case with butcher shops. After all, the Sabbath is still the Sabbath. It was not only the President's wish that the Capital set up a liquor code that might serve as a model for the rest of the Nation; insofar as this meant restraint and temperance, the entire city wished it.

Sunday liquor sales would fly in the face of this majority sentiment. Opposition to such a proposal should be based on a regard for the amenities of decent living; that these include self-control and that a lack of self-control would open the way for a return of prohibition should be an entirely secondary consideration.

Manifestation Of Confidence?

Nothing could be further from the truth than statements which have been broadcast to the effect that the success of this week's Treasury offering is of itself a manifestation of confidence.

The fact is that the Federal Reserve Banks are now overloaded with excess reserves, for the most part artificially created. The total of Government securities held by these banks alone now amounts to almost two and a half billion dollars. There is an irresistible pressure to buy more Government issues, in order to make any earnings at all on these excess reserves, the more so as there is little else which has any liquidity for the banks to buy in quantity.

Furthermore, from the viewpoint of monetary confidence, the recent oversubscription means nothing. The banks owe the depositors the same kind of money that the Government pays when its obligations come due. Similarly, purchases of Government bonds by insurance companies have no meaning as a "manifestation of confidence." These companies also will pay their policy holders in the same kind of money, good, bad or indifferent, with which the Government redeems its obligations. Again, it proves nothing in the field of confidence that trustees of estates or fiduciary institutions buy Government bonds. In many cases they are compelled by legal restrictions so to invest their funds.

There is only one manifestation with regard to current Government offerings which would really spell confidence. That is buying by the individual private investor. And there is not the slightest evidence to indicate that any considerable part of Treasury issues are being taken by purchasers for individual investment account.

The Victim Of Politics.

Complete elimination of Federal aid to the District looms out of yesterday's debate on the 1937 local appropriations bill. Chairman Blanton of the sub-committee handling this measure revealed that the $3,000,000 slash, effected chiefly through his influence, is preliminary to a move next year to unload the entire cost of maintaining the Capital City upon District taxpayers. That aim has been apparent in the attitude of the House for a number of years. If the vindictive clique now in control has its way, the outcome will not be open to question.

For the immediate present this move may be a serious blow to the District. But in the long run, the elimination of anything which resembles a Federal subsidy to the local government may bring compensating advantages. The prejudiced and irrational treatment now accorded the District in the House is clearly a by-product of politics which take root in the so-called lump sum. For example, only Chairman Norton, of the District Committee, had the courage to propose restoration of the $3,000,000 slashed from the Federal contribution by the sub-committee, and only 17 Congressmen dared to vote for correction of that obvious injustice. Some other members of the House seem to favor a square deal for Washington, but they were not willing to sponsor an expenditure from which their constituents would derive no benefit.

It is largely this political-mindedness of the House which has resulted in throttling the District schools, health service and other necessary municipal activities. So long as Congressmen feel free to approve spending sprees intended to warm the hearts of voters back home and then rely upon cuts in the Federal allowance to the Capital City to establish records of economy, vital community needs are likely to be neglected. Elimination of the lump sum might be a service to the District, therefore, if Congress could then be persuaded to support the national institutions now drawing funds from the local budget and to make a reasonable allowance for fire and police protection of national buildings, and similar expenses incurred for the benefit of the Federal Government.

District taxpayers are certainly not entitled to favors from Congress because they live in the Capital. But they have a right to expect that local revenues will be used for essential municipal functions and not for the maintenance of institutions intended to benefit the entire country. If Congressmen would accept that principle, it should not be difficult to work out a system that would make allowance for their political sensitivity and at the same time do justice to local taxpayers.

Confinement of Federal aid to specific institutions and projects recognized as national in character should also relax the grip of recalcitrant Congressmen upon the local budget. No objection could then be raised to the appropriation of adequate funds for health, education, libraries, public welfare, etc., since the District would be spending for these purposes only the taxes paid by its own residents.

In any event, the present system has become intolerable. Politics of the most vicious type is trampling rough-shod upon the community projects in which the people of Washington are most interested. By force of necessity the people must concentrate upon some practical counter-move or abandon the city to the destructive influence of Blantonism.

Hint to Mr. McCormack.

The much-discussed "military disaffection" bill has at last reached the floor of the House. Unfortunately, it now has only half a name. Originally identified as the Tydings-McCormack bill, it lost the first half of this title when the Senator from Maryland withdrew his support a few weeks ago. Only the name of Mr. McCormack, of Massachusetts, is now attached to the bill.

In the light of the telling arguments brought against the measure in the first open debate on its extremely dubious provisions Senator Tydings cannot regret his repudiation. Likewise, the Secretary of War, who once indorsed the bill, must now rejoice in the fact that he can no longer be referred to as a supporter of it. Just recently he announced that his department was "not particularly interested" in this red-baiting scheme. To these two significant disavowals of the bill must now be added the logic of Representative Maverick, when he explained that he was "not in favor of giving up democratic processes of government and turning communistic and fascistic to fight communism and fascism."

By democratic processes the Texan referred particularly to the fundamental liberties of free speech and press and protection against unreasonable search and seizure. Though designed to protect the Army and Navy from incitements to desertion and mutiny, in effect the bill would seriously endanger these more fundamental rights upon which the entire American system of government rests.

The future for Mr. McCormack's bill looks dark. In fact, the gentleman from Massachusetts would be well advised if he should follow the example of Mr. Tydings, his collaborator in the Senate, and announce his mistake in ever introducing the bill.

Perversion Of Relief.

To Maryland goes the credit for having conducted the first comprehensive survey of relief distribution under the policies of Harry Hopkins. The report of the State Survey Commission is confined to relief activities in Maryland, but the close similarity of all public aid systems established under the guidance of the late FERA gives its findings national significance. In effect, the survey brings a sweeping indictment against the current system, if that word is permissible.

On the basis of specific information assembled by its investigators, the Survey Commission found the Maryland relief set-up to be wasteful, extravagant, inefficient and demoralizing. Analytical study of 4,900 sample cases showed that 155 relief beneficiaries had sufficient income of their own or were receiving too much relief; 184 were deemed to be obtaining relief fraudulently; 220 were misusing relief funds for immoral purposes or drunkenness. Moreover, 571 of the beneficiaries owned real estate, and 197 owned automobiles with 1935 license tags.

A considerable part of the report is given over to brief case histories showing the kind of abuses that have arisen. The following are typical: "Family receiving $10.98 per week, on relief six years . . . Man received a notice to report to PWA and he refused to work, stating he receives more money from relief for not working . . . Family receiving $10.32 per week, on relief three years . . . Man is now spending 30 days in jail for drunken driving. He owns an automobile . . . Family receiving $8.81 per week and allowances, on relief four years . . . The money is used to buy whisky and gamble."

The charge of waste and inefficiency is amply supported by figures showing that administrative costs required nearly 18 per cent of funds available for relief in 1935. During January of this year expenses of administration advanced still further, to more than 19 per cent. In Baltimore alone the salaries of "visiting workers" amounted to practically $300,000 last year. Many of these investigators were inexperienced young women who listened to palpably false tales of woe and thus brought about increased outlays for families not entitled to public aid.

Even more distressing is the effect of this debauchery upon the so-called beneficiaries. The Survey Commission found that relief as now administered "has done away with all initiative on the part of many recipients to provide things they previously provided and could still provide for themselves." Moreover, "many people who work intermittently or in seasonal occupations formerly saved enough to carry them over periods of unemployment. These same people, now expecting relief to be furnished them, have no longer the incentive for saving and promptly spend what they make. Many who formerly sought seasonal employment, no longer do so because they have become permanent fixtures on relief."

Unfortunately, the Survey Commission's recommendations are not as clear-cut as its condemnation of existing conditions. This may not be entirely the fault of the commission, however, for as the report points out, the frequent changes of policy at Washington make it extremely difficult to formulate a definite relief program. A great deal of the present inefficiency seems to be directly due to the requirements, as well as the uncertainty, of the Federal relief policy.

The commission does most pointedly recommend an overhauling of the relief rolls, consolidation of administrative agencies, reduction of personnel and reversion to "common sense" as opposed to impractical theory in the distribution of relief funds. The reaction of the Legislature at Annapolis to this challenge will be watched with great interest. For if Maryland succeeds in eliminating graft, waste and debauchery from her relief system, 47 other States will be encouraged promptly to emulate her example.

Perhaps after all the thing the average person is most thankful for is that he's far superior to that dumb cluck known as the average person.

Many a person's political position is based 80 per cent on his pocketbook, 15 per cent on prejudice and 5 per cent on haphazard thinking.

The G. O. P. is losing quite a bit of sleep over the problem of the Borah from within.

One Dictatorship Fails.

From the Boston Transcript.

Estonia, one of the Baltic triplets born of the World War, is reported to be recovering from its attack of "fuehrer fever." The term is attributed to President Konstantin Paets. Whether or not it originated with him it would seem to fit the case, for Estonia after a trial of government with the constitution in a state of suspended animation has decided that it wants to go back to parliamentary rule. There was a referendum on the subject. The constitution won by a vote of 472,416 to 148,878 in an electorate with maximum voting strength of 770,000.

Now the people have spoken, and the size of the vote would seem to indicate a good prospect that there is to be no relapse into fuehrer fever. It may be a sign that larger countries which are suffering from the disease will take the road to recovery. But their symptoms, as far as reported, do not indicate that they have yet reached the crisis of the ailment.

"Surplus" Army Goods.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Post of February 21 stated that a dealer testified he purchased slightly obsolete machine guns by the pound at approximately 12 cents apiece and resold them for $7.50. Such utensils of war, if obsolete, should be damaged or destroyed by acetylene torch; then to make sure that they have been rendered innocuous the damaged guns should be dumped secretly to the bottom of some undisclosed river or lake and the act of total destruction should be witnessed and certified to in writing by three officials of the department. Legislation prescribing this procedure should be enacted.

Relative to the court-martial of an officer on the charge of accepting a bribe from a "dealer in surplus Army goods." The war ended 18 years ago and at this date there should be no "surplus," at least not to the extent indicated by the number of such "dealers." Purchases should be made on the basis of probable consumption. There is no sense in over-buying, selling the surplus and at the same time making new purchases. Supplies should be issued until exhausted. When nearly exhausted, new purchases should be made in reasonable amounts. A little New England thrift and common sense is needed.

"Two Kinds Of Discipline?"

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As a former enlisted man I cannot agree with the decision in Gen. Hagood's case.

The punishment is trifling and entirely inadequate in comparison with the serious breach of military ethics of which the general is obviously guilty.

Enlisted men are taken to task immediately for the slightest questioning of authority, failing to salute an officer, etc. Any less than summary and severe punishment visited upon a deliberate and intentionally rebellious attitude toward authority will point out that there are two kinds of treatment for Army men, one for officers and one for the enlisted personnel.

The Last Horse Car.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: There seems to be a difference of opinion as to the date of the final trip of a horse-drawn street car in Washington.

I came from my home in Montgomery County, Maryland (now the Manor Club) on December 1, 1899, and got a job with the W. R. E. Co. At that time the late Col. Truesdell was president.

I worked on the horse cars that plied from Ninth and Louisiana avenue to Twelfth street to B street, east on B street to Eleventh, south to wharves. On our last trip we went out to Eleventh and Florida avenue northwest and turned the cars and horses in at that car barn.

I think this will definitely prove that the last date of the horse-drawn car was not April 2, 1898, as some people seem to think.

The Things That Are Caesar's.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Father Coughlin issue is no younger than that gentleman's earliest radio speeches. Yet, when I peruse a literary outburst as torrid and eloquent as that which appeared in your readers' column of today, over the name of John J. Arrien, I cannot refrain from contributing another comment.

Throughout his letter Mr. Arrien refers to Father Coughlin as "Coughlin," thereby endeavoring to emphasize the oft-repeated claim that the gentleman in question broadcasts not as a clergyman but as a private citizen. This is the more apparent in his statement that "everybody knows by now that he (Father Coughlin) talks as a citizen, etc."

I wonder if that is true? It is quite simple for one to assert that he does not speak in his official capacity, and there are times when assertions of this kind may be recognized and accepted. But, now, let us suppose that the President of the United States, surrounded by his Secret Service men and standing in front of the White House, were to deliver an address which he had emphatically stated was to be considered as the utterance of a mere citizen and not as that of the President. Would not his audience regard him as the President? Would they not mark his words as the words of the Chief Executive of the Nation?

Certainly; and so it is, and always will be, with Father Coughlin. We may say that he speaks as a citizen, but that makes no difference. We may call him "Coughlin," but that does not remove the dignity of his ecclesiastical position. We still think of him as a priest, and the press continues to identify him as "Father" or "Reverend."

If Father Coughlin (when he broadcasts) wishes to be thought of as a private individual and not as a priest, if he wants to be Citizen Coughlin and not Reverend Coughlin, let him come down from the pulpit and lay aside his clerical garb. Let him remove his Roman collar and have his announcer introduce him as "Mr." Coughlin; and let the press publish his message as the utterance of a private citizen.

But, they will say, he cannot do this. His religious vows will not permit him to don civilian clothes. Very well, then let him remain with his parish and tend to his flock, and let the public servant and the private citizen administer the public business. "Render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's and to God the things that are God's."

CITIZEN METCALF.
Washington, March 4.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: If either of two of your recent correspondents is a Catholic, why should he be so inconsistent with the teachings of his own church as to proclaim that Father Coughlin is just a wily politician hiding behind a priestly robe? Father Coughlin has his own orders direct from the head of your own Catholic Church in Rome. He once said, "I am simply carrying out the command of my highest ecclesiastical superior, His Holiness Pope Pius XI."

I mention the above only to show the inconsistencies of the Catholic who criticizes Father Coughlin. I am a Protestant and I wouldn't expect to use Pope Pius XI as an authority for telling Protestants what or what not to do or believe.

Regardless of whether one is a Catholic or Protestant, why should it be out of order for any human being, no matter what his calling or profession, to rebuke high treason and corruption abroad in the land?

The Lord Jesus Christ, when he was on earth, did just what Father Coughlin is doing today. Christ didn't have a radio, but his words have reached as many or more people. Would you say that Christ shouldn't have driven the money-changers from the temple because he wore the priestly garb?

After all, Father Coughlin is only preaching our old American ideals as founded by the founders of our Nation, nothing more and nothing less; namely, liberty of conscience, of education, living wage, nationlizing public resources, abolition of privately owned Federal Reserve Banking system, giving Congress right to coin and regulate money, profit for farmers, right of laboring man to organize, simplifications of government and the further lifting of crushing taxation from the laboring class, and advocating a conscription of wealth during a time of war as well as a conscription of men.

Those are just a few of the 16 points and principles Father Coughlin is advocating each Sunday; nothing more and nothing less.

Wage Rates And Weather.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The "Homes for Workers" editorial appearing in your paper on Saturday, February 29, is one that may cause great concern to the vast army of workers who are engaged in the building of these homes. You do not hesitate—in fact, you go out of your way—to make your readers believe that the men of the building trades are receiving a wage rate in excess of what it should be when, as a matter of fact, the average building trades mechanic is finding it very difficult to make ends meet. This, you say, is because hourly wages are too high, and that if these rates were reduced more homes would be built and the workers "could anticipate steady employment, with larger annual incomes."

Such a statement published in a first-class newspaper is nothing short of ridiculous when you consider that there have been only about six workable days for the outside mechanic since January 1 of this year. These men have not been out of work because wage rates were too high, or because of a scarcity of work, but because of the elements. You will agree that reduced wages will not bring fair weather.

Would it not have been better to have pointed out to your readers some of the hardships the outside mechanic has to endure? Tell them that these men do not work in heated office buildings and work just as they feel like it, but whether sick or well must hold up their end or else. It doesn't matter whether hot or cold. He must put it across. When it is too cold or too wet he must lay off and lose pay. When it is too hot the boss doesn't come and tell him to check out at 1 o'clock and call it a full day, as is often done in the departments and many other offices. He must stick to his job and produce.

If these so-called "highly-paid" mechanics put in six months in the year they do well, and if they don't make good pay while at work, it is just too bad when the bills come due. These men must provide for their families the whole 12 months in the year. It is essential that they should earn enough during the building season to carry them through the unworkable months.

I am thinking now of two builders who hire only nonunion men and only pay less than two-thirds of the union wage scale. Yet their houses bring the same price as those built with union labor, and these builders boast of their profits.

Come now, Mr. Editor, and give these "standard wage men" a boost. They are not a bad lot.

A Depositor's Question.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: More than one year ago we were told that the District and national banks were going to pay dividends to depositors. What has happened?

Congress used to manifest some interest in outraged depositors. Even it has forgotten us in its scramble to waise money for votes. Would it not be more commendable for our President to show some interest in the long-suffering depositors than waste funds in such wild schemes as Passamaquoddy Bay, Florida Canal, etc.?

Why can't we have a depositors' committee to find out what our receivers are doing?

The Canary Club Show.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: On behalf of the National Capital Canary Culb, I wish to thank you for the co-operation and support which was extended to us during the bird show which was held at the Hamilton Hotel on January 9, 10 and 11 last. We feel that much of the success of the show, which was the first of its kind ever held in Washington, was due to the publicity received through the local newspapers, and are very deeply appreciative therefor.

We expect to have these shows annually, and hope to be better prepared next season to put on a greater show.

The Post Impressionist

Can Taxes Be Far Behind?

Post Office, Friday.

NOW that the happy season approaches when Income Tax Returns are budding on every tree and shrub, the Column has received requests to republish—of course, brought up-to-date—the Post-Impressionist's 1935 letter on the subject of this annual festival.

We hasten to oblige.

* * *

Dear Collector of Internal Revenue for My District On or Before March 15, 1936:

Yours of recent date received, and in reply to same would say am addressing you like that because the letter I got from you said to. It looks kind of formal, considering how many years I and you have been corresponding, and how intimate your questions have mostly been; but then your letter is kind of formal, too.

So, being a good citizen, I naturally do it, only I do think it would be more friendly if you'd sign your name to your letters, because generally I don't pay any attention to letters that don't have any signature to them. A man had ought to sign his letters with his own name, in his own handwriting, if he's willing to stand up for what they say, and if he isn't he hadn't ought to write them in the first place.

* * *

Well, I will send you back my Income Tax Return, all filled out, as soon as you kindly give me a little information to clear up a couple of points or so.

* * *

Mr. Collector, I don't want for you to get the idea I'm complaining about your letter, which anybody can tell you took a lot of trouble over. I know you're not asking those things like they say in your personal capacity, but representing the President. I believe everybody had ought to support the President, and I'm for him a 100% because he got us out of the depression.

Just the same, I don't think it's necessary I should answer quite all you ask me to, and some others I don't understand, and it's my opinion you'll agree when you hear why.

* * *

Dear Mr. Collector, a lot of your questions are the way our preacher says "tautological." I mean you've got the answers to them already.

For instance, you ask me will I state my residence, where all the time it must be in your files, because you put it on the envelope of your letter to me, and, looking at it another way, if I'd moved without leaving any forwarding-address, how'd you expect I'd ever get that question so's to answer it?

* * *

It's nice you inquire was I "married during my taxable year," because that's not as formal as what went ahead of it, and any person appreciates interest in his family. Still, I always understood Internal Revenue Collectors were good politicians, and where I come from originally a politician keeps posted, on the side, whether his constituents continue married, so's he won't make social errors writing to them, and if he isn't posted he kind of slides around the subject. But here you go on and ask me am I living with my wife.

That's a bad slip, Mr. Collector. And here's a worse one yet, where you say, "If not married, were you the head of a family?"

Mr. Collector, you just can't expect a self-respecting citizen to answer such questions!

* * *

More white space would help, too. You're kind of unreasonable with your white spaces. Here's a question where you try to make out you're interested in "any changes" that have happened to me "under question 2, 4 or 5 during the year." Now, question 4 is that one about have I an irregular family; but 2 is about am I still married and 5 is dependents. I appreciate your wanting all my home-news, but you'd look more sincere if you gave me some room to write it in. You're asking about a whole year, and all you allow me for answering in is an inch-and-a-quarter.

* * *

And about "how many dependents received their support" from me, you had ought to be more explicit. We had two dogs, and the children brought in a kitty; only, one of the dogs killed the kitty pretty soon, and the other one got lost, and I can't exactly remember for how long it was he wasn't dependent on me. Also, can't I charge off cost of ad. to get him back, plus the reward?

Another thing I'm having trouble over is where you tell me to tell my "earned income." Well, I asked the editor, and he says I didn't earn anything. So shall I put down zero or what I think I earned, which is considerably more than I'll ever get?

* * *

Well, Mr. Collector, there's more I might say along these lines, but I won't. All I'll do now is add one thing.

I find where you want to know "contributions to charity." Last year, I made one; it was an Irish Sweepstakes ticket. The Irish Sweepstakes are a fund for hospitals in Ireland. When you get my Return, you will see where I deduct the price of it. That's going to leave the deductions about $10 in excess of the gross tax. So after receipt of Return kindly send check at convenience.

Yours truly,
THE POST-IMPRESSIONIST.

Facts About Women Fliers.

("Woman, Aged 57, Takes Solo Flight."—Headline.)

"That's nothing," declared Elmer Twitchell, the eminent aeronautical engineer, political economist and amateur mushroom grower, today. "You should have seen my grandmother fly! She's 108 years old this April and, for her years, one of the best birdwomen in the country.

• • • •

"The idea of any woman getting into the newspapers because she flies solo at 57! Why Grandma Twitchell never took up flying until she was 92 and at 95 she thought nothing of a solo flight a day. We called her the Lone Albatross. Not to her face, of course.

• • • •

"Even when she got to be 98 we couldn't keep her on the ground. We'd see her sitting quietly in the rocker knitting and the next thing we know she'd be missing. We'd investigate and discover she was up over the Town Hall doing tailspins!

• • • •

"She tried to give up flying on her one hundredth birthday because she said it was getting too common, anyhow, and she couldn't go into the air without meeting the very women she was trying to get away from. But it was pretty hard. Granny Twitchell had the love of danger in her blood. She had developed a yen for altitude.

• • • •

"One day we found her walking around the edge of the roof and another time the neighbors rushed in and told us she was out on a limb in the topmost branches of a tree on the edge of a precipice, a 5,000-foot drop below. There she sat singing 'Old Folks at Home' and as comfortable as could be, although she complained that the wind didn't whistle through her ears enough.

• • • •

"Granny began to fail, however, and took to her bed. We called in the doctor and he said, 'Elmer, the old girl's got to fly. It's the only thing that will keep her young!'

• • • •

"So we bought her a new flying suit and one of those flivver planes. She hopped out of bed and was on the wing in no time.

• • • •

"Yes, sir, Granny Twitchell's a wonder! She thinks Maj. Hawkes is a sissy and doesn't consider Lindbergh's feat worth talking about. She insists she flew across the Atlantic on an ironing board with an outboard motor when she was 60 years old and didn't mention it because she wanted to startle the world by doing it backwards!"

• • • •

"Where's Granny Twitchell now?" we asked Elmer.

"Oh, I dunno. She took her plane up after breakfast to see how far she could fly with one wing missing, and the engine hitting on only three cylinders," replied Elmer.

Comfort vs. Tradition.

King Edward, ever the democrat, now refuses to travel by special train, and takes a special car on a regular train. A smart monarch, if there ever was one. He appreciates getting between two points on time and feeling that a king can be as comfortable as any other man.

It develops that the Chief of Staff, Gen. Malin Craig, of the United States Army, thinks a general should be dismissed for flippancy. But a lot of people think it might not be a bad idea to have a Flippancy Corps with a Persiflage Division and a decoration for A Distinguished Sense of Humor.

New Version.

You're in the army now,
You're in the army now,
It's out on your ear
For flippancy here—
You're in the army now!

A violinist says his fiddle has been taken and is being held for ransom. A case, obviously for the G-string men.

With the 2-cents-a-mile rate in force on the railroads, there will probably be the Scotsman who will go to the ticket window and say, "I'll take 30 cents' worth of travel."

The League's Decision

By Livingston Hartley.
Special Correspondent of The Post.

THE League of Nations Committee of Thirteen has taken its most decisive step to end the invasion of Ethiopia. It has sent Mussolini a practical ultimatum to commence negotiations for an armistice and peace within a week, or face the probability of an embargo on oil.

Many people wonder why this step was not taken in December, when oil sanctions were first considered seriously, or in January, when the collapse of the abortive Hoare-Laval proposals had cleared the way for more drastic sanctions. The delay may be charged to several causes—the weakness of human nature, the untraveled road that sanctions represent in international life, and certain very practical considerations.

Since human nature is what it is, and since the first proposals for oil sanctions were met by a threat of war from Mussolini, there was a natural reluctance to impose an embargo on oil unless it should be essential. It seemed likely before February that the slow attrition of existing sanctions, the resistance of the Ethiopian army, and the approaching rainy season would together bring Mussolini to terms. Recent Italian victories have radically changed this outlook, and made more drastic action by the League far more necessary than it was in January.

Delay, moreover, is inevitable when 50 nations attempt to enforce unprecedented economic and financial measures which require sacrifices of markets and trade. Such a venture on uncharted seas must proceed with caution and with frequent soundings.

• • • •

THE first proposal to extend sanctions to oil raised an issue which had to be faced. Mussolini intimated in unmistakable terms that an embargo on oil would mean war, a conflagration in Europe which no European power was willing to risk, since none could see where it would spread. The fear of such a war was the principal cause of the Hoare-Laval peace proposals, which shelved temporarily all question of an oil embargo.

After the ill-famed peace proposals died, the war threat of Mussolini had to be provided for before progress could be made on oil. This threat was countered by a defensive agreement which bound Great Britain, France, Turkey, Greece and Yugoslavia to support one another in the event of an Italian attack, and by the alignment of France closer to Great Britain following the fall of Laval.

As a result of these developments, the League powers have far less to fear from Italy in the Mediterranean now. Mussolini no longer meets oil sanction proposals with the threat of war; he intimates instead peaceful counter moves, withdrawal from the League and the Locarno treaties. Imminent danger of a clash in the Mediterraean no longer holds up League action on oil.

• • • •

THERE was another early difficulty which caused delay. No one knew how effective an oil embargo would prove, since Italian sources claimed petroleum supplies sufficient for a whole year more of war. Obviously, the sanctionist powers would have been more than foolish to risk war by adopting an embargo which might prove ineffective. This problem had to be studied by experts, who reported on February 12 that an oil embargo would stop the Ethiopian war in three and a half months, provided that the United States held shipments to Italy down to normal amounts.

A final reason for the League's postponement of action on oil was the consideration by Congress of permanent neutrality legislation during January and February. The United States is the greatest oil producer in the world, capable of supplying all the wartime needs of Italy. Consequently, entirely apart from the other considerations outlined above, it was natural that the League powers should await the action of Congress on restriction of exports of war materials to belligerents before going ahead on oil.

• • • •

THE fact that the League nations are now preparing to take action on oil, regardless of the power of American oil interests to nullify their collective efforts, shows very definite courage. This courage may have been stimulated by President Roosevelt's reiteration on February 29 of his frequently announced policy of curtailing American activities which "give aid to the continuation of war." Nevertheless, in spite of the President's policy, the 50 nations engaged in restoring peace have no great reason to place faith on effective action by the United States.

The President has maintained this policy since October, yet American oil companies have not hesitated to give increasing "aid to the continuation of war." American companies furnished 17.8 per cent of Italy's petroleum imports during the last quarter of 1935, compared to 6.3 per cent during the nine months before October and American oil exports to Italy in January, 1936, were 165 per cent above the monthly average of 1934. The President has now failed in his efforts to obtain from Congress authority to restrict oil and other war material exports. Consequently, in view of this fact, and of the complete failure of our policy of aiding peace in the Ethiopian dispute, the sanctionist nations can expect from the United States little co-operation more effective than statements and gestures in the next few months.

• • • •

THE sanctionist powers, however, have the means in their hands to prevent American oil companies from nullifying a collective oil embargo. These 50 nations control most of the market for American oil abroad, whereas Italy normally takes only some 3 per cent of American petroleum exports, ranking eleventh among our foreign markets. If these nations were to let it be known that they would not buy oil from American companies who sold oil to Italy or carried it to Italian ports in their tankers, the results would be decisive. American oil companies are not likely to sacrifice their most important foreign markets in order to fulfill Italy's wartime needs.

Such action by the League nations would doubtless cause a great outcry among our Italian hyphenates and some of our oil interests, but it would awake a ready sympathy among the great mass of Americans who have so consistently opposed Mussolini's attack on Ethiopia. The attitude of American opinion towards the Ethiopian War, before the Hoare-Laval proposals shook their faith in the collective peace effort, gives ground to believe that our public would welcome any effective action to restore peace. It is, moreover, unlikely that such action would cause any serious representatives by the American Government, since it would only bring home the realization of an officially-declared policy which the Administration is apparently unable itself to carry out.

• • • •

THE outcome of the League's ultimatum to Italy cannot be predicted now. Mussolini may agree to negotiate, may temporize, or may return a definite refusal to Geneva. In the event of an answer from Rome sufficiently favorable to postpone once more action on oil, the cessation of hostilities or a halt in the Italian offensive will be important factors in the outcome, since the Ethiopian rainy season is drawing near.

If Mussolini, in the pride of recent victories, refuses negotiation and orders a further military offensive, the outlook points to an embargo on oil. Unless the League experts are entirely wrong, or unless American oil interests cannot be prevented from nullifying the new effort for peace, such an embargo should terminate Mussolini's war before the rainy season ends in October.

• • • •

THERE is one important element in this situation which has not as yet been given adequate attention. Both the British and French governments have so far sought to save the "face" of Mussolini in order to keep him in power. As long as Italy stands behind France and Great Britain as a guarantor of the Locarno treaties and the protector of Austrian independence against Germany, a strong Italy is essential to British and French policy in Europe.

If Mussolini, as he now threatens, replies to an oil embargo by withdrawing his guarantee from Locarno and seeking an independent settlement with Hitler over Austria, this situation will become radically changed. The British and French government will then have every reason to smash Mussolini's prestige and cause his overthrow in Italy. The kid gloves will be off as far as Mussolini is concerned, since only his fall from power could bring Italy back to the Stresa front.

Most Americans will agree that the disappearance of Mussolini from the European stage would do much to bolster up democracy in Europe, and diminish the war threat that history has shown once more is inherent in dictatorships.

Cohan Opposes Duffy Measure In Testimony

Patents Committee Told Bill Should 'Go Out the Window.'

George M. Cohan, the "song-and-dance man," of Broadway fame, moving spryly on his inch-high heels, yesterday appeared to testify before the House Patents Committee on the Duffy bill which revises extensively the present copyright law of 1909.

In a light gray suit, his ruddy Irish face composed in that dry smile for which he is famous, his near-silver hair brushed back neatly, the 57-year-old song-writer, playwright, actor, director, producer and former tap-dance star stood calmly before the commitee to object to the Duffy bill.

"Two things brought me here," he said, "to protest at being called racketeers in Congress, and to appear for the little fellows in ASCAP (short for the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers).

"I have been a song writer for the past 25 years and I never received a nickel from the public performance for profit of any of my songs until ASCAP was organized.

"It seems to me that the only men who are for the Duffy bill are the non-creative men . . . I'm not pleading for myself. I'll get along all right, no matter what you do here. But the little fellow in the song-writing business won't."

The Congressmen had been listening raptly to the man who has written some 57 successful plays and scores of song hits, including "Over There," "Yankee-Doodle-Dandy," "Give My Regards to Broadway," "It's a Grand Old Flag," and others.

Sirovich Questioned.

The audience, composed of proudly dressed Congressmen's wives and matronly ladies, was in sharp contrast to the stenographer—college girl audience attracted by Rudy Vallee's appearance before the committee.

"Figures show that out of every $47 made by the motion pictures last year the song writers of the world got but one cent. Do you think that's too much?"

"What do you think?" countered Cohan.

Sirovich, who has sponsored a bill considered much more favorable to song writers' interests than the Duffy measure, went on with further figures to show that composers had received a very small proportionate return from the broadcasters of the Nation, when Cohan broke in:

"Are you for us or against us?"

The audience laughed as Cohan smiled wryly. Sirovich went on characterizing Cohan as one of the "men who are idols today and tomorrow," and added: "I'll wager you haven't read either the Duffy, Daly or Sirovich bills now before the committee."

Said Cohan quickly:

"No, I haven't, but I know Bill Duffy and Bill Daly. As far as I'm concerned the Duffy bill is out the window."

Asked to tell about his early struggles, Cohan rehearsed his long career briefly, down to the present time, saying:

"Now they've got me writing songs about the Constitution and George Washington. I'm not a poet laureate, I guess, but just a handy man to have around."

Questioning Cut Off by Actor.

This referred to his commission by Representative Sol Bloom (Democrat), New York, to write a song about Washington for the bicentennial which Bloom directed in 1932. He was then asked how he came to write "Over There?"

"It was just the bugle call," he retorted. "If I hadn't written it on have written it Friday."

Representative Daly (Democrat), a Thursday, somebody else would Pennsylvania, interrupted:

"Is that a hint?" countered Cohan.

Representative Thomas O'Malley (Democrat), Wisconsin, who has interrogated all ASCAP witnesses sharply, began to ask Cohan a series of questions phrased in a rather involved manner on hypothetical cases of wrong-doing by ASCAP agents, only to be cut off quickly in each instance by the actor.

Sirovich then asked Cohan the name of the play the latter has recently written and in which he is now appearing on Broadway. Cohan said:

"I didn't come down as an advance agent for the play, but its name is 'Dear Old Darling.'" Sirovich then referred to Cohan as "my dear old darling," and dismissed the witness.

Deep Income Tax Offered

before the subcommittee yesterday, was a plan to increase revenues from the current admissions tax. No rate was suggested, but the possibility of lowering exemptions was put forward. Theater admissions up to 40 cents are now exempt. One proposal would lower this to 10 cents.

One revenue plan, attributed to the Treasury, which had the effect of stampeding some members to support of the Administration's original recommendations, was a proposal to increase tobacco excise taxes by 33 1-3 per cent, to yield $167,000,000. Members from tobacco States have been advocating a decrease in tobacco excises. Another revenue plan independently sponsored would raise the present Federal beer tax from $5 to $7.50 a barrel.

Revision of the income-tax structure, proposed in the combination of alternative revenue plans submitted to the Hill group yesterday by the Treasury, provided as follows:

1. Lowering of exemptions for single persons from $1,000 to $800, and for married persons from $2,500 to $2,000. On the basis of present income tax rates, this would yield $45,000,000 additional revenue.

2. Increase of the present normal income tax rate from 4 per cent to 6 per cent, with no change in exemptions or credits. This was estimated to yield $121,000,000 annually.

3. Lowering of exemptions (as in 1) and increase of normal tax from 4 to 6 per cent, estimated to produce $188,000,000 in new revenues.

4. Lowering of exemptions on surtaxes from $4,000 to $3,000, and sharp increase in surtax rates between $3,000 and $100,000, estimated to yield $228,000,000 additional.

A combination of all of these income tax suggestions, Chairman Hill said, would produce $446,000,000 in new revenue.

Outline of the Administration's new processing tax proposals to the subcommittee brought one suggestion from Representative Robert L. Doughton, of North Carolina, that enough might be garnered from corporation and "windfall" levies to eliminate the proposed processing taxes altogether. He conceded, however, that the processing taxes may be accepted "if we don't get enough elsewhere." In another sub-committee quarter it was said that additions may be made to the large list of commodities proposed by Farm Administrator Davis.

The Administration's schedule revised downward levies on farm commodities hit by the old AAA processing taxes as follows: Wheat, from 30 cents a bushel to 8 cents; rye, from 30 cents to 6 cents; barley, from 25 cents to 6 cents; corn, from $2.25 per hundredweight to 30 cents; cotton, from 4.2 cents a pound to 1.5 cents; jute yarn, from 2.9 cents a pound to 1 cent; rice, from 1 cent to .25 cents; peanuts, from 1.5 cents to .25; continental domestic insular, foreign and syrup sugar, all maintained at .5 cents a pound; small cigars, from 13.7 cents a pound to 6 cents a thousand; large cigars, from 90 cents a pound to 40 cents a thousand; little cigarettes, from 12.3 cents a pound to 6 cents a thousand; large cigarettes, from 17 cents a pound to 9 cents a thousand; manufactured tobacco, from 3 cents a pound to 1 cent a pound; and snuff, from 3 cents a pound to 1 cent a pound. Corn was moved upward from 5 cents to 6 cents a pound.

Other commodities included in the list and their rates were flaxseed, 9.33 cents a pound; Perilla oil, .55 cents a pound; hempseed oil, .45 cents a pound; oats, 4.5 cents a pound; cattle and calves, 8 cents per hundredweight; sheep and lamb, 4 cents per hundredweight; paper bags, 95 cents per thousand; open mesh paper, .175 cents a pound; starches, except corn and rice, .14 cents a pound; spirits, except brandy, 3 cents a gallon; rayon, 1.8 cents a pound, and silk, 3.8 cents a pound.

Striking as it does at primary food commodities covering a wider range than was ever contemplated under AAA processing taxes, as well as such clothing materials as cotton, rayon and silk, the new processing tax schedule is expected to head into a whirlwind of controversy on the House floor if it is included in the bill prepared by the Ways and Means Committee.

As an alternative, such Ways and Means committeemen as Representative John W. McCormack (Democrat), of Massachusetts, are advocating a manufacturers' excise tax, at 3 per cent, with food, clothing and medicines exempt.

In this connection, the Treasury yesterday submitted a flexible manufacturers' excise tax with food, clothing, medicine, liquor and tobacco exempt.

The gross yield estimated for each of the various rates proposed by the Treasury were, 1 per cent, $190,000,000; 2 per cent, $364,000,000; 3 per cent, $546,000,000; 4 per cent, $728,00,000; 5 per cent, $910,000,000.

Tydings Backs Roosevelt

"There are only three courses open.

"We can support the Democratic ticket, we can support the Republican ticket; or we can 'take a walk.'"

"To 'take a walk' as I understand it is to stay out of the campaign and go fishing on election day. So 'taking a walk' will not solve the dilemma or discharge our duty as citizens.

Cannot Change Party.

"We cannot, should not and must not support the Republican Party on its record. Throughout the 12 years that intervened between the World War and the inauguration of President Roosevelt, the Republicans controlled and guided the Federal Government and, as I have pointed out, their period of power provided the build-up for the depression.

"For it has been conclusively demonstrated that no Democratic Administration was responsible for the condition which brought on the depression.

"Moreover, there is nothing in the recent Republican record, and little in the current Republican utterances that can give the American people hope for better times, of for better government, through the election of a Republican President.

Entire Record the Issue.

"Remember that the Democratic Party goes before the voters of the country in the approaching election not on a part of the record, but on the entire record of the last three years and it is universally conceded that in the aggregate the record of the party and the record of President Roosevelt are one and inseparable.

"It is equally plain that President Roosevelt will be the nominee of the Democratic convention at Philadelphia. • • •

"As a member of the United States Senate, I have not been able to support, to agree with and vote for a number of the recommendations and policies of the President.

"I need not change my position on these matters to support President Roosevelt and the Democratic Party. I am conscious of the fact that our President took office with the business and trade of the country paralyzed and the banks closed. He recommended, and the Congress enacted a program to save the banks, the railroads, the insurance companies and business and industry generally, and at the same time to put men to work everywhere, and so clothe the needy and feed the hungry.

Urges Democratic Support.

"Judging his record as a whole, and that is the only fair way to judge it, the results of the first three years of the Roosevelt Democratic Administration have been so much better for the American people than the results of the preceding 12 years of Republican Administration, that we, as Democrats, must, and I believe the people should, regardless of party, support the Democratic candidates.

"We Maryland Democrats believe that President Roosevelt should subsequently modify a number of the emergency activities inaugurated to meet the depression, and we should urge upon the convention a platform that will insure such a course. We can urge upon the Philadelphia convention the balancing of the budget, a divorcement of the Federal Government from local problems and a return of them to the States; a widening rather than a restriction of the base of trade at home and abroad, and other matters of like import.

Convention Time to Act.

"A number of recent happenings indicate that President Roosevelt, himself, favors such a course.

"We can best serve Maryland and the country by participating in the Democratic Party councils and by urging those councils to accept and adopt such modifications of policy at the Philadelphia convention as the time allows, and then by diligently working throughout the campaign for the re-election of President Roosevelt and a Democratic Congress.

"And, when President Roosevelt is re-elected by the course suggested our party and the people of this State will be in a position to continue to exert their influence to keep the Democratic Party within the bounds of its traditional principles—and to that end I now pledge myself."

Secretary Hull's address contrasted with that of Tydings because it constituted a defense of the New Deal on all fronts. But it was greatly overshadowed by the Marylander's remarks which set the already churning political pot in this State into further fermentation.

After expounding the collapse of 1929 and what was done by the Roosevelt Administration to alleviate the situation, even Hull made an appeal to the conservative elements of this State by indicating that as rapidly as conditions permitted the New Deal would seek normalcy in the way of a balanced budget. He said:

"A main financial step of the Government, as the necessary emergency demands lessen, is to establish a current balance of income and expenditure. The will steadily to act in this direction is shown by the methods pursued in dealing with the bonus payments, in the tax program put before Congress, and in other significant steps.

Credit Use Defended.

"This business of re-establishing a budget balance needs the support of all. We shall have to abstain from demands upon the Government which though meritorious may not be essential. It is right and wise in times of unprecedented emergency to use the public credit on a large scale; and its very use tends to promote recovery.

"It is a logical sequence that as affairs improve we re-establish the budget balance and lighten the load on public credit, thus maintaining it unimpaired. The two steps are complementary. We must hasten the day when we effect them, and our system again becomes currently self-dependent."

In concluding his address the Secretary asserted:

"The Government by its courageous initiative, by its responsiveness to a great variety of acute needs, by its will to look squarely at and to deal squarely with the problems confronting all sections of our people has preserved the atmosphere of domestic tranquillity.

Working for Masses.

"Its purpose, in the truest tradition of democracy, has been to make it possible for the individual to work out his own salvation and to preserve himself. We have, in a word, vindicated the democratic processes. It has been made clear that the Government was concerned with the welfare of the great masses of our people; that, if you wish, Government is not a thing apart.

"This realization is the strongest safeguard of our democracy and of the Constitution.

"In the face of the effort made, and its results, the hoarse echoes of oratory such as that which the City of Baltimore has recently heard can be trusted to dispel themselves into the disappointed night.

"The job of salvation, repair and reconstruction has been immense. The work has been laid out and assigned to different agencies. Good progress is being made. I have recalled some of the principal tasks. You know of others; it is not necessary to catalogue all the details. It is all one job."

Corporate Tax Hearing Urged, Bogen Declares

By Dr. Jules I. Bogen.
Editor of N. Y. Journal of Commerce.

New York, March 5.—Economists and statisticians are amazed at President Roosevelt's estimate that American corporations will earn $4,500,000,000 above dividend payments in 1936. They point out that statistics of the Department of Internal Revenue indicate that the surplus earnings above dividends were not as great as that even in the peak year, 1929.

Experts on taxation, connected with leading research organizations, banks and industrial enterprises, are busily engaged in analyzing the new tax proposals. They generally express surprise that so revolutionary a fiscal proposal has been brought forward without previous notice, and for immediate enactment.

It is pointed out that a host of accounting, budget and operating problems are raised for individual corporations, especially those where inventory fluctuations, and other similar special factors, distort the earnings of particular years.

While certain features of the plan receive favorable comment, the view is unanimous that several months of hearings should be held, to permit a bill to be drafted that would not result in numerous inequalities.

Estimates Overdrawn.

However, the view is almost unanimous that the yield estimates of the Treasury are excessive. Efforts to obtain clarification from Washington bureaus and representatives maintained by these organizations have been fruitless.

Corporations of all kinds reporting income for 1929 had a net income of $11,653,000,000, it is pointed out. Cash dividends paid in 1929, virtually all by corporations having net income, aggregated $8,356,000,000. Thus, in this most prosperous year in corporate history, the undistributed net income subject to the proposed new taxes would have been approximately $3,300,000,000, or less than 75 per cent of the President's estimate for 1936.

None of the many economists and statisticians consulted ventured the opinion that the 1929 earnings of corporations would be remotely approached in 1936, $4,000,000,000 being the average estimate of prospective earnings. It was held likely that the balance, after dividends, would be about $1,500,000,000, at the outside.

Corporate Incomes.

However, some factors not reflected in the 1929 figures would make corporate net incomes larger than they were in 1929, other things being equal. In the first place, the Government has "cracked down" on depreciation and other deductions, and is shaving such allowances more than ever before.

Secondly, and more important, it is supposed that dividends received by corporations from other corporations may be included in income, subject to the proposed undistributed profits tax. This type of income, formerly exempt from taxation, reached a peak of $2,593,000,000 in 1929, and may well amount to $1,750,000,000 in 1936.

Even if this entire sum were to be included in income under the new tax plan, however, and it is by no means clear that Congress is ready to do so, total undistributed income for 1936 would not exceed $3,250,000,000 at the outside, if we take the estimates presented. Since "dividends received from other corporations" are almost entirely a duplication of income already reported by domestic corporations, the simplification of holding companies now going on will tend to reduce this amount sharply.

Don't Mention It.

Proposals for New Income, Excise, Processing Taxes

By the Associated Press.

Here, at a glance, are the proposed income tax revisions and excises on manufacturers and processors submitted yesterday to the House Ways and Means Taxation sub-committee:

1. Revision of the income tax structure by a combinaton of some of the following methods to produce a possible $446,000,000:

Lowering exemption of a single person from $1,000 to $800; of a married person from $2,500 to $2,000. Yield, $45,000,0000.

Making the same reductions in exemptions, together with a boost in the present normal tax from 4 to 6 per cent. Yield, $188,000,000.

Leaving exemptions unchanged but raising the normal tax from 4 to 6 per cent. Yield, $121,000,000.

Reducing exemptions on surtaxes from $4,000 to $3,000 with "sharp" increases in surtax rates in all present tax brackets up to $100,000. (No rates for the sharp increases were announced). Yield, $226,000,000.

2. A general manufacturers excise on all products except liquor and tobacco (which already are taxed), food, clothing and medicine.

Yields, $190,000,000 from a 1 per cent rate; $364,000,000 from 2 per cent, $546,000,000 from 3 per cent, $728,000,000 from 4 per cent and $910,000,000 from 5 per cent. Set off against these figures would be $380,000,000 obtained from existing excise and nuisance taxes that would have to be repealed.

Excises similar to processing taxes on 33 farm products, competing products and subdivisions of products, including wheat, rye, flaxseed, perilla oil, hempseed oil, barley, oats, corn, hogs, cattle and calves, sheep and lambs, cotton, jute yarn, paper bags, open mesh paper, rice, peanuts, sugar, starches, spirits (except brandy), rayon and silk. Yield, $221,584,000.

In comparison with the old processing taxes, rates on wheat and rye would be cut from 30 cents a bushel to 8 and 6 cents, respectively; hogs, $2.25 to 30 cents per 100 pounds; cotton, 4.2 to 1.5 cents a pound; rice, 1 to ¼ cent per pound; peanuts, 1½ to ½ cents per pound; sugar, unchanged at ½ cent per pound; corn, increased from 5 to 6 cents per bushel.

$4,000 Pledged For Symphony As Drive Opens

Send-Off Luncheers Hear of Plans for Reaching Goal in Ten Days.

The National Symphony Orchestra Association enters the second day of its sustaining fund campaign today with more than $4,000 already contributed.

The first contributions to the $100,000 fund to help the Orchestra give another season of concerts next year were reported at a send-off luncheon yesterday noon in the Carlton Hotel. More than 50 committee chairmen and volunteers made reports, and heard plans for achieving the Orchestra Association's goal within the next 10 days.

The workers were addressed by several leaders in the drive, including Mrs. Walter Bruce Howe, chairman of the women's division, who described a new committee that had been organized. It is called the sporting chance committee, she announced.

"This group is composed of courageous people who would solicit those persons who have never seen the light regarding the symphony," Mrs. Howe said. "We don't know how much material support this committee will be able to give us, but we do know the moral support will be great."

Harold N. Marsh, chairman of the men's division, was toastmaster and called on several heads of subcommittees for reports.

Mrs. Malin Craig, wife of the chief of staff and one of the chairmen of the Army committee, and Mrs. Emory Land, a chairman of the Navy and Marine Corps committee, reported their groups would carry on, as in previous years, a drive for "quarter drive."

Mrs. J. G. Rowcliff, chairman of the Metropolitan committee, announced the largest single amount in subscriptions. Her committee had already obtained $2,750. Mrs. Milton King, chairman of the civic division, reported $930. Miss Carlena Sheridan, chairman of the co-operative division had received $50; Mrs. David Karrick, chairman of the Junior League Division, $6.

Others who gave talks included Mrs. Oliver Strunk, co-chairman of the business committee; Mrs. Milo Perkins, of the Government committee; Dr. William McClellan, director of the association, and Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth.

The second report luncheon of the campaign, which will continue through March 15, will be at 1 p. m. today in the Carlton.

Monarchists Ask Otto To Make Home in Tyrol

Vienna, March 5 (AP).—Well-informed Viennese monarchists disclosed today a committee of legitimists, with the consent of the Tyrolese provincial government, has invited the Archduke Otto of Hapsburg to live in the Austrian Tyrol.

The pretender to the Austrian throne, it was said, has been urged to make a gradual approach to Vienna, returning to his fatherland as a private citizen without immediate political aspirations in order to accustom other nations to the idea of having the archduke actually inside Austria. His ultimate seizure of the crown then would not appear to be a sudden coup engineered abroad, it was argued.

Attempt to Kiss Pupil Costs Teacher His Job

Placerville, Calif., March 5 (AP).—A married history teacher, accused of attempting to kiss a 14-year-old girl student he "dated," submitted his resignation today.

The teacher, C. W. Olsen, who has a family here, was said by Principal B. E. Larsen, of El Dorado Union High School, to have admitted making the advances.

Larsen averted a threatened walkout of 450 students supporting Olsen by addressing them, saying Olsen took the girl to a banquet last Friday night, then to a show and attempted to kiss her on the way home. The resignation was submitted while the board of education was conducting an investigation.

Music in Air as Student Concert Nears

Capital High School Students Inspired by National Orchestra

For junior high school students in Washington the National Symphony Orchestra does more than offer opportunity to hear good music. It gives them a chance to present their own pieces in public.

At a recent students' concert in Eastern High School 140 Eliot Junior High School boys and girls were there for the program—44 of them were present to sing. Dr. Hans Kindler, conductor, had given them a chance, as members of their school glee club, to appear with the orchestra in public.

And on March 21, when the final students' concert of this season is given in Constitution Hall, the symphony's regular concert place, these students will sing once more. They will be part of a large chorus of junior and senior high school students invited to take part in the festival program.

"When the National Symphony Orchestra first started giving concerts for school children I won't say our pupils were all enthusiastic about it," said Miss Hannah Bonnell, music director at Eliot. "In fact, not many wanted to go. But the attitude has changed, because when they go once they have so good a time they want to go again.

"We talk about the concerts in class. The boys and girls are very quick to report the things they liked—and just as quick to criticize.

"Of course, this opportunity for them to sing with a big symphony orchestra means much to them. They come in and practice their songs after school. And they don't just sing—they practice."

The National Symphony Orchestra, which yesterday opened its drive for $100,000 to sustain next year's concerts, has played more students' concerts this season than ever before. A similar schedule the directors hope to make possible next year.

Fleet Guarded Pending Report Of Spy Inquiry

Ex-Yeoman and Roommate Held as U. S. Jury Hears Testimony.

By the Associated Press.

Los Angeles, March 5.—The United States fleet moved in strictest secrecy tonight while Government agents here weighed evidence of an espionage investigation.

Two men were Federal prisoners—one a former yeoman of the Navy, the other, his former roommate, held as a Government witness.

Peirson Hall, United States district attorney, said decision as to further action will be made by the Department of State and the Navy Department in Washington.

Testimony already has been taken by the Federal grand jury, Hall disclosed. One of the principals under investigation is Harry Thomas Thompson, former Navy yeoman. He is detained on a Federal indictment charging illegal wearing of a Navy uniform. His bail was set at $20,000. Bail on such an indictment ordinarily is about $1,000.

The activities under investigation, said to involve the theft in 1934 of secret naval orders from the dreadnaughts here, have been the subject of naval inquiry for more than a year.

The first outward evidence of the case was the sudden imposition a year ago of greater secrecy by Admiral J. M. Reeves, fleet commander in chief.

All guns and mechanical devices aboard the ships were swathed in canvas.

Motorist Loses Driving Permit; 24 Suspended

One motorist convicted of speeding had his permit revoked, and 24 others had theirs suspended by the Board of Revocations and Restorations yesterday.

Thirty-day suspensions went to Melville R. Armstrong, 6026 North Dakota avenue northwest, 35 miles, second offense; Clarion Blackshear, 1834 S street northwest, 42 miles; Otis S. Cobe, 2108 P street northwest, 45 miles; John A. Deatherage, 2128 P street northwest, 45 miles; James W. King, 1119 S street northwest, 40 miles; James Marshall, 1025 Twenty-first street northwest, 40 miles; Lavender W. Powell, 1518 A street northeast, 43 miles; Louis B. FORD E. YOUNG.

Young Elected To Head Local Merchants Unit

Ford E. Young, president and manager of the Fussell-Young Ice Cream Co., yesterday was elected president of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association, an organization he has served as first vice president for the last three years.

Others elected were Arthur J. Sundlun, first vice president; John J. Hasley, second vice president; Bert L. Olmsted, third vice president; Louis Levay, treasurer; Edward D. Shaw, secretary, and Ringgold Hart, general counsel.

Young, the new president, has spent all of his life in Washington and is a son of Nicholas E. Young, for many years president of the National Baseball League. He helped found the company which bears his name, was one of the first businessmen to join the Merchants and Manufacturers Association, and has been chairman of the ice cream manufacturers division for the last eight years.

He is a charter member of the Washington Kiwanis Club and is now chairman of that organization's reception committee. He is also secretary and treasurer of the National Capital Field Trial Club. Young succeeds James E. Colliflower as head of the merchants group.

The retiring president, in his annual report to the board yesterday, pointed out that business in Washington showed a substantial growth within the last year, department store sales having improved 15.3 per cent over the previous year while the increase throughout the country for the same period was only 5 per cent.

Colliflower said the automobile business had set an all-time record with the sale of 28,891 cars during 1935, an increase of 57 per cent over the previous year, and that electric refrigerator sales had increased 30 per cent with a total sale of 15,852.

The Potomac Electric Power Co., according to Colliflower, had an average domestic consumption of 1,008 kilowatt-hours, the highest of any city east of the Mississippi. Within the last year the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. passed the 200,000 mark in telephone installations, a new high for that company.

Louis Levay, elected treasurer for the fifteenth term, was also elected national councillor to represent the association at the annual meeting of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Leave Bill Action Delayed in House

The Senate yesterday adopted the conference report on the Government leave bills, but the House postponed consideration until Monday.

The report was a compromise between Senate and House bills reached after the House voted 30-day vacations and other benefits and the Senate reduced them to 26 days and less accumulative leave.

No further obstacles are expected, and it is probable that the measures will be signed by the President sometime next week. They are effective retroactive to January 1, 1936.

Traffic Crack Down Ordered

But police "crack down" methods will not be confined to public vehicles alone, the police chief declared. Already, strict law enforcement has spread through his department. With a limited traffic personnel, he has issued orders to "bring in" all offenders of safety rules.

At today's meeting, Maj. Brown will confer with representatives of the Capital Transit Co., various taxi companies nad trucking concerns. Through these representatives, public vehicle drivers will be warned—for the last time.

Bitter denunciation of reckless driving methods often employed by bus, street car, taxi and truck drivers have reached the House traffic sub-committee and various safety campaign agencies.

Prominent among these complaints is the alleged practice of "overlooking" safety regulations during rush-hour periods by public vehicle operators.

For several hours yesterday, traffic lights along downtown Pennsylvania and Constitution avenues were thrown out of service by a short circuit. Although no accidents directly contributed to the lack of signals were reported, it was noted that many motorists—among them taxi and bus drivers—literally "battled" for right-of-way privileges at uncontrolled intersections.

There were strong words and once, at Fourteenth stret and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, a dispute almost led to blows. This dispute involved a private automobile and street car.

Richmond B. Keech, Public Utilities Commissioner, also testifying at recent House traffic hearings, flayed public vehicle drivers or negligent practices.

"The commission will back police in their drastic action against operators of public vehicles. We are not pleased with their operation," said Keech.

Time and again, witnesses before the traffic sub-committee have urged enactment of a law limiting the number of taxicabs in Washington. At present, the Public Utilities Commission has no authority to curb taxi operations.

Representative Carpenter also took an opportunity to strike at public vehicle drivers. He, however, included private motorists in the statement:

"It seems to be a Washington custom ot 'beat the lights.'"

This type of violation was noted frequently during the committee's recent observation tour in the Goodyear Blimp, officials said. By watching white lines at intersections, one car after another could be seen to leave a line of traffic and "get the jump" on other vehicles.

Representative Schulte provoked laughter at a traffic hearing by saying:

Celebrated Cinema Gown Will Be Duplicated in Cellophane.

By Chanticleer.

Just the other day some one asked whether any of the Russians at the town's supper clubs ever served in the Russian imperial army. The answer now is "yes." Only this week it came out: Vyacheslaw Momonoff, who tenors "Blue Mazurka" for his partner, Mme. Pauline Achmatova, at the Russian Troika, is a genuine former officer in the imperial service.

Momonoff has been at the Troika for weeks but his service connection came out as a matter of coincidence when someone chanced to mention Karl Marx.

If you noted a lad in the Troika's gypsy room Wednesday night, with a Hindenburg haircut and his eyes out on sticks—you saw the newly arrived son of Capt. Georgi Andrevitch Bonch Osmolowsky, otherwise known as the Troika's suave headwaiter. Young Osmolowsky arrived in New York only Tuesday, was met by his proud dad, and whisked to Washington before he had even a chance to get a good look at the Empire State Building.

One of the most beautiful gowns ever made in Hollywood, using 60 or more yards of material, will be duplicated in cellophane by Miss Maud Muhlig, designer for Warner Bros., at tonight's Shoreham "Movie Night." And a bathing suit, of lustrous and transparent cellophane, also will be featured. As usual, motion pictures will be made. Maxim Lowe's Orchestra, with Barnee directing, for the dancers . . . A little different routine is being used by Fred Cameron and Evelyn Van, dancing at the Heigh-Ho this week. Evelyn appears, smoking a cigarette; Fred, to gain her attention, takes the cigarette, makes it disappear in thin air; they dance—and at its conclusion Fred appears a bit disinterested and, to gain his attention, Evelyn suddenly produces a cigarette from midair. They are specializing in ballroom dancing this week . . . The big floor shows at the Club Volga Boatman have crowded interest a bit in the Saturday luncheons at that Russian spot. Or at least little has been said of the luncheons for some time. So-o-o-o-o, here is your reminder. Music, of course . . . Going, going—only three days remain to see the big Earl Lindsey revue at the Lotus, with beautiful dancing gals, and a big show of specialty performers. And the Broadway show isn't all—not with Bill Strickland and his Capitolians and little Judy Ellington representing the home precincts . . . Charlie Opunui has written a new Hawaiian tune and the Ambassador's Hi-Hat guests are being asked to suggest titles for the number. It's suggestive of soft winds and tropical palms and all that sort of thing . . . The La Paree orchestra is busy as the proverbial paperhanger these days, with a C. B. S. network show each Thursday night, amateur contests each Monday night—and a Midnight Skyride Sunday nights. And for steady diet, the boys play for dancing at noon and half the night for the acts on the floor shows three times daily . . . Peter Borras, the town's No. 1 epicure, opines that many years in the restaurant business has shown him that a true gourmet is not measured by any established yardstick. He may be a Marine leatherneck or a bank president—a government stenographer or a leading publicist, such as Tom Shipp. It was Shipp, by the way, who talked so much of Peter's minestrone soup that Mrs. Shipp finally, in desperation, wheedled Peter into giving her the recipe. Maybe he'll give it to you, too, on your next trip to the Madrillon . . . Ramon, of the popular Connecticut avenue Ramon's, advises us that the new policy of dancing nightly is going over in the proverbial bang. The band is under the direction of Rudy Schramm, a Sidney organization . . . The moon and stars will soon be setting the Dude Ranch apart as a swell place to spend the evening. Ralph Garron and his ork complete the picture.

Around the Supper Clubs This Week

On the Air Today

THE first conspicuous flair of showmanship brought from the "Century of Progress" to N. B. C. by Lenox R. Lohr, the net's new president, is noted in plans for feting the millionth guest at Radio City when he or she shows up for a studio tour sometime in the next few days.

No visitor at the Chicago exposition who came in on one of the "millionth" tickets escaped without due ceremonies centering about his person. He was wined and dined and left the grounds a celebrity.

So it will be with the millionth person taking the studio tour. He will be dined as a guest of honor of N. B. C. officials. Moreover, he will get into places most visiting fireman merely hear rumors of. He will see the stage shows from the wings, will hobnob with the stars of the greatest magnitude. He will take away with him a new Magic Eye radio set.

His entertainment committee will be comprised of Milton J. Cross, chairman; Fred Allen, Jack Benny and several others who will present him with a key to the plant. From the Rainbow Grill, he will be introduced in a network broadcast from his ringside table.

And that isn't all. He goes to bed, after his big day, in a special suite in a Manhattan hotel (wouldn't it be tragic if he came to town only for the day?) and the feting goes on the next day at theaters and cafes.

In case you're interested, the millionth visitor will be the one who steps up to the tour desk and draws identification tag No. 61,528—which is the serial number which also stands for 1,000,000. Incidentally, the tag cannot be bought nor will it be given to the lucky holder. That seems to be the only thing at Radio City the lucky person will not be able to ask for—and receive.

Culbertson on Bridge

Team-of-Four Matches.

Team-of-four matches constitute the truest test of bridge skill available, but, unfortunately, the element of luck still is inescapable. Of course, if the contest is one of 300 or 400 hands luck is reduced to a negligible factor and the better team should win, but such contests are much too time-consuming for ordinary tournaments. Here the average inter-team match is approximately 40 hands, until the finals, when 60 to 100 are played.

As in single sessions of rubber bridge play, the cards are apt to have decided trends. Thus it may well be that a consistent overbidder will have a veritable field day, finding every finesse successful and every suit breaking miraculously. Contrariwise, at other sessions the cards are sullen, refusing to permit the fulfilment of the most legitimate contracts, and the timid souls get unjust rewards. In both cases, it should be noted, the perfect bidder is enormously handicapped.

A Very Tricky Grand Slam.

North, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

♣ Q 8 5 2	♣ K J 10 6 4

SOUTH
♠ A Q 9 8 6 3
♥ A 10 8
♦ None
♣ A 9 7 3

At one table the correct contract of six spades was reached, played as safely as possible and, of course, fulfilled. At the other table the bidding was:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 spade	Pass
3 diamonds	Pass	3 spades	Pass
6 spades	Pass	7 spades [final bid]

The most superficial analysis discloses that the grand slam has considerably less than an even chance for success. It should be noted that the spade king must not only be in East's hand [unless singleton in West, and declarer peeks], but must not be doubly guarded. North's only entry is by means of a club ruff, which reduces the trump holding to two cards. Thus, even if East has the king, but has at least two small trumps as well, the diamond suit never can be ruff. East has simply to cover the second spade lead from dummy.

On a purely mathematical, non-double-dummy basis there was only one chance in four of the slam succeeding, yet with the cards as they were it was made. The goddess of luck often favors the rash.

Army Riding Exhibitions End Today at Fort Myer

Annual Series to Conclude With "Diplomatic Ride" by Cavalry, Artillery Units; Assistant Secretary, Mrs. Carr to Be Honor Guests.

By Francesca McKenney.

Members of Capital society who entertain for the many out-of-town guests, at the usual cocktail party and dinner, often look for something out of the ordinary to show visitors, so as to make their stay more pleasant. Among the most exciting events that Washington has to offer are the weekly exhibition drills at Fort Myer, Va., during the winter season.

It is hard to describe fully one of these drills, with the trick maneuvers and suicidal acrobatics presented by the Third and Tenth Cavalry and the Sixteenth Field Artillery. Due to the popularity of these drills an extra one was added to accommodate those wishing to attend this season.

Yesterday afternoon the Secretary of War and Mrs. George H. Dern were the guests of honor, and today the Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. Wilbur J. Carr will be the honor guests at the ride. Mrs. Dern entertained at luncheon at her home at Highwood yesterday preceding the drill. The drill today will be presented by the officers and enlisted men of the Third Cavalry and the Sixteenth Field Artillery, and will conclude the series held annually at Fort Myer.

Diplomatic Ride.

This afternoon's performance is known as the Diplomatic Ride, and among those who expect to attend are the Ambassador of Chile, Senor Don Manuel Trucco; the Ambassador of Turkey and Mme. Ertegun, the Ambassador of Cuba, Senor Dr. Guillermo Patterson y de Jauregui, and the Ambassador of Mexico and Senora de Castillo Najera, as well as military attaches of the different embassies and legations, who are always interested in superb horsemanship.

Among the daring feats that will be witnessed this afternoon will be jumps by noncommissioned officers, who will remove their stirrups and toss them into a basket at the end of the hall. On the next round they will slip their saddles off as they rise to the peak of the jump, holding their saddles under one arm. Then, just to make it a bit more difficult, they will remove their bridles and complete the course of intricate flank, oblique and line movements at a gallop, using only their legs to control their horses.

Famous Troop E, of the Third Cavalry, will put on its musicale ride with many difficult feats, the riders ending in a large circle, facing outwards and backing their horses slowly until they have made a smaller compact circle. This troop has become so well known that the riders and their mounts were transported to New York last fall to perform at the National Horse Show, at Madison Square Garden.

Thrilling Events.

One of the most thrilling events will be the rough riders, who somersault out of the saddle backwards, hang on to their mounts' tails, and let themselves be dragged around the hall about 2 inches from flying hoofs. There are also men who form a human obstacle, with a man for the bottom bar and one for the top, and permit a horse and rider to jump through the opening. Then comes the very spectacular feat when the men jump their horses through hoops of fire, which all horses dread.

Last, but not least, of the afternoon's thrills is the Sixteenth Field Artillery, who will put their heavy mounts through the most intricate movements, with the caissons rattling along at terrifying speed, throwing the tanbark in all directions, as they slide into place. There are many more exciting events during the afternoon, which holds an everlasting thrill for the spectators, no matter how many times they have witnessed these rides.

District Girls Attend Prom At Yale Tonight

Mr. Frederick H. Brooke, Jr., Is Chairman of Floor Committee.

By Dudley Harmon.

A bid to the Yale Junior prom—at least in our day, not so far back—was among a girl's most coveted invitations, and this year several from Washington will attend the event. The dance is being held this evening in Woolsey Hall, the college gymnasium, which tonight will be transformed into a bower of smilax and evergreens.

Mr. Frederick H. Brooke, jr., son of the well-known Washington architect, is chairman of the floor committee this year. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Brooke, are in New Haven for the event. This evening they will be guests at a dinner given for the out-of-town patronesses by President and Mrs. James Rowland Angell. Mr. Brooke's guest at the prom will be Miss Louise Read, of Aiken, S. C.

For the first time in many years, card dances will be on the program. Fraternities at both the college and Sheffield Scientific School are having gay houseparties over the week-end. On Saturday there will be a round of tea dances and dinners, while in the afternoon the Yale Dramatic Association will give a special presentation of "Wings Over Europe" for the week-end guests. The traditional Yale-Harvard hockey game will follow fraternity and club dinners. in the evening, while the week-end's gala festivities will be brought to a close by a series of private dances in the different campus houses.

Dancing tonight will start at 10:30, and at 11 the grand march will begin. This year it will be led by Mr. Howard A. Austin, jr., chairman of the prom. Mr. Brooke and his partner will follow him in the procession along with other members of the committee and their guests.

Miss Frances Glover, daughter of Mr. W. Irving Glover, former Assistant Postmaster General, will attend the prom as the guest of Mr. Robert Foothorap of Harrisburg, Pa. Miss Ethel Worthington, daughter of Mrs. Ralph Worthington, who is a student at Miss Spence's School in New York, is the guest of Mr. Walter J. Cummings, jr., of Chicago. Miss Bambie McKenna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Royal McKenna, will leave her studies at Vassar to attend the prom as guest of Mr. Jacob Bird, jr., of Sandy Springs, Md.

Other Washington girls who will be present are Miss Louise Alexander, whose partner will be Mr. Robert T. Reeder, of Washington; Miss Mary Jane Barry, the guest of Mr. Van Wyck Brinkerhoff, of Toledo; Miss Gertrude Laughlin, the guest of Mr. Walter H. Schoellkopf, jr., also of Washington; Miss Helen Brereton, Miss Ann Page, Miss Jean Ulman, Miss Marguerite Dupont Lee and Miss Margaret Hill.

Students at Yale from Washington who will attend the prom include Mr. Ralph Ellis, jr., Mr. W. N. Taft, Mr. Louis W. Hutchins and Mr. George Day Thorpe, of Bethesda, Md.

4th Book Lecture To Be Given Today

Mrs. Van Hagan to Offer More Reviews.

Mrs. Lydia Van Hagan will present the fourth of a series of ten book reviews, "World Events as Reflected in Current Literature," this morning at 11:30 in the west ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel.

"The American Chamber of Horrors," the inside story of the Government's fight to protect the consumer against adulterated foods and injurious drugs and cosmetics, by the chief educational officer of the United States Food and Drug Administration, will be reviewed.

"Sweden: the Middle Way," Marquis W. Childs, an analysis of Sweden's progress under a compromise system of government, will be contrasted with some of the current methods and legislation in this country.

Dance Is Planned By 12 Fraternities

The George Washington University Interfraternity Prom will be held tonight at the Willard Hotel. It will be attended by members of the 12 fraternities holding membership in the interfraternity council, members of the board of trustees, university officers and faculty members.

Leading the grand march will be Mr. Newell Lusby, president of the interfraternity council, escorting Miss Jean Ackerman, of New York City, and Mr. John Molyneaux, social chairman of the council, escorting Miss Helen Dettweiler.

POST WANT ADS PAY

TWO ON SAFARI

By GEORGE AGNEW CHAMBERLAIN

Ballard Mallory, young American explorer, accepts a commission to find the young Hon. Laurence Morland, who has disappeared in Africa. Aboard ship he meets Josephine Cascoden, enigmatic young Englishwoman, who calmly announces she is going with him. He tries to prevent her, their wills clash, and she outwits him. At last he agrees, they arrive at a hotel in Lourenco Marques and in last-minute preparation there a girl at the door of a bank throws herself in Mallory's arms, exclaiming: "Darling! Who dropped you in my lap?" Josephine announces she is "going home."

Chapter XV.

"I Withdraw the Offer!"

WITHOUT hesitation Ali went up the stairs and presently returned.

"Mr. Mallory playing cards," he announced through gleaming white teeth, the words stunning her like a blow from a mallet. "He say you go home if you want. You like?"

"Yes, please," said Josephine in a faint voice, her lips trembling violently.

Ali gave the driver an order in Portuguese and ten minutes later she stepped from the car at the hotel and found her way to her room. The place was so stripped and neat she thought she must have made a mistake until her eyes fell on Mrs. Semster, sound asleep on the couch. Beside her was the disorderly tray which had contained her dinner, but it struck a lonely note. So thoroughly had everything been packed that the apartment had taken on the forlorn air of an abandoned habitation. Giving way to despondency, Josephine sat on the edge of the bed, but only for a moment. She glanced at her watch, sprang to her feet and started to tear off her clothes.

"Mrs. Semster!"

The poor woman came awake with convulsive outflingings of her arms and legs.

"Oh, Miss, I didn't recognize you," said Mrs. Semster. She floundered forward, fell on her knees and proceeded to peel off the jodhpurs. "I've been waiting for these; you know they must be let down an inch."

"You can do it while I'm downstairs. Do you mind running a bath for me—fairly hot? What dinner dress did you leave out?"

"None, miss; it won't be expected. I can assure you Mr. Mallory won't think of dressing."

"He has nothing to do with it," said Josephine, and added: "Get me out a frock."

Josephine Dines Alone.

Half an hour later she descended alone and went directly to the table she had occupied with Mallory on the previous evening. The head waiter hurried to her side and she ordered a simple meal. He continued to stand at attention.

"That's all," said Josephine. "No; you can send me a bottle of the same wine we had last night."

"You will await the gentleman?"

"Mr. Mallory is not coming."

So far, while she had been in action, she had had no time to notice what people were in the room. Now she became aware of other late diners and conscious of herself as a burning center of observation. It was nothing unusual to have people stare, but this was somehow different from all previous occasions. The air seemed to throb with questions. Why was she alone? Was she as young as she looked? Where had Mallory found her? She wasn't the type. Too much breeding, too good-looking, too fresh for a spare tire.

Her cup of madrilene came just in time; a moment later and her poise would have wilted under the strain. She ate slowly, both because she was not hungry and from a desire to kill as much time as possible.

Her mind raced backward over the day—only a day, yet it seemed a week. Why? What had she done? Nothing but wait—wait in bed, in the car, on packing cases and in the car again—for Mallory. Then the final injury of settling down to play cards while she sat outside—small, mean. The man who could take that sort of revenge for a trifling insubordination would stop at nothing where more was at stake. Last night she had begun to tolerate him, but she had been wrong, she would not err again. So absorbed was she in her own thought that she was unaware of Kennicott's approach until he stood at her side.

"Good evening, Miss Cascoden—or is it Casfolen?"

"Cascoden," replied Josephine and added, "Mr. Kennicott."

"Do you mind my speaking to you?" he asked.

She looked up, struck by a change from his bantering manner of the previous evening. "Not at all. Won't you sit down? There's some wine left but I imagine you would prefer a whisky and soda."

"No, thanks," he said, drawing out a chair and seating himself, "nothing to drink. Has Mallory told you my job?"

"No; he hasn't mentioned you. Why should he?"

A Mysterious Message.

Kennicott eyed her thoughtfully, his habitual gayety banned from his face. "I run the local office of the Eastern Telegraph & Cable Co. About a week ago we received a message addressed simply Miss Casfolen, Delagoa Bay. Since meeting you last night I had it repeated back for confirmation of address but the sender could not be located."

"That was very kind of you," said Josephine.

"Aren't you curious?" he asked.

"Have I a right to be?" she countered.

"I think so. At any rate, here's the cable. Please open and read it. If you say the message is meant for you, we can consider it delivered."

As Josephine took the flimsy envelope and started to break its seal her attention was caught by a figure just emerging from the archway leading toward the hotel entrance. It took her an instant to recognize Mallory. He had had a hard day, one of the hardest of his life, and as he approached she perceived that his eyes, usually so clear, were slightly bloodshot. Considering the usage to which his clothes had been put since morning they would have been fairly respectable in any other surroundings but against this background and in comparison with Kennicott's immaculate attire they verged on the disreputable. Feeling vaguely annoyed, she paused to wonder why she should care and forgot the message.

"If you please," said Kennicott, reminding her, "until you read it we don't know whether it's yours."

With Mallory standing by she tore open and unfolded the envelope. Her eyes perused the stenciled lettering slowly, then flew back to read the words again. Abruptly the color left her face. For a moment she sat quite still—so still she seemed a statue that might never move again. Then with startling suddenness she began to tear the paper across and across. But while she could not control her blood she at least remained mistress of her voice.

"Thank you," she said evenly. "The message was for me."

Ballard Malloy stood transfixed, assailed by a dozen questions. He knew the impropriety of taking interest in other people's private correspondence, yet considered he had wronged himself by not snatching the flimsy out of Josephine's hands before she could destroy it. He ignored Kennicott, knowing the impossibility of prying open those lips, officially sealed, and stared at Josephine as though he and she were alone in the room.

An Angry Departure.

Still pale, she did not look up from making a careful heap of the torn bits of paper on her serving plate, but slowly her mouth took on a curve of disdain. Without warning she raised the plate and held it out to Mallory.

"Since you want it so much," she murmured, "you can put the bits in your pocket and paste them together when you have time."

He felt an impulse toward violence! snatching out his lighter he flipped it and set fire to the tiny heap. "Sailing time has changed," he muttered. "I'm leaving at midnight."

Before she quite comprehended his words he had turned and was on his way to the door. She made a movement as if to rise, but promptly suppressed it, her whole nature in revolt at giving satisfaction to the consuming curiosity of everybody in the room, including Kennicott. Settling back, she raised steady eyes to his face.

"Mr. Mallory is an American," she explained.

Kennicott leaned forward, his face expressionless though his eyes were intent. "That's it," he began. "Can't you imagine how we Britishers feel——" His eager words ceased, stopped in midflight by the sudden impact of her gaze. Her lips moved and for an instant he thought he was about to get the rebuke of his life, but in the end she said nothing. He changed his tone, became formal. "Can I be of any assistance, Miss Cascoden?"

"Oh, no," said Josephine lightly; "I think every thing has been attended to."

"That's not what I meant and you know it," said Kennicott. "Do you care to leave the address of your people?"

"No."

"In case further messages come, where do you wish them sent?"

"There won't be any."

"One more question. You seem to assume you're the only one who knows what was in that message. That's absurd, of course; half a dozen of us had to read it."

"Officially," commented Josephine.

"Quite. Would you consider it an impertinence if I offered you a personal loan?"

"Not necessarily," replied Josephine and added coolly, "How would I have to pay."

Anger lit in his eyes and cheeks. "Certainly not with impudence," he said, rising. "I withdraw the offer."

'Rain Gloves' Latest Spring Weather Aid

By Ruth Anne Davis.

IT HAS OFTEN seemed strange to us that there were no such things as rain gloves. Here in this day and time when our smallest needs are catered to we must brave a chilly blow and piercing rainfall with our hands unprotected save for ordinary gloves. Certainly they don't take to water in the spirit of fun. Leather gloves become mushy, and cotton ones soggy. And just try to hold an umbrella when the rain pours and the wind blows without drenching your hands.

But that's over. We said "were left without gloves." They are here now, right here in Washington, thanks to the ingenuity of a woman in charge of a very helpful concern. She had some made up of that transparent, soft, comfortable oilskin in natural color. Are they smart! And are they cosy! Just try a pair when you brave some of March's angry weather.

Fascinating Shades.

Even if you don't wear gray and even if your skin isn't sallow, you'll find that two new shades of powder bring a fascinating warmth and liveliness to your complexion.

There's quite a trick to putting a blush in face powder. Flat ordinary colors won't do—they are apt to look muddy and sallow on the skin. So, one cosmetic house literally spins rosy, ardent color into face powder by the exclusive new airspun process. By this method the coloring is not just mixed with the powder but "spun" into it by powerful air currents. A soft underflow results which is very lovely and very, very flattering.

The two shades are called Soleil d'Or and Rachel Nacre. The first is perfect for the girl whose skin is on the olive side. It's a blush in a golden flash of sunlight (if we must be poetic).

Dates for Lent.

IF YOU "know your groceries" as the grocer does you'll have plenty of dates for Lent! Dates, right from the Garden of Eden, are being featured throughout the country now to satisfy that Lenten sweet tooth if you're giving up certain sweetmeats.

And here's good news! They're selling for the lowest price in 20 years—some very special dates you're bound to enjoy. They come in a neat package which you can see right into through a little cellophane window.

Advocates Early Training In Music

EVEN BABIES respond to good music and should hear it in the home from the time they are a few months old, says Mrs. Dorothy Fredenhagen, assistant director of Federal music projects. She advises that music teaching be begun with piano lessons when the child is 6 or 7 years old.

Pleasant HOMES

By Elizabeth MacRae Boykin.

IT'S A DELIGHTFUL old Georgian house with a large square entrance hall and a broad winding staircase that has a mahogany rail. The furniture includes a Duncan Phyfe table and two lyre back chairs, a French sofa (not very large) and a French armchair. On the walls are family portraits. The adjoining rooms are respectively—blue with cherry draperies—gold and green—cream and blue. The problem here is—what color for the walls which are going to be painted over * * * also what color for the carpet, stair runner and upholstery? And what accessories for a Victorian what-not?

In a room that must give a tranquil impression and co-ordinate the various adjoining rooms, the wall is better in a color that harmonizes with each adjoining room. And when these are in quite a few different colors, the hall is safer in a neutral color. If the adjoining rooms are all neutral, then the hall can be more daring in wall treatment and have one of the smart dark colors. In this particular hall, we would advise cream for the walls and woodwork, with the exception of the mahogany rail. Then for the floor and stair runner, broadloom carpeting in dark red * * * and upholstery in powder blue. Add accessories in white and silver on the what-not.

WPA Leader in Charge of U. S. Music Projects Says "Youth Should Hear Good Music in Home From Time of Infancy."

By Sara Roberts Millhouse.

IF YOU WANT your children to be more alert and better able to concentrate in school—give them musical training early.

Whether or not a child has real talent, study of music will increase his appreciation not only of music but of all other things; it will make him a better pupil, more alert, more able to concentrate, quicker in everything he does.

So believes Mrs. Dorothy Fredenhagen, assistant director in charge of musical education of WPA's Federal music project. Former instructor in music, concert and radio pianist, accompanist and organist, and first woman carillon player in the world, Mrs. Fredenhagen has devoted much study to the musical training of children.

How can a mother develop interest in music which will produce this added alertness in school, and pleasure throughout life? How early should she begin laying a musical background? How soon should the child start lessons? What method of teaching is best?

These were discussed by Mrs. Fredenhagen between answering a busy telephone and counseling assistants at her office in the old McLean mansion, now headquarters for the Federal Music Project.

"From the time a child is old enough to be aware of things about him, he should hear good music in the home," she said. "Hearing music will develop love of it and will create a natural desire to play some instrument.

"Babies only a few months old respond to good music. I know of an instance where a baby of five months is soothed by music and cries when her father,, a flutist stops playing to her."

Six Proper Age.

When a child's interest in music reaches the extent of wanting to play, he should begin lessons. Mrs. Fredenhagen believes that 6 or 7 years is old enough—and young enough. She frowns on forcing an instrument on children, or even encouraging them to play, before then.

Child prodigies, she pointed out, are "very difficult, usually ill adjusted children, spoiled by being forced to long hours of practice when they should be playing childish games. This lack of adjustment makes them somewhat social misfits all their lives, and even their music reflects lack of social contact and feeling. They are marvelous technically, but too machine-like," she added.

She gave some don'ts as well as do's for creating love of music in children. As soon as the child has an ear for music, don't subject him to off tones. Don't sing off-key lullabies. Don't permit toy pianos and xylophones with flat, harsh, off tones.

Group training is preferable to individual training, in Mrs. Fredenhagen's opinion. "More and more we are getting away from private teaching," she said. "Group training is particularly important for the young, or pre-school child.

Appeals to Children.

"It creates the thing that appeals to all children—competition and friendly rivalry. We are getting away from old methods of teaching. Now it is more like a game. The child likes music before he realizes what it is."

What of the theory a child should be psychoanalyzed to learn whether he has talent and what instrument he should play?

"That," she replied, "is the theory of but one man. My idea is this: With a background of music, a child should begin when he is 6 or 7 with piano lessons. The piano is a basic, fundamental instrument. It is the simplest to begin on and acquire reading knowledge. Stringed instruments, where the child must form his own notes, may discourage him. Let him start with the piano. His progress will tell if he has talent, and he may select his own instrument.

"And not just any old piano will do at first!" she cautioned. "The beginner should have a true instrument—and a good teacher."

Directs Placements.

As assistant to Dr. Nikolai Sokoloff, director of the Federal music project, Mrs. Fredenhagen directs the work of placing music teachers on relief in jobs. Worthy teachers are selected by auditions according to requirements listed in a 15-page manual she compiled. Teachers are being placed in CCC and transient camps, in settlement and community centers where they teach groups not only various instruments and voice, but music appreciation. Thus fields in music are being opened to children of relief families and to adults long denied such opportunities.

As the world's first woman carillon player, and probably the most outstanding today, Mrs. Fredenhagen has given concerts in many of the major cities of the United States, Belgium and Holland, sending out for miles over the country-side the lovely bell tones of the "singing towers."

Your HEALTH

By Dr. Irving S. Cutter

Intestinal Disease.

INTESTINAL disease is most troublesome. Not only is the patient unhappy, ill, and distressed, but nutrition is interfered with seriously and the condition is likely to degenerate into a chronic state that goes from bad to worse. There is usually pain in the abdomen, and the abdominal distention. If mucus is present for a day or two it need not be regarded with undue concern, although blood is an important sign. In older persons the presence of blood should lead at once to the investigation of the rectum and search for any possible evidence of tumor growth. Pus means infection, the source of which must be found.

Ulceration Colitis.

In ulceration colitis we have a severe infection which requires careful dietary management, the possible use of vaccines, and the removal of foci of infection elsewhere in the body. A careful building up regime is imperative. Many patients expect to recover from this condition in a few weeks. If we could put the intestine at rest completely for a ten-day period this might be accomplished, but unfortunately we cannot stop contractions of the bowel for any great length of time without serious results.

Ulcerative colitis is as difficult to manage as is tuberculosis of the bowel. The physician is called upon, therefore, to plan a delicate balance between food needed to maintain life, but which at the same time will not increase inflammation. A diet high in protein following a few days of bold starvation may be successful in a few cases.

Points of Infection.

It should be recalled that infection may attack not only the mucous membrane but the intestinal wall itself, hence colon irrigations are either useless or become, in some cases, a source of real danger.

The more we study nature the more we understand that the less we interfere with the physiology of the body the better. Many dilated colons which later refused to function have resulted from this fad for irrigation.

Patients who complain of loose bowels may not have colon disease at all. The cause may lie in a lack of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. If this important substance is found to be deficient it may be taken under the supervision of a competent physician. This again shows the interdependence of the various organs of the body. Hydrochloric acid is secreted some 20 feet distant (as one travels the intestinal pathway) from the colon.

Young Readers Keep Alive Discussion of Their Manners, Morals.

By Mary Haworth.

COLUMNIST'S NOTE: Wit, humor and spirited convictions characterize letters received from correspondents who continue to keep alive a discussion of manners and morals of modern youth, launched in this column February 13 with publication of a letter from a young lady who signed herself "Seventeen" and told of her disgust with the lax moral standards of all her boy friends. From dozens of missives received on the subject, I am today selecting three which further reflect the reaction of youth to her lament. M. H.

"Twenty-One" Called Naive.

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I have been a daily reader of your very interesting column for some time. But I have never before felt the urge to express myself therein. However, the recently published letter from "Twenty-one" aroused my feminine wrath to such a heat that I am unable to control this outburst.

* * * *

So, Mr. Twenty-one has failed to ever encounter any girl possessing the exact qualities which he considers essential to the perfect woman. I should like to ask Mr. Twenty-one just what qualities he possesses to offer this supreme woman when she happens along. Does he feel himself qualified to demand that the women in his life should possess all the virtues as well as the charms of Venus and a highly developed intellect? He states that she must possess "charm, appeal, intelligence, culture, purity of mind and body, consideration, generosity and capacity for affection." Sounds like a pretty large order to me.

* * * *

I will confess, Mr. Twenty-one, that in my early years I also cherished a secret ideal of a man who would be fascinating, intelligent, cultured, clean, kind, generous, with a keen sense of humor and a very warm heart, but sadly enough I grew wiser with the years. I learned that I would fall far short of this paragon, that even his generous character could not fail to note my great inferiority. I also discovered, Mr. Twenty-one, that there is a great deal more happiness in giving of these fine qualities to someone you love, whether he be cultured, intelligent, or fascinating, than in selfishly demanding.

* * * *

Your naivette is refreshing, in deed, Mr. Twenty-one, for I have met your kind time and time again—males who feel that their duty is done in merely being a male! Why is it always that the most objectionable boy will demand that he have the best-looking date?

But in spite of your faults you must be delightfully amusing to talk to, Mr. Twenty-one, and I am sure time will smooth you for I fear you would make an unbearable husband at present!

MISS TWENTY-ONE.

OPINIONS OF A REALIST.

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I just noticed your column the other day, and became so much interested that I secured the back numbers referring to Miss Seventeen's letter.

* * * *

I think that you have been a little hard on "J. C." It seems to me that he was only delicately hinting the point that "Past Fifty" brings out so clearly. Being 23 myself, I heartily indorse "Past Fifty's" stand. I have known many different types of girls and one, I think, very similar to Miss Seventeen. As "Past Fifty" says, boys are not averse to accepting free gifts and when a girl lavishes her kisses so freely, is it reasonable for her not to expect further advances?

* * * *

I am neither a cynic nor an idealist, but rather pretend to be a realist. I have met girls who possess all the qualities that "Twenty-One" has failed to find and girls who possess very few of them. It is general custom for girls to smoke and drink, but there are genteel ways of doing it, just as there are in all the social amenities. I think it is very simple to make oneself understood by one's conduct. Sincerely yours, T. M. P.

Spring Fruits Help in Hunt For Tasty Food

Strawberries and Rhubarb Real Additions to New Household Menus.

By Elisabeth E. Poe.

THE COMING of spring means greater varying of home diets as milder weather calls for different types of food from those needed in combating cold.

The homemaker eager to please her family is casting about for lighter forms of desserts. In the first place, she wishes to utilize the rhubarbs, strawberries, and other spring fruits in the most attractive manner possible.

At this season when strawberries are still high priced it is less expensive to combine them with other ingredients than to serve them plain with sugar and cream.

Another fruit cheap and plentiful now is the orange. Its juice is not the only delightful way in which it can be used. There are a wide variety of orange recipes, and the good housekeeper and cook learns many of them.

Speaking of rhubarb, it is an herb which has food as well as medical elements within itself. A little known use for it is that it gives a new tang to baked apples, if any winter ones are left in the barrel, and if you want to sweeten the dish to a Queen's taste use honey for flavoring, instead of ordinary sugar.

Here is a recipe for Bavarian strawberry cream which has been treasured in British files for decades.

Bavarian Strawberry Cream.

Soak 1 ounce of gelatine in ¼ cupful cold water for ½ hour, then set it over boiling water until dissolved. Add 1 pint strwaberry juice and 6 tablespoons of sugar. Strain into a bowl set in a large pan of ice and stir till it thickens. Add 1 pint whipped cream. Mix well and pour it into a mold to harden. Turn out on a low dish, garnish with whole fruit.

The same source is responsible for this tasty apple recipe. It is called "apples stewed in butter and sugar."

Peel, core and cut your apples into ¼ chips. Put a layer in a shallow fireproof dish, cover with bits of butter and sprinkle with sugar; cover with another layer of apples and repeat butter and sugar. Do this till the dish is full, put it in a moderate oven and baste very often. Do not let the top layer burn if possible. The apple slices should become a clear brown. Serve very hot, or in an open tart. Serve whipped cream separately.

Then there is a strawberry meringue pudding which should make every member of the family ask for more.

Strawberry Meringue Pudding.

1 tablespoon butter
½ cup sugar
2 egg yolks
2 cups milk
1 cup bread crumbs
1 cup strawberries
¾ cup sugar
2 egg whites

Cream the butter and sugar, add beaten yolks, milk, and crumbs. Pour into a buttered dish and bake covered, in a moderately hot oven until firm. Place strawberries over the top of pudding, add one-half cup sugar and spread with meringue made from stiffly beaten whites of eggs and one-quarter cup sugar. Bake in a moderate oven to set meringue. Serve cold with cream.

Here is rather a novel recipe for stewed rhubarb and figs. The ingredients are 1-3 pound pulled figs, water to cover figs, 1 pound rhubarb and 1 cup sugar.

Wash the figs thoroughly and drain. Add hot water to barely cover and soak until plump. Wash rhubarb and cut in inch pieces without peeling, unless the skin is discolored. Put rhubarb, figs, sugar and fig water into double boiler, and cook until fruit is tender.

Firmness Held An Essential Of Discipline

Yielding to Child's Teasing Tends to Make Him Nervous, Whiny.

By Alice Clarissa Richmond.

"MAY I HAVE a piece of candy, mother?"

"No, Joe."

"Please, mother, just one little one. Please, mother."

"Well, just a little one then. But don't ask me for any more. And don't do this again, for this is the last time."

But it is not the last time and Joe knows it. When he wants forbidden fruit of some kind again he has only to tease enough and his mother finally will yield.

Bad Training.

Such indecisive training is definitely bad for children. It undermines disciplines, and, far from making the child happy, ends by making him a nervous, whining little creature. Children prefer a sense of stability to a vacilating system on which they cannot rely. The child who knows that "no" means "no," once and for all, gives up the idea of teasing and turns to other things without wasting time and nervous energy on the unattainable.

Never Reverse Order.

Never should an order, once given, be reversed unless, of course, new evidence is produced which changes the situation. Had Joe been able to say, "You promised me a piece after luncheon and I forgot to come for it," his mother would have been justified in yielding, and the child would have understood her change of position. The whole picture would have been changed, and Joe's request justified.

In the case in point, however, it was the mother's nervousness which responded to a nagging. Perhaps she thought that it was sympathy or pity or a belated feeling that her refusal was unjustified. If, however, Joe had not teased, none of these motives would have worked. It was really the child's persistence which overcame her resistance, and Joe learned right there the technique to pursue on future occasions.

Sen. Sheppard's Daughter Given Contest Prize

French Ambassador Gives Medal of Paris to Student; Others Honored.

Andre de Laboulaye, French Ambassador to the United States, presented prizes to winners of a French competition conducted by the American Association of Teachers of French in Hurst Hall, American University, yesterday afternoon. The main prize, official silver medal of the City of Paris, went to Lucille Sheppard, of Western High School, daughter of Senator Morris Sheppard, of Texas.

In a short speech before the presentation of prizes, Ambassador de Laboulaye congratulated students on their efforts, and said knowledge of foreign languages is one of the most effective methods of developing international good will. Students, he explained, come to like a people through a study of its language and traditions.

The competition was held at George Washington University, February 15, with 175 representatives of 19 public and private schools participating. Awards were based on an examination and an original essay. Miss Sheppard's winning essay, "Why I Should Like to Go to France," was read to the assembly by Mme. Andree Strong, teacher of French at Chevy Chase Junior College.

Prior to the prize-giving, a bouquet was presented to Mme. de Laboulaye, who accompanied the ambassador. Judges of the contest were Mrs. Carrington Gill, teacher of French in Central High School; Mme. Blanche Bimont, of Western High School; Prof. Leon Dostert, of Georgetown University, and F. A. Liotard, of American University.

Prizes were given by the French government to the American Association of Teachers of French. The list of winners follows:

Senior High Schools.

Third-year students—First, Dorothy Brooks, McKinley High School and Mary Backenstoss, Central High School; second to be awarded later.

Junior High Schools.

First, Jean Mackensie, Gordon Junior High School; second, Carol Kennedy, Powell Junior High School; third, Elize Griffin, Gordon Junior High School.

Private Schools.

Electrification Bill of Norris Passes Senate

By the Associated Press.

Despite warnings by Senator King (Democrat), Utah, that the Nation was "rushing madly into consolidation of all power in the Federal Government," the Senate yesterday passed the $420,000,000 Norris Rural Electrification Bill and sent it to the House.

King vainly presented a substitute to trim the expenditures to $10,000,000 a year for 10 years, but said even as he argued his case was "futile."

At a White House conference earlier in the week, Senator Norris (Republican), Nebrsaka, author of the bill, agreed to scale the 10-year program from $100,000,000 a year for 10 years to $50,000,000 a year for the first two years and $40,000,000 for the remaining eight years.

Norris agreed to one of King's demands by reducing from 40 to 25 years the maximum life of loans for rural power projects.

The bill would establish a new Rural Electrification Administration and empower it to lend to States, rural municipalities, utility districts, farm co-operatives, or limited dividend corporations to install and operate generating and distributing systems where none now exist.

In order to provide a market for the power, farmers would be financed in purchasing and installing household and farm electrical equipment. Their loans would be repayable over a five-year period, or a period equal to two-thirds the life of the equipment bought.

An amendment by Senator Walsh (Democrat), Massachusetts, which was accepted, would require borrowers to accept the "lowest responsibible bid" for equipment for their systems on any purchase exceeding $500. Another by Senator Logan (Democrat, Kentucky, also voted, would prohibit borrowers selling their projects to private interests without consent of the Administration. Logan's explanation was that it would block rural groups being squeezed by private competition into sale of equipment they had purchased with Government money.

Denouncing a system of "siphoning money out of the Treasury," King said the bill would "throw open the vaults of the Treasury for enterprises which primarily under our form of Government are within the jurisdiction of the States."

Postlude

By Ray C. B. Brown.

Concert by the National Symphony Orchestra in Constitution Hall Thursday afternoon; Hans Kindler, conductor; Egon Petro, piano soloist. Program: Chaconne for strings (Purcell), Symphony in C major, Op. 16, No. 3 (Boccherini), Piano concerto in D minor (Bach-Busoni), "Indianische Fantasie" for piano and orchestra, Op. 44 (Busoni), Prelude to Act III "Die Meistersinger" and "Gesang der Rheintoechtern" from "Die Goetterdaemmerung" (Wagner).

To Hans Kindler for his discriminating selection and fine performance of the works on this program, and to Egon Petri for his masterly readings of the Bach concerto and the Busoni fantasy is extended a whole-hearted vote of thanks, in which yesterday's audience, I believe, will concur with me. Certainly, the quantity and vigor of applause should be taken as proof of agreement on the matter and manner of the concert, for Dr. Kindler had to come back twice and bid his musicians stand after the Boccherini symphony, and Mr. Petri was recalled seven times in all for his part of the proceedings.

It is a curious fact that certain types of music in the late seventeenth and early eighteenth centuries, whatever the nationality of the composers, had a common quality of dignity quite peculiar to the age. The chaconne of Henry Purcell is a case in point. One might call its sturdy stride English were it not that the German Handel and the Italian Scarlatti wrote in exactly the same way.

Fate has been especially unkind to Luigi Boccherini, condemned to be known the world around by one little minuet from a string quintet, while his prodigious output of music has been for the most part ignored. The symphony which Dr. Kindler brought forward for our enjoyment is but 1 of 20, and among that number there must be others just as worthy of hearing. It is a thoroughly delightful work, graceful in its movements, transparently clear in its thematic weavings, gay in spirit and animated by a fine sense of humor.

The more one listens to Bach, the more the talk about modernism seems empty chatter. In his amazing mind he seems to have foreseen the paths that music would take, and in his music to have foreshadowed the idioms of composers who were to follow him. I was struck yesterday by the hints of Chopin in the D minor concerto; faint though they are, they sound unmistakably in the ear.

Having left this world only 12 years ago, Busoni has not yet receded far enough in the perspective of time for us to judge his creative stature correctly. But I am sure that he will come to be regarded as one of the most significant composers of our age. The "Indianische Fantasie" is a truly great and remarkable work, which makes most of the music written by civilized men on Amerind themes seem obvious in its imitation of primitivism.

High Rentals Are Assailed At Gathering

Mass Meeting, Attended by 800, Puts Blame On Landlords.

Dr. J. Lawn Thompson Replies to Blanton on City's Health.

Reduced rents and improved housing conditions were demanded last night by speakers at a mass meeting of about 800 persons in Central High School.

The meeting adopted resolutions embodying a 3-point platform, including establishment of a rent commission with broad powers, enactment of a housing law to improve sanitary conditions and condemnation of dilapidated property and a Federal authority to finance low-cost housing here.

Landlords, the resolutions charged, "have taken advantage of the housing shortage and have increased rents to unfair and exhorbitant levels."

One of the high points of the rally came when Dr. J. Lawn Thompson, of the Medical Society of the District of Columbia, replied to recent charges of Representative Thomas L. Blanton (Democrat), Texas, that local doctors are "grafters and chiselers."

Replies to Blanton Attack.

While Dr. Thompson did not mention Mr. Blanton by name, he clearly indicated he was answering the verbal attacks made by the Texan before and after a mass meeting sponsored by the medical group several weeks ago in protest against inadequate health funds here.

"There are 85,000 school children here," Dr. Thompson said.

"Fourteen doctors are looking after them on a part-time basis for $1,800 or $1,900 a year. Still, up on the Hill they call us a bunch of grafters and chiselers."

"What are you doctors doing?"

He then reviewed some of the achievements of the Medical Society. He said doctors "bombarded Congress for ten years" to obtain funds for a filtration plant because thousands of persons became ill from drinking impure city water.

Physicians aided, the speaker declared, in having Potomac Park created in a swamp area where malaria-carrying mosquitoes were bred. Since the swamps were eliminated, he declared, there has been little or no malaria here.

Medical men, Dr. Thompson pointed out, stepped in when "babies were dying like flies in Washington" and brought about establishment of a milk inspection system. The death rate promptly dropped substantially, he said.

Getting Poorer Every Year.

"One thing you want to remember," he said, "is we doctors don't get a cent out of doing things like this. Why, I'm getting poorer every year. But we want to improve the public health.

"From the way Congress is treating Washington now, however, there is little left for us to do but pray."

Henry Rhine, executive secretary of the Washington Central Labor Union rents and housing committee, which sponsored the meeting, charged a "Washington real estate ring" with "conspiring to keep rents up" and "to exploit the workingman."

He urged immediate enactment of the Ellenbogen bill to establish a rent control commission.

Ira Bain, national vice president of the American Federation of Government Employes, contended there is a "great need" for inexpensive homes here for thousands of workers with an income of between $1,000 and $2,000 a year.

More than 300,000 housing units priced at between $2,500 and $5,000 were built in England last year, he said, while only 35,000 such units were constructed here in the same period.

Thousands of Washington homes are vacant, he charged, because real estate men have "conspired" to keep rents up.

Robert M. Sentman, Federation of Architects, Engineers, Chemists and Technicians president, said "an aroused citizenry" could bring about lower rents.

Other speakers included Walter L. Disbrow, International Association of Machinists; Prof. E. Franklin Frazier, Howard University, and James Miles, of the American Federation of Labor Building Trades Council.

$2 Prize — His Only Income During 1935

In Lincoln, Nebr., 74-year-old Ebe Roelfs applied for an old-age pension, saying that his only income in 1935 was $2 which he won as a prize for his whiskers at a picnic. There's more money in using one's wits, rather than depending on whiskers.

Mrs. William Weedon, of 1819 Riggs Place N.W., wanted to rent a few vacant apartments last week and so she used her wits. She inserted this inexpensive want ad in The Post:

STUDIO bachelor apt. Beautifully furn.; near bath; entertaining privileges. Priv. home; $25. Meals reas. served. 1819 Riggs pl. (bet. R and S). FO. 0071.

From this one Post Want Ad, Mrs. Weedon rented six apartments. If you have anything to sell or rent, use Post Want Ads for RESULTS. Call

Tragedy of '33 Relives In Health Fund Fight

Now, as He Did Then, Dr. Coulter Will Face Senators With Facts on Tuberculosis Needs of the District.

With health items trimmed deeply by the Bureau of the Budget, the 1937 District budget is now receiving Congressional consideration. The Washington Post desires that this city have the best health department in the Nation. This is one of a series of articles designed to show Congress the District's health needs.

By Gerald G. Gross.

The Senate stands out as the "white hope" in the District's desperate fight for funds to protect the health and lives of its inhabitants.

With the House expected to pass the 1937 supply bill in essentially the same form that it was reported out, the front shifts to the hearing room of Senator Elmer Thomas' (Democrat), Oklahoma, sub-committee on District appropriations. Hearings probably will be scheduled next week.

Now turn back the clock to April 20, 1933. The same Senate committee, with the same chairman, is conducting hearings on the 1934 bill. The witness is Dr. A. Barklie Coulter, speaking for the tuberculosis committee of the District Medical Society.

It is the same Dr. Coulter who today is director of the Health Department's tuberculosis bureau. He is one of the physicians who will have to give up their part-time municipal duties—or their private practices—if section 6 of the supply bill is retained.

Dr. Coulter's 1933 Forecast.

Facing the Thomas sub-committee on that April day, Dr. Coulter knows well what he is talking about. He has charge of the tuberculosis ward at Gallinger Hospital. He is on the medical staffs of Georgetown and George Washington Universities and he has studied the disease among World War veterans.

Most important, perhaps, is this: He himself has had tuberculosis and recovered.

The facts he cited to the Senate group are as applicable today as they were in 1933. Bring the figures up to date and his dramatic statement might well be introduced again to the same sub-committee.

"I come," he said, "to state the case of 600 persons who will die of tuberculosis in the District of Columbia during 1933."

Neglect the Greatest Cause.

"Most of these persons," he continued, "will die from neglect, though the death notices will state that the cause was tuberculosis. Senators Bingham and Copeland stated in a previous hearing that the institutions for tuberculosis in the District were a disgrace, but they did not state the cause of this disgrace.

"The District has never even attempted to take care of its tuberculosis cases adequately, either from the quantity of beds allotted or the quality of service given—appropriations even in time of plenty were a farce as witness the fact that the majority of the tubercular die in the Municipal Hospital, or their homes, instead of the Tuberculosis Hospital, where they rightfully belong."

Dr. Coulter went on to depict the deplorable conditions prevailing at Gallinger—much worse now and still on the downgrade—and the plight of dispensary patrons "who would rather face death in their own homes than accept the facilities offered them by a seemingly enlightened Government.

"A Blot on Medicine."

"Every child that dies from contact with its inadequately hospitalized tubercularized parent is a blot on organized medicine—24 of whom died last year from tuberculosis meningitis alone, traceable to adult contact—and these deaths can be laid, in the District, at the feet of those who have it in their power to prevent the majority of these deaths—by this I mean Congress."

He pointed out that the tuberculosis mortality rate was steadily on the rise here. At that time Washington stood fourth, in this respect, among American cities. Ahead of it were San Antonio, Memphis and New Orleans.

Today Washington is second only to San Antonio and still on the gain.

Representatives hostile to the disfranchised Capital's plea for adequate public health and hospital funds yesterday stressed, on the House floor, the Washington that is the garden city of America with its abundant vegetation, handsome buildings and public parks.

Ward Would Tell Story.

It is interesting to speculate on the number of these Congressmen, if any, who have stepped inside a tuberculosis ward at Gallinger Hospital, made the rounds with a part-time school medical inspector, inspected the Health Department's so-called laboratory or seen how dying women are taken care of at Tuberculosis Hospital.

Twenty-four years ago, a pamphlet of the Texas Anti-Tuberculosis Association was issued bearing on its cover the following legend: "If the Goverment would treat the children like hogs and cattle, a far larger number would be saved from illness and death from contagious and infectious diseases."

This is literally the truth today in the Nation's Capital and probably in Texas, too, according to the vital statistics.

Board Will Return 3 Boys to Georgia

Three youths from Augusta, Ga., found stranded in a refrigerator car Wednesday, were turned over to the Board of Public Welfare yesterday to be sent home.

Detective Sergt. Arthur Fihelly, of the Twelfth Precinct, said he referred the case to the board when a telegram from Georgia revealed the boys' parents have no money and the county relief funds have run out.

The youths, Walter Hancock, jr., 18; Joe Kitchen, 17, and John Seales, 19, left their homes last Thursday. They were heading for Baltimore, where Seales' father works for a construction company.

Since they were picked up they have been at the Twelfth Precinct station where they have been fed, given a warm place to sleep and in return have entertained police with their singing.

Probation Officer Given Alarm Case

The case of Stephen Russell, 37-year-old PWA laborer, and father of seven children, charged with turning in a false fire alarm, was handed over to Joseph Sanford, Police Court probationer officer, yesterday.

Judge Isaac R. Hitt said: "No promises in the case. I will refer the matter to the probation officer."

Judge Hitt recently gave suspended sentences to two youths, Adams Martin Wyant, jr., and Waldo W. Whitehead, after they had pleaded guilty to 7 of 29 charges of false alarms placed against them. This was the day their papers bore the notation, "Senator Davis interested." The following day papers appeared in Judge Hitt's court with "no promises" written on them.

Russell was arrested Monday night for turning in an alarm at Fourth and N streets southwest. He has been in jail, in default of $500, since Tuesday.

U. S. Woman Employe Foils Thief in Dark Street Fight

Mrs. Maude Johnson, of the Cecil Apartments, 1026 Fifteenth street northwest, a Government employe, overwhelmed a robber and saved $100 and a valuable diamond ring last night by deft use of her feet.

In fighting off the robber who jumped from an auto at Third and VanBuren streets northwest, Mrs. Johnson was thrown to the sidewalk and sustained a sprained ankle and wrist, and ruined a spring suit.

The money and ring were in her pocketbook which the man tried to cut from her grasp. With one of her feet she tripped the would-be robber, sending him sprawling to the muddy sidewalk. Her other foot she planted on the pocketbook, knocked to the pavement in the tussle, and held it despite the robber's attempts to pick it up until a passing auto frightened the man away.

Mrs. Johnson's fight occurred shortly after she got off a street car to go to the home of a friend, Mrs. Charles Ford, 6601 Sixth street northwest. The section of the city is infrequently traveled and poorly lighted.

Citizens Unit Joins Protest On U. S. Slash

Summit Park Association Approves Sisson Repealer.

The Washington Highlands Citizens' Association last night joined the outcry against reduction by $3,000,000 of the Federal contribution to District expenditures.

Meeting at the home of its president, W. Earl Nair, 2919 First street southeast, the association voted to send letters of protest to the House and Senate District committees.

The association also adopted resolutions endorsing legislation which would enfranchise the voteless District and liberalize the present law governing jury service for women.

Sisson Repealer Approved.

The Progressive Summit Park Citizens' Association, at its meeting, went on record as definitely approving the Sisson repealer to the red rider and as whole-heartedly commending Maj. Brown's safety campaign against reckless driving.

E. Barrett Prettyman's ruling the association likewise approved. It was declared that presenting the facts of communism was not advocating communism and that there was no objection in merely giving facts.

The association approved a change in the zoning law so that the director of motor vehicles and the Capital Park and Planning Commission would work with the Zoning Commission. The meeting was unanimously opposed to the bill legalizing horse racing and parimutual betting.

Victory Dinner Voted.

To celebrate the beginning of construction of needed improvements, a joint conference of the Northeast Citizens Associations, meeting at the Twelfth Precinct Station, voted to give a victory dinner to celebrate start of construction of the Franklin Street Bridge, the overpass at Ninth street northeast, the Michigan Avenue Bridge, the fire house at Rhode Island avenue and Fourteenth street northeast, the Eighteenth street underpass and the Turkey Thicket Playground.

The dinner, to which the District Commissioners will be invited, will be held in the Methodist Church at Tenth and Lawrence streets northeast sometime after April 12.

The conference decided to have the secretary write the Commissioners asking a change in the location of the traffic light at Rhode Island avenue and Twelfth street northeast. The present position of the light, they maintain, has caused accidents.

Delegates voted to recommend to their respective associations the construction of an airport on the site of the old Benning race track, instead of in Virginia as proposed. They also decided to recommend to their associations the appointment of William A. Roberts as corporation counsel.

Schools Here Face Increase In Congestion

251 More Instructors Asked, but Cuts Allow Hiring of 28.

City Already 500 Teachers Short of 1926 Proportions.

District school children face the prospect of being taught in classes even more congested than now, and by teachers more overworked next year because funds for hiring additional teachers were slashed by the sub-committee on appropriations, headed by Representative Thomas L. Blanton.

In making up their original budget estimates, school officials asked for 251 new teachers. The Budget Bureau cut that number to 55 and the sub-committee to 28, barely enough to provide instructors for the new schools and additions to be opened next year.

As a result, not only will classes remain overcrowded—a source of complaint from parents, children and teachers—but no provision has been made for the natural increase in enrollment. Unless the needed funds are restored by the Senate, the prospect for the new school term will be bigger—but not better—classes.

500 Short of 1926 Ratio.

The seriousness of the problem can be seen from one fact. If the same teacher-pupil ratio that prevailed in 1926 existed today, roughly 800 new school teachers would have been hired.

During the ten-year period, however, less than 300 were added, a difference of 500 teachers.

What this teaching shortage means to the individual child is graphically portrayed in Dr. Ballou's testimony before the sub-committee as recorded in the transcript of the hearing.

First, as to high schools: Educators are agreed that no teacher can do good work if she is required to instruct more than 25 pupils per class. The present high school ratio of 27 children per teacher does not seem serious at first glance, but what does an average of 27 per teacher mean?

In the case of Roosevelt High School, which is more or less typical, it means there are 22 classes with more than 40 pupils each; 59 classes with from 35 to 40 children, and 78 with from 31 to 35 pupils. By 1937, 116 new students are expected, with no additions to the teaching staff provided for.

30 Pupils Per Teacher.

In the junior high schools the average number of pupils per teacher is 30. Langley Junior High School has just this average. But Langley school also has 98 classes with more than 40 pupils, 32 classes with from 36 to 40, and 19 classes with from 31 to 35 children. By 1937, 77 additional students are expected, with the same number of teachers.

In the white elementary schools there are 189 classes, exclusive of kindergartens, of more than 40 pupils each. The Board of Education requested three additional teachers from the sub-committee, but in vain.

Everywhere the need for additional teachers—a need that both Superintendent of Schools Frank W. Ballou and Mrs. Marion Wade Doyle, president of the Board of Education, have described as "the most pressing of the school system"—is being felt.

And everywhere, with the funds for hiring additional teachers slashed, the prospect for the new school year is not that these conditions will be improved, but that things will go from bad to worse.

Hid in Vain

Thieves Take Hoards From Trunk, Chair.

Elinore McDonald, 22, of 1602 Sixteenth street northwest, put $510 in cash and valuables beneath the cushion of an overstuffed chair for safe keeping.

Both were wrong.

Ragan yesterday found his safe out in the read yard. It was open and empty, he told police.

Miss McDonald came home and looked under the cushion. A pocketbook containing $20 in cash and a pin and a ring worth $490, was gone, she told police.

Work and Play in Sight-Saving Class

At Henry School where special classes are conducted for children whose sight is so poor that textbooks are a blur, Jeanne Priel, 6, of 3214 Eleventh street southeast, and Billy Skinner, 8, of 509 M street southwest, are playing with a doll's house. Twenty-six boys and girls with subnormal sight attend the classes.

26 Children Attend Classes At School for Sight Saving

By Virginia Lee Warren.

Twenty-six boys and girls whose eyesight is so poor ordinary textbook type seems only a blur are managing to keep up with other boys and girls their age by attending special sight-saving classes at Henry Elementary School, Sixth and P streets northwest.

From all over the District come the 26 handicapped youngsters to the Henry building. Three buses call for them in the morning and take them home in the afternoon.

Most of the children wear glasses. Some of them have cataracts or other eye troubles which glasses cannot correct. All have four-tenths normal vision or less.

The two teachers, Miss Helen Appler and Miss Mary M. O'Brien, yesterday made it plain that the sight-saving classes are taught the same subjects as the normal ones. And since classes are so small—one teacher has 12 pupils, the other 14—the youngsters receive almost individual coaching.

All books are printed in huge type, at least four times larger than that ordinarily used. All the desks have adjustable tops which are set at an angle prescribed by the physician who examines the children at regular intervals. Each child's book is placed in the right position for his type of vision.

Both teachers said no home work is required. Nor are the pupils asked to do any outside reading. The teachers do what ever research is required and then present it orally to the class.

In order to build social contacts with other children, the fourth, fifth and sixth grade students taught by Miss O'Brien join the normal fourth and fifth and sixth grade students for classes in history and geography.

The first three grades of sight saving, taught by Miss Appler, join the normal first, second and third graders for games and music. But they are happiest in their own classrooms where every detail has been planned for their aid and where every child is fighting the same battle, the struggle to see.

Only within the last two years has it been possible for these boys and girls with sub-normal vision to work and play together. The sight-saving classes were started in February, 1934. Prior to that time the pupils who lived in continuous twilight had to get along as best they could in regulation classes.

Since the sight-saving classes were begun a few of the youngsters have slipped into total darkness. They are now in schools for the blind. Others have improved so greatly they have been transferred to classes for those with normal vision.

Great emphasis is placed on handcrafts in the sight-saving classes. The pupils make clay models and brightly colored murals. The older ones study textiles by doing paper weaving. The younger ones make instruments for their own rhythm band. All of them learn to type on machines which print oversized letters.

"The important thing," both eachers said, "is to save whatever sight the child may have. Too many persons become blind because their eyes are not given the proper care. When vision is less than normal, strain is extremely dangerous. That's what we're doing our best to avoid."

New Airport Bill Accepted After Parley

House, Senate Conferees Agree On 9-Man Commission.

The Senate late yesterday adopted an amended District airport commission conference report, and the House accepted the report for adoption today.

Following a meeting of Senate and House managers yesterday, it was announced that the nine-man commission, previously agreed upon, would be financed jointly by the Federal and District Governments, and that it would be authorized to proceed with development of an airport after selecting a site, though dependent upon additional appropriations.

The bill, as adopted, carries an authorization of $100,000, of which $90,000 is to be utilized in obtaining an option on any site chosen by the commission. The remaining $10,000 will be used to employ technical advice.

While the Senate conferees had previously insisted that the commission report its selection to Congress for approval, the House was able to eliminate this requirement, according to Chairman Mary T. Norton, of the House District Committee.

Provision Inserted.

A provision was inserted that the commission must report to Congress by June 30, so that there will be no delay in the investigation. Mrs. Norton said that, in case Congress has adjourned by that date, the report will be made to the clerks of the House and Senate.

No appropriations for actual purchase and development of Federal-District airport will be forthcoming before the next session of Congress, under this arrangement.

The three members of the House, and the three members of the Senate to be named on the commission, probably will be named early next week.

From the Senate it is expected that Chairman King, of the Senate District Committee, and Senators Tydings (Democrat), of Maryland, and Austin (Republican), of Vermont, will be appointed.

To Confer With Byrns.

Mrs. Norton said she would confer with Speaker Byrns regarding the House appointments, but explained that she did not believe she had time herself to serve on the commission.

It is expected that Representative Nichols (Democrat), of Oklahoma, and Dirksen (Republican) of Illinois, will be chosen, with a third member to be taken from the sub-committee which held hearings last year on airport sites. Nichols was a member of that sub-committee.

The other three members are to be named by President Roosevelt without restrictions upon their choice, but Senator King said the conferees may call at the White House to make suggestions. He said that one member should be a District Commissioner, or an outstanding citizen of Washington.

Ensuing Weeks Promise an Unbroken Succession of Warner De Luxe Screen Hits

Features Made Known by Local Zone Manager

Mr. Payette Tips His Hand; U. A.'s Sunday Preview; Amusement Notes.

By Nelson B. Bell.

Some of the screen highlights promised patrons of the Warner Brothers Earle Theater during the next six weeks include the Warners' latest musical production, starring Dick Powell and Ruby Keeler; what is reputed to be the best American-made picture in which Marlene Dietrich ever has appeared; the world premiere of a new comedy and Al Jolson's latest contribution to the gayety of nations, according to an announcement made public yesterday by Zone Manager John J. Payette of the Warner interest in the Washington territory.

According to Mr. Payette, the highly lauded "Story of Louis Pasteur," which opens on the screen at the Earle today, is only the first of si.. productions that are confidently relied upon to center more than ordinary audience interest in the celluloid subjects that will occupy the Earle's silver sheet during ensuing weeks.

Dietrich and Cooper.

Following what is probably the most genuinely impressive of all the pictures in which Muni has appeared, will come "Desire," the costellar vehicle for the abundant talents of Marlene Dietrich and Gary Cooper, which have not been combined in a single film since their memorable "Morocco," the first American picture in which La Dietrich ever appeared, directed by Josef von Sternberg.

Instead of Von Sternberg, Frank Borzage, one of the masters of his craft, whose achievements run from "Seventh Heaven," the Academy prize-winner of its year, to "Shipmates Forever," made last summer down at the U. S. Naval Academy, in Annapolis, directed "Desire." From the flashes recently disclosed to the local drama desks by Caryl Odell, of the Paramount home office, Borzage made a pretty fine job of it.

In addition to Dick Powell and Ruby Keeler, the Warner's ace singing team, the cast of the new musical, "Colleen," embraces Jack Oakie, Joan Blondell, Hugh Herbert, Louise Fazenda and that preeminent exponent of the art of picking them up and laying them down, Paul Draper, the tap-dancing nephew of the eminent Ruth Draper.

Directed by Alfred E. Green, "Colleen" includes three new song hits by the writing team of Warren and Dubin and its action is enlivened by dozens of lovely young women, directed through the intricacies of numerous dance routines by Bobby Connolly, former right-hand man of the late Flo Ziegfeld.

World Premiere Coming.

Ross Alexander and Anita Louise are the youthful co-stars of "Brides Are Like That," which will have its world premiere on the screen at the Earle Theater on Friday, March 20. A new group of Maj. Bowes' touring amateurs will supply the stage feature.

Patricia Ellis, Glenda Farrell and Genevieve Tobin are the three lovely leading women who will appear with George Brent in "Snowed Under," another Warner potential hit on the list of screen attractions just ahead. Each, at one time or another, is involved in a scene with Mr. Brent. That should insure the interest of this subject, which, by the way, seems to have been titled with peculiar perspicacity.

"The Singing Kid," in which Al Jolson is teamed with Sybil Jason —of all people!—rounds out the list of gelatin offerings that are in the immediate offing. Wini Shaw, Beverly Roberts, the Yacht Club Boys and numerous other specialties are included in the cast of this melodious comedy item.

In addition to these various special screen presentations, the Earle is quietly lining up a list of stellar attractions to appear in person on the stage in conjunction with these notable feature films. Announcement of the identities of these footlight, screen and radio favorites will be coming along in due course.

So unexpectedly popular has "Soak the Rich," the Ben Hecht-Charles MacArthur satire, featuring Walter Connolly, John Howard and Mary Taylor, proved at the Belasco Theater that it will not, after all, be withdrawn tonight. Instead of the customary—and already advertised—late preview of the revival of the United Artists' production of Sinclair Lewis' "Arrowsmith," with Ronald Colman, Helen Hayes and Myrna Loy, tonight, "Soak the Rich" will continue throughout next Wednesday, making a full, two-week run for this hilarious Hecht-MacArthur conception of what modern times are all about.

So that two-for-the-price-of-one business is off on Lafayette Square for tonight. It will be available next Wednesday night. And don't say I didn't tell you.

Star Returns to Cinema Wars

Once one of the foremost male stars of the screen, then a luminary of the traditional theater, Rod La Rocque now is staging what is technically known as a "comeback" in the medium of his first choice. He is prominently cast with Reginald Denny, Gail Patrick and Grace Bradley in "The Preview Murder Mystery," to be seen for the first time locally on the screen at the Warner Brothers Metropolitan Theater for the week beginning today. In private life, Mr. La Rocque is married to the beautiful Vilma Banky, former Samuel Goldwyn star.

U. A. Stages Preview.

Totally disregarding the Fourth Estate's need of making up all of the sleep it has lost during the other and more hectic days of the week, the United Artists Corporation is out with some very elegantly engraved invitations to the first private showing in Washington of "These Three," at Loew's Palace Theater on Sunday afternoon, March 8, at 12 o'clock, high noon.

"These Three" is a picture in which the principal roles are played by Merle Oberon, Joel McCrea and Miriam Hopkins.

Mr. McCrea and Miss Hopkins, by virtue of many previous appearances together, have become a sort of cinematographic institution. With Miss Oberon's exotic talents added, the triumvirate of principals should take on added stature.

We shall make a valiant attempt to arouse ourself in the middle of the night and get there at the appointed hour—which, I beg to point out, is just a little brutal for a sleepy Holy Sabbath!

My nomination for one of the most perfect hosts is show business in the National Capital is our old friend, Col. James Jeremiah Lake, who presides over the pulchritudinous pastiming at the Gayety Theater. Not only is the good Col. Lake the Beau Brummel of Ninth street and the Chesterfield of the sports arenas, but he also is the aristocrat of the side aisles and the peer of entr'acte hosts. Not content with the usual reaches of hospitality, he multiplies everything by two. I must call upon him often in future!

Mae "Goes West!"

Hot on the heels, so to speak of the news service wire story that Mae West and Paramount have parted company and that her next picture will be made for Columbia, comes word from the Loew high command in New York that "Klondike Annie," Miss West's current box office hit at Loew's Palace, instead of continuing a second week, will come off the screen tonight, with Clark Gable, Myrna Loy and Jean Harlow, in "Wife Versus Secretary," taking over the Palace silver sheet on Saturday morning.

This is a real innovation. There has not been a Saturday opening at the Palace since that was the usual day adopted by all of the downtown, first-run exhibitors as the particular period of the week on which to break out their new products.

But here it comes, precedent or no precedent—"Wife Versus Secretary" on Saturday morning.

Is Breezy Entertainment.

Those who read this column—both, of them—already know that this Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picturization of the Faith Baldwin story is pretty kippy entertainment; that it embodies a gripping narrative which, while it never lags in the quality of its enjoyment, still makes possible a defense of the contention that "most of the things we worry most about never happen."

It is little quirks of the booking office like this that make big paragraphs like these and drive motion picture editors practically "nuts"—especially, when the Sunday paper is about to "go to bed," if you know what I mean.

Sometime, a nice "inside story" will come out of this Mae West-Ernst Lubitsch embroglio that seems to have put Benjamin P. Schulberg back in the saddle at Paramount. Watch this bulletin board for further disclosures.

Word-to-the-Wise Addendum.

I told you yesterday it wasn't spring and not to change them.

Now, you see the cold you've picked up?

Secrets of Plant Life To Be Shown in Picture

Life secrets of plant and animal organisms revealed by a microscope will be shown in motion pictures to members of the National Geographic Society tonight at Constitution Hall by Arthur C. Pillsbury, who will lecture on "Miracles in Nature."

Motion pictures will permit the audience to watch seeds germinate, sap pulsate and blossoms bloom and develop into ripened fruit. They will reveal how nature produces the gorgeous colors of autumn.

Ghezzi Cards 276 to Win Golf Title

By the Associated Press.

HOLLYWOOD, Fla., March 5. Young Vic Ghezzi, of Deal, N. J., won the $500 top prize in the $2,500 Hollywood Open golf tournament this afternoon, with 278 strokes for the 72 holes.

The leader at the 54-hole mark with 205, six strokes under par, Ghezzi faded under the pressure and just lasted to edge out Tony Penna, of Pensacola, Fla., and Torchy Toda, of Kobe, the Japanese open champion, who finished with 277.

Ghezzi, who put together three straight 68s for his 54-hole total, played the out nine of the final round in 35, one under par, but needed 37, three over, coming home for 72.

In the rough off the tee at the final hole, he recovered to within 12 feet of the cup and was down in two putts for the par 4 he needed to win the tournament.

Pair Splits $650.

Toda, who had three great rounds of 68 to redeem his opening day 73, and young Penna, who blazed around Tueday in 64, slumped to 72 yesterday, steadied this morning to 70 and finished with 71—split second and third money, $650.

One stroke behind at 278 came Bobby Cruickshank, of Richmond, Va.; Willie MacFarlane, of New York, and "Lighthorse Harry" Cooper, of Chicago. They divided fourth, fifth and sixth prizes, totaling $625.

Bracketed at 279, and dividing $275, were two sound golfers, Johnny Revolta, of Wilwaukee, and Denny Shute, of Boston, who had identical scores—67—69—71—72—for the four rounds.

Two strokes further back, at 281, were youthful Clarence Doser, of Rochester, N. Y., who needed two 73s today after leading at 135 for 36 holes; Johnny Farrell, playing over his home course and Frank Walsh, of Chicago. They split up $255.

Staging Rally, Patty Berg Triumphs

Beats Jean Bauer, 5 and 3; Plays Mrs. Hill Today in Semifinals.

By the Associated Press.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 5. Blonde, statuesque Jean Bauer, of Providence, R. I., fared brilliantly for a short while today to crowd Patty Berg in the second round of the Florida East Coast Women's Golf Tournament, then faltered and fell victim to the redhead's methodical play.

Patty's 5-and-3 victory pushed her into the semifinal with three of the Nation's ranking golfers—Maureen Orcutt Crews, of Miami, winner here last year; Mrs. Opal S. Hill, of Kansas City, seasoned campaigner and former Western Champion, and Marion Miley, of Lexington, Ky., trans-Mississippi titleholder.

Winner, one up, in a duel with Kathryn Hemphill, of Columbia, S. C., Mrs. Hill tomorrow will seek to put a sudden end to Miss Berg's victory-laden Florida season.

Mrs. Crews played the best golf of the day to overwhelm Sylvia Annenberg, of Flushing, Long Island, 4 and 3.

Her semifinals opponent, Miss Miley, fired a neat 79 over the men's par 72 links and eliminated stubborn Jane Cothran, of Greenville, S. C., 2 up.

Patty, the tournament medalist, took an early advantage as Miss Bauer had trouble getting out of a trap on the second and missed a 1-foot putt on the third. She stayed 2 up until the long seventh, when her lengthy putt stymied Miss Bauer and the margin was increased to 3 up.

Then Miss Bauer started a comeback that threatened to wipe out Patty's lead.

Holding the honor for the first time of the day, Miss Bauer sent her tee shot on the 175-yard ninth across a marsh to the green. Patty hit to the left of the green and dubbed her pitch, barely getting on. Jean's 20-foot putt bounced out of the cup for a certain 3 and Patty missed her chance for a half.

But Miss Bauer's rally proved short-lived. Her putting game went to pieces and Patty pressed her advantage to take five of the remaining six holes.

Games in Tokyo Seen As Aiding Peace Move

San Francisco, March 5 (AP).—Awarding the 1940 Olympic games to Tokyo would help improve international amity, Count Henri de Baillet-Tour said today.

The distinguished Belgian, president of the international Olympic committee, sailed on the Chichibu Maru to inspect the Japanese city as a possible site for the games four years hence.

"It seems indisputable awarding of the games to Tokyo would do anything else than increase cordial relations," he said.

Turning to this summer's games in Berlin, Count Baillet-Tour expressed belief athletes from the United States would retain their track and field supremacy.

"The Americans are simply better athletes as a whole," he said.

This Morning . . .

With Shirley Povich.

Orlando, Fla., March 5.

POVICH.

"I'm glad to be with the Washington club. Washington is my favorite town in the big leagues. I always felt that I'd like to play under Bucky Harris. I never did like New York."

That is the age-old formula, of course, for the statements of all newly traded players. Not the exact words, but it usually goes something like this:

"It's great to be traded to (fill in name of club). Of all towns in the league I always did like (fill in name of city) best. I always felt that I'd like to play for Manager (fill in name of manager), whom I consider a swell manager and a prince of a fellow. I always did consider the fans of (fill in the name of city) the fairest in the league."

No, sir, Jesse T. Hill didn't haul off and spout the same old apple sauce that occupied Chapter I in the manual of traded ball players. The best he would say when asked if he liked the trade that sent him to Washington from New York was:

"Yeah, I guess so," thereby confounding a half-dozen baseball writers who had only asked the question as a formality anyway. Hill paid no compliments to Manager Bucky Harris; he didn't flatter Washington fans and he didn't indicate that he was overjoyed to be with the Washington club.

But don't get the impression that he's a sourpuss. The guy is anything but that. He's still boyish of face and figure with an infectious smile and a glad hand for new acquaintances. He's the personification of frankness, apparently, because he went on to say that it was nice to be with the Yankees who treated their players royally and everything all around was first-class.

This new left fielder, who will step right into the left-field job at the start of the season because Bucky Harris thinks he's a swell ball player, was some pumpkins, it seems, in his undergraduate days at the University of Southern California. The name of Jesse Terrill Hill was one to respect at Southern California, because——

He played fullback on that Southern Cal team of 1929 which walloped the tar out of the University of Pittsburgh in the Rose Bowl game on New Year's Day, 1930, by the score of 47 to 13, which left the entire East disillusioned.

And for two years he was the holder of the world broad-jump record, winning the title in the national intercollegiate meet at Cambridge with a leap of more than 25 feet.

He's small as outfielders go, weighing only 168, but he was only a 160-pounder when he played fullback for Southern Cal. He explains that by saying: "I fitted into Coach Howard Jones' system. He'd start a big backfield in the first quarter and let the big fellows like Saunders and Duffield pound the opposition dizzy. Then he'd send in the little guys like myself in the second quarter to wear 'em down some more, and we'd be in there in the last period beating a lot of tired teams with our speed."

It seems that this Hill is the fastest thing in spikes on the Washington club, despite the presence of such speedsters as Jake Powell and Dee Miles. They had a 100-yard straightaway race between Hill and Ben Chapman in Yankee Stadium on the last day of the season of 1935 and Hill led Chapman right up to the finish, where he was beaten by a step.

Hill is a track man, you see. Out in southern California, where the Trojans used to win intercollegiate titles so regularly a few seasons back, the only reason Hill wasn't running in the dashes was because the coach had a pair of guys named Charley Borah and Welden Draper who regularly did the 100 yards in 9.5 seconds.

"I could lead 'em for 40 yards," said Hill, "but then they'd pick me up. You know, beyond that distance, you've got to have not only speed but power. They were bigger than I and they could fly in those last 30 yards. So can Chapman. I never could do the hundred in better than 9.9."

Back home in Corona, Calif., in the off-season, Hill is a school teacher, head of the physical education department and coach of football and basketball. Mrs. Hill and their 3-year-old daughter will join him in Washington in April.

Ruth Quits Camp, Hoping to Forget

By the Associated Press.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 5.—Baseball's forgotten man—the once mighty George Herman Ruth—could stand it no longer.

With two clubs of former teammates training within a mashie shot of his bungalow here, the Babe hurriedly packed his golf clubs today and left for Miami, where he hopes the memories will not be quite so keen.

Just a year ago, the old home-run king was making his last baseball stand with the Boston Nationals at Waterfront Park. Prior to that, for many distinguished seasons, he was the No. 1 drawing card of the Yankees at Miller Huggins Field.

Hagerstown's Racing Dates Are Approved

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Olympic Tourney Site Is Changed

Finals in Fifth District Set for Chicago.

By the Associated Press.

Indianapolis, March 5.—The final round of the fifth district Olympic basketball tournament, scheduled to be held in Indianapolis March 12, 13 and 14, will be held in Chicago instead on the same dates and at the international amphitheater.

Announcement of the change was made by W. F. Fox, jr., fifth district chairman, following the withdrawal from the tournament of Ohio State. Indiana University, Big Ten conference champion, also withdrew yesterday.

Low Scores Expected In Use of Large Cups

With at least half a dozen Washington golf courses open for play, despite the mushy conditions, and others expected to be playable by the week-end, Congressional Country Club yesterday announced that 10-inch cups would be used today, Saturday and Sunday.

The gigantic holes, which would delight the heart of Gene Sarazen, author of the 8-inch cup, will be inserted on each of the 18 temporary greens.

All Maryland Race Tracks To Use Cameras on Finishes

By Walter Haight.

ALL Maryland race tracks will use the "photographic finish" in the future, it was learned last night. Starting with the opening of Bowie on April 1, the camera will separate the horses in the dash to the wire and the pictures will govern the final placing on all close decisions.

The announcement that Pimlico would install an "electric eye" was responsible for the move that met with immediate response from the other major Maryland tracks, Bowie, Havre de Grace and Laurel. While the Maryland Racing Commission did not order the "camera finish," the tracks have left it to that body to make an investigation of the various types of photographic finishes and to decide on a uniform machine to be used at all plants.

Edward Brennan, well-known racing official, will represent the Maryland Commission today at Tropical Park when the "Waite camera," a new product, will be demonstrated. Maryland officials are already familiar with the "Cassidy" apparatus now in use at Hialeah while Matt Daiger inspected the popular "electric eye" at Santa Anita during the last two weeks.

Daiger believes that the West Coast "eye," operating on moving-picture lines, is the best and, providing the cost is not prohibitive, this style may be adopted.

Freddy Miller Signed For Birmingham Fight

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Miami, Fla., March 5.—Freddy Miller, world's featherweight champion, who successfully defended his laurels against Pete Sarron in a fast bout several days ago, tonight signed for a ten-round fight to be staged in Birmingham, Ala., March 20.

His opponent has not been named, and as Birmingham is Sarron's home town, speculation was rife concerning the little Syrian's prospects of meeting the titleholder. The report could not be confirmed, however.

Kuhel Shows Return to '33 Form

Is Not Same Player as Last Season, Says Harris, Pleased.

By Shirley Povich.
Sports Editor of The Post.

ORLANDO, Fla., March 5.—The strange case of Joe Kuhel is taking a new turn, much to the gratification of Manager Bucky Harris down here at the Washington training camp.

Harris is now looking with complete confidence in Kuhel's direction for a vast improvement over 1935. He said so today.

Classiest in League.

"That's the Kuhel I used to marvel at in 1932 and 1933 when I was managing the Tigers. Why, he was the classiest-looking first-baseman in the league then. He made most of the other first-basemen look like awful shoemakers out there in the field. If he wasn't as clever with that mitt as Joe Judge used to be, he was almost as good.

"But last year Kuhel was pitiful. Ground balls that he used to snare with no trouble at all were getting away from him for hits. And at bat he was just as pathetic. The only reason I could think of for his slump was that his fielding affected his hitting like it does so many other ball players."

Flag Last Season.

Kuhel indeed was a terrific flop last season. The man who used to give the Nats the best defensive game in the league around first base was a comparative bum. His slump was not only unaccountable, but incredible. Back in 1932 and 1933, Kuhel was a dancing master out there on the bag, at once the fanciest fielder in the league and the best.

He never did seem to recover from the broken ankle he suffered sliding in midseason of 1934. He appeared unwilling to take chances with his leg throughout 1935. And then at the end of the season he learned he was suffering a physical ailment that required an operation. That operation he underwent last winter in his Kansas City home.

This spring at Orlando, the fellow has evidently undergone a strange transformation. The uncertain, sluggish Kuhel is again the master performer out there on the bag. His feats in practice have been the sensation of the training camp. His big hands and fancy footwork are death on ground balls, batted and thrown.

Even an approach to his 1933 form would stamp Kuhel as a great first baseman. That was the year when his bat played a potent part in the pennant victory under Joe Cronin. With a batting average of .330 that he maintained to the end of the season, Joe Kuhel was the best sixth-place hitter in the league, if not in the history of baseball.

This season he's altering his stance in an effort to recover his batting power. Abandoning the erect posture at the plate that found him a sucker for low-ball pitching, Kuhel is now using a slight crouch and is whaling the ball in practice here.

Rain curtailed the Nats' drill today, but Harris shooed his squad out to the park in the face of a light drizzle. In uniform for the first time were Jesse Hill and Johnny Stone, whose presence rounds out the Nats' outfield group. The only absentee continues to be Shortstop Red Kress.

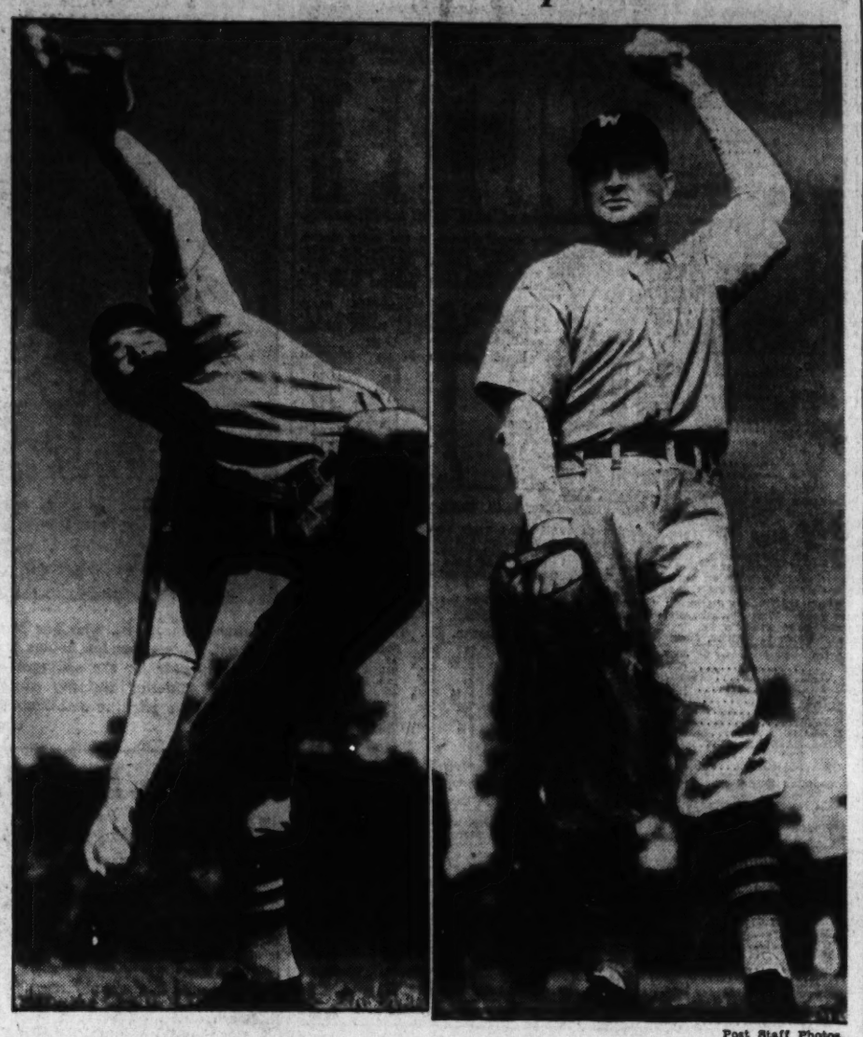
Cornell Arrives For C. U. Battles

Cards Face Season's Final Test Tomorrow.

An energetic and ambitious Cornell University boxing squad will arrive in our midst today, and after pitching camp on Catholic University's campus will prepare to knock the Cardinal ringmen loose from some of the prestige they have won this season in tomorrow night's match.

Coach Ed LaFond sent Catholic's revamped team through its last session of rough work yesterday, and this afternoon will be devoted to keeping the boys in shape for the weighing-in ceremonies. This will be the Cards' last match of the season and a victory will mean one of the best seasons a Red and Black team ever has enjoyed.

Nat Pitchers Have Their Ups and Downs



Post Staff Photos.

Buck Newsom, verbose right-hander, and Earl Whitehill, veteran southpaw, and key man of the Nationals' pitching staff, seem to be having their ups and downs at the Orlando training camp. Mr. Newsom, on the left, goes back and down just before firing his fast 'un toward the plate. Whitehill, sporting that "A-mighty-man-was-he" look, stretches upward before beginning his wind-up.

Dean Willing to Trade Punches With Davis, Rickey, Frisch, Too—'If They Want to Fight'

By the Associated Press.

BRADENTON, Fla., March 5. Dizzy Dean, hold-out Cardinal pitcher, not only is willing to trade punches with Catcher Virgil Davis, but with Vice President Branch Rickey and Manager Frankie Frisch also—if they want to fight.

Told tonight that Davis, 200-pound receiver to whom Dean had said he wouldn't pitch this season, had threatened to cave in his face the first time the two met in the Cardinal clubhouse, Dean roared with laughter.

"Down where I come from, nose punching is a two-sided proposition," he said. "Bring on Davis. All I'll have to do is slip him my high hard one.

"And that goes for Rickey and Frisch too. If they want to fight, I'll take 'em on in separate rooms."

Havana, March 5.—Before a crowd of 14,000, including President Jose Barnet, Havana walloped the St. Louis Cardinals, 13 to 8, in the opening game of the major league club's four-game exhibition series at Tropical Stadium today. The Cubans hammered three St. Louis pitchers, Bill Walker, Mike Ryba and Bill McGee, for a total of 16 hits.

The Cardinals also did some heavy hitting, getting 12 blows. Trailing, 6 to 1, entering the eighth inning, the Cards rallied to score 7 runs, but the Cubans got all 7 back in the same inning. S. Hernandez led the Cuban hitting with a home run and two singles.

St. Petersburg, Fla. March 5.—The Yankees' practice today was called off almost as soon as it started when rain drenched the field. Batting drill and outfield practice had just begun and Manager Joe McCarthy was drilling a makeshift infield of Joe Gallagher, former Manhattan college player; Frank Crosetti, Tony Lazzeri and Nolen Richardson.

Sarasota, Fla., March 5.—Third Baseman Bill Werber, lone holdout in the Boston Red Sox ranks, failed to check in today with the rest of the infielders and outfielders. Manager Joe Cronin did not appear worried. It was expected Werber would be here soon to discuss his salary differences.

San Juan, Puerto Rico, March 5.—Held in check my F. Fernandez, the Cincinnati Reds, composed largely of second-string and rookie players, dropped a 2-to-1 decision to the Almendares club of Cuba today. Fernandez went the route for the Cubans, while Stine and Nelson divided the Reds' mound assignment, with Peacock behind the bat.

At the end were the catchers, Frank Pytlak and Billy Sullivan.

Bowden Upsets Swedish Net Champion

New Yorker's Three Set Win Features Upsets in Indoor Play.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 5.—A rebellious atmosphere charged the Seventh Regiment Armory today as the serene procession of the favored players in the United States indoor tennis championship was halted by the upset elimination of Karle Schroeder, champion of Sweden, and Gilbert Hall, second seeded American, in quarter-final round encounters.

Frank Bowden, of New York, one of this country's first indoor performers although only ranked sixteenth nationally on grass, achieved the downfall of the powerfully built Schroeder at 6—4, 6—3, 6—4, and Leonard Hartman, former Columbia University basketball captain, sent Hall, a "first ten" luminary of South Orange, N. J., to the showers by scores of 6—4, 8—6, 8—6.

Rocky Passage.

While Bowden and Hartman made the grade, the more highly fancied players, Champion Gregory Mangin and Wilmer Hines, of Columbia, S. C., had comparatively rocky passages in their advance to penultimate brackets. Mangin dropped a set before vanquishing Henry Culley, of Santa Barbara, Calif., 7—9, 8—6, 6—2, 6—4.

Hines outlasted Dr. Lawrence Kurzrok, of Brooklyn, in a protracted duel, 9-7, 14-12, 7-5.

The repercussions were felt in the women's division, too. Florence Le Boutillier, of New York, third in the list of American favorites, was eliminated by Millicent Hirsh, 6-4, 6-2, and Mme. Sylvia Henrotin, of France, was extended to the full capacity of her repertoire in repelling Mrs. Henry Brunie, seeded fourth, 5-7, 6-2, 6-4.

Never Had Chance.

The other winners were Marjorie Gladman Van Ryn, of Philadelphia, the top-seeded entrant, who disposed of Alison Harrison, another Philadelphian, 6-3, 6-3 and former Champion Norma Taubele, who vanquished young Patricia Cumming, of Westfield, N. J., 6-1, 6-2.

Schroeder, conqueror of Jean Borotra, Baron Gottfried Von Cramm and Christian Boussus on European courts, never had a chance to get started against Bowden. The American allowed him no liberties at all and used his smashing first service and soft and twisting second service ball with devastating effect.

Primo Fights Gastanaga Tonight

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 5.—Barring unexpected developments Primo Carnera, former heavyweight champion, and Isidore Gastanaga, Spanish giant, will go through their ten-round bout in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night with the approval of the New York State Athletic Commission.

The commission will not decide until tomorrow whether Louis Soresi, Carnera's manager, and D. J. Rizzi, Gastanaga's manager of record in this State, were former business associates. But in a preview of the situation today Maj. Gen. John J. Phelan, chairman of the commission, said he saw no reason to halt the bout.

"Unless some expected evidence turns up tomorrow, the bout will go on as scheduled," said Phelan after talking with Soresi and Rizzi. "If something turns up at the last minute we always have the recourse of holding up the purses."

May Tie Up Purse.

Gastanaga's share of the purse may be tied anyway. Solly King, the Spanish fighter's former manager, today obtained from Supreme Court Justice Philip J. McCook an attachment against $50,000 worth of any assets held by Gastanaga in this State.

King claimed Gastanaga violated a five-year contract under which he was to have the boxer's exclusive services until April 20, 1938. The contract, King said, provided that in the event of a default, the defaulting party was to pay the other $50,000.

In comparison to Carnera's height of 6 feet, 6½ inches and 260 pounds, Gastanaga stands only 6 feet 1 inch and scales 204. Carnera was a slight favorite tonight.

W. & L. Team Tops V. P. I. 36 to 20

By the Associated Press.

MEMORIAL AUDITORIUM, Raleigh, N. C., March 5.—Maryland's fourth-seeded Old Liners tonight eliminated Duke University, 47 to 35, in a first-round engagement of the Southern Conference Basketball Tournament.

The Old Liners put out a dazzling passing attack, especially in the second period. Duke pulled up within 2 points of a tie at half time, but Maryland made its tries count at every turn.

The Blue Devils encountered hard luck on numerous shots that rolled menacingly about the goal rim, only to drop outside.

Willis Leads Scoring.

Duke pulled up into a 4-to-4 tie shortly after the game's opening and tied again at 22 to 22 after the start of the second half, but at no time was in first.

The passing of the Maryland club drew applause several times from the night audience of about 3,500.

V. P. I. Is Easy.

Washington and Lee, the tournament favorite, took its first step toward the championship by defeating V. P. I., 36 to 20, in the second game of the opening twin bill.

North Carolina, 1933 champion, was successful in its first defense of the title, turning back an impotent Virginia quintet by a score of 39-21 in the first game of the tourney.

Playing under wraps, the Generals assumed an early lead and won without difficulay. Bob Spessard, 6-foot, 7-inch center, led the sharpshooting Lexington team's attack, ringing up seven field goals. Coach "Cy" Young withdrew the big fellow early in the final period to save him for future games.

Desperate Attempt.

V. P. I. made a desperate attempt to bridge the gap between the teams in the second half, opening up with a barrage of long shots when prevented from working the ball in close by Washington and Lee's close defense. Most of the shots went awry, however, and a counter-attack placed the Generals far in advance of their foe.

North Carolina amassed a 21-5 advantage in the first of its game and coasted through the second half. The eventual outcome never was in doubt despite the Cavaliers' dogged play. Earl Ruth, who tallied six field goals, topped Carolina's scoring, while Smith, Virginia forward, was the most prolific scorer for his team.

Songmaker, Florida Derby Elgible, Easy Winner at Hialeah

$27.20 Paid By Gelding In Upset

Lancewood, Choice, Is Second by 2 Lengths; Sachem Is Third.

HIALEAH PARK, Fla., March 5. — Songmaker, a gray gelding that changed ownership twice at the meeting, scored a surprise victory in the first division of the St. John's Purse, a 1-mile test for 3-year-olds that was split into two sections and topped today's card. Closing at $27.20 for $2, Songmaker defeated the 3-to-4 favorite, Willard Wilson's Lancewood, by two lengths. Fred J. Ryan's Sachem was third, a length farther back.

Songmaker, originally owned by J. W. Lipop, was sold to J. A. Best. The latter lost the son of Royal Minstrel via the claiming route for $3,000 to his present owner, Tranquillity Farm.

Six horses started, all but War Games eligible for the Florida Derby. Rain started falling just before the race, but it was only a shower and did not change the track condition.

Lancewood, expected to come from behind, surprised by taking a long early lead under Johnny Longden. Sachem tired trying to catch the favorite, but Songmaker rushed up at the top of the stretch and overhauled Lancewood with little difficulty. Going easily, the gray campaigner moved away with Joe Renick sitting still. Incidentally, Songmaker is the ninth gray horse to win at this meeting.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BALANCED BUDGET, $7.00, $3.70, $3.00; LIEUT. GREENOCK, $3.50, $3.30; TRAMWAY, $4.60.

BALANCED BUDGET, kept on the outside after being outrun in the early stages, gained fast in the last quarter mile, and rallying strongly when engaging the pacemaker, finished stoutly to get up in the closing strides. LIEUT. GREENOCK drew away into a clear lead when leaving the backstretch, saved ground, but was weakly ridden during the closing stages. TRAMWAY held a contending position from the beginning and continued strongly in the final test.

SECOND RACE—Three furlongs; claiming. Purse, $800. For 2-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 2:52. Off at 2:59½. Winner, Edward F. Seagram's ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—MAKING TIME, $7.40, $3.10, $3.00; JACKIE D. (entry), $2.50, $2.30; BOHANNON, $10.40.

MAKING TIME began swiftly, rallied to punishment after covering a furlong and outstayed JACKIE D. under a hard drive. Latter carried out by GREY FLUFF until midway of homestretch, swerved to the inside and closed strongly while crowding BOHANNON during the final sixteenth. BOHANNON had nice speed to maintain a forward position while on the inside. He held on gamely after being crowded approaching the finish forcing Hunter to ease up slightly.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs; claiming. Purse, $800. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 3:27. Off at 3:32. Winner, Liberty Lane Stable's dk. br. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—FAKE, $5.60, $3.40, $2.70; AIR LINE, $4.30, $3.30; BALMACAN, $6.20.

FAKE followed in near pursuit of REGULA BADDUN in the first half mile, gained the lead midway of the homestretch, then held on strongly to withstand AIR LINE. Latter raced forwardly placed and came with good courage after being taken to the outside. BALMACAN, favored by improved handling, bettered his position steadily and finished stoutly.

FOURTH RACE—Six and one-half furlongs. Purse, $800. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 3:59. Off at 4:02½. Winner, Cornelius V. Whitney's b. f. (3), by Sickle—Coquetry. Trained by John A. Headley. Value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 1:18 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MISS OTIS, $52.10, $21.40, $9.20; AIRFORCE, $7.00, $4.10; HERONDAS (Kane entry), $4.40.

MISS OTIS, going in greatly improved form, had speed to take command soon after the start, was rated until challenged then held on resolutely to stall off COMBAHEE under a vigorous drive. COMBAHEE moved up stoutly after settling into his stride, came to the outside of the winner and closed full of run. Arcaro had his mount disqualified when he interfered with AIRFORCE approaching the finish, when the latter crowded over and leaned against his mount. AIRFORCE, slow to gain his best stride, circled his field when bettering his position and finished strongest of all. He was lugging to the inside when abreast of the leaders. HERONDAS raced under stout urging and showed a good effort.

FIFTH RACE—One mile; allowances. St. John's purse, $1,100. (First division.) For 3-year-olds. Start fair. Won handily; place driving. Went to post at 4:33. Off at 4:35. Winner, Tranquility Farm's gr. g. (3), by Royal Minstrel—Dream of Allah. Value to winner, $775; second, $175; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 1:37 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SONGMAKER, $27.20, $6.40, $3.50; LANCEWOOD, $2.80, $2.30; SACHEM, $3.60.

SONGMAKER, rated off the pace for the first six furlongs and showing improvement, went to the pacemaker without effort entering the homestretch, drew clear and finished with much in reserve. LANCEWOOD sprinted into a long lead early, saved ground all the way, but was no match for the winner when challenged. SACHEM raced stoutly all the way and was easily best of the others.

WEATHER, CLEAR. TRACK, GOOD.

SIXTH RACE—One mile; allowances. St. John's purse, $1,100. (Second division.) For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 5:04. Off at 5:06. Winner, George D. Widener's ch. c. (3), by Chance Play—Lisease. Trained by Wilbert F. Mulholland. Value to winner, $775; second, $175; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 1:38 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—PLAY CHANCE, $10.00, $6.10, $4.50; BRILLIANT LIGHT, $17.40, $7.20; OLD COMRADE, $4.30.

PLAY CHANCE, showing improvement over his recent race, entered contention when reaching the final bend, stole through on the inside of the leaders when straightened for the stretch drive, and came out readily after disposing of the leaders. BRILLIANT LIGHT, having much more speed than in his last two races, forced a steady pace while chasing NIGHTCAP and held on willingly for the closing test. OLD COMRADE was steadied within striking distance of the leaders and outstayed tiring horses.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles; claiming. Purse, $1,000. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 5:34. Off at 5::39. Winner, Alex McDonald's br. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—CROWNED HEAD, $3.30, $2.70, $2.30; SEAWICK, $7.40, $3.70; HADTOBE, $3.40.

CROWNED HEAD, taken to the outside for the start after acting fractious, gained a forward position when straightened into the backstretch, was rated nicely while following KINDRED SPIRIT, saved ground after moving to the front and held on strongly to withstand SEAWICK. Latter, going in her best form, worked her way up on the outside, responded to punishment and was wearing the winner down at every stride nearing the close. HADTOBE was kept under pressure for the entire trip and held on well for the closing test.

EIGHTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles; claiming. Purse, $1,000. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 6:13. Off at 6:17. Winner, Miss Lillian C. Two-dollar mutuels paid—MOVE FASTER, $10.80, $5.80, $5.10; MIXED PARTY, $13.60, $9.10; CAPT. JERRY, $5.80.

MOVE FASTER followed close to the pacemaker while being restrained, gained fast to take command entering the homestretch, then held on strongly for the balance of the trip. MIXED PARTY, delaying the start and breaking from the outside, broke in motion to set the pace and continued gamely after being displaced. CAPT. JERRY maintained a contending position all during the contest and held on gamely to stall off BUSTER BOY.

"Little Train" and Tender

Walter Johnson, jr., who has been dubbed the "Little Train," and his pal, Waters Butcher, whom teammates refer to as the "Tender," smilingly pose for the photographer between innings at the Philadelphia Athletics' training camp. The two Bethesda lads have major league pitching ambitions and have been impressive in early trials.

Newsom Has Most Confusing Delivery Wynne Has Ever Seen

By Huck Wynne.

(This is another in a series of stories from the Nationals' training camp at Orlando, Fla., written by Huck Wynne, Washington sandlotter whose trial is being financed by The Washington Post.)

ORLANDO, Fla., March 5.—I am beginning to understand why Buck Newsom is a swell pitcher.

I was handling him in batting practice today and I got a good look at him. I don't mean that he has a lot of stuff on the ball right now, but he's got the most confusing delivery I ever saw.

With that funny wind-up of his, he's got his two hands and one foot almost in the batter's face almost all the time, and it's hard to tell when he's going to let loose of the ball.

Then, again, sometimes he pitches straight overhand and he looks like he's on top of the hitter. The next pitch is apt to be from the side and it makes it tough to tell where the ball is coming from.

But it doesn't seem to affect his control. He was putting the ball where I asked for it without fail.

Newsom is cutting loose right now more than any of the other pitchers in the camp here despite the fact that he's only been in training a few days. Bucky Harris is letting him work the way he wants to and Buck isn't losing any time. He actually was curving 'em today.

He wasn't putting much stuff on the ball, but when he threw his fast one, such as it is right now, it had a 2 or 3 inch hop on it. No wonder the hitters pop up when he really starts to fog 'em in there.

I always thought catching Newsom would be tough on the catcher, but it isn't. He's a lot easier to handle than some of those scatter-arm guys who don't know where the ball is going. He only helps to prove what I have learned down here: That the better the pitching, the easier the job of catching.

Rinaldi Plays Investigation Five Tonight at Heurich's Gym

Resettlement Five Faces Olmsted

Tailors and G-Men Vie at 9:30 in A. A. U. Semifinal Game.

A DOUBLE feature is offered basketball lovers tonight at Heurich's gym, Twenty-sixth and D streets northwest, in the District Post A. A. V. championship, with Rinaldi Tailor meeting Bureau of Investigation and Resettlement battling Olmsted Grill.

Rinaldi and Investigation, who have clashed thrice this season, will fight for the right to enter the finals scheduled Monday night. They will take the floor around 9:30 in the nightcap game.

At 8:30 o'clock, Resettlement and Olmsted will begin matching goals in a quarterfinals contest.

Two fast 145-pound teams, St. Martin's and Agriculture, will meet at 7:30 in the program opener.

Rinaldi and the G-Men are in the upper bracket. Olmsted and Resettlement are in the lower bracket which also includes George Washington University's sensational freshman team. The winner of tonight's Olmsted-Resettlement game will oppose the Colonial Yearlings tomorrow night at Heurich in the semifinals.

Large Crowd Expected.

Tonight's double-barreled unlimited card is expected to bring out close to 1,500 followers of the four challengers for the senior crown.

The players will be battling as they never battled before, for from tournament headquarters comes the report that the winning team will leave next week for Denver to compete in the national championships and Olympic tryouts.

In three games this season Rinaldi and Investigation have played nothing short of sensational games. In the opener Rinaldi won by a one-point margin, and in the next contest the Tailors came back to triumph in an extra five-minute period by a one-point margin.

In the Police Boys Club tournament last December, the G-Men came through with a sparkling performance to turn back their rivals after two extra periods, winning the championship.

Thus it is clearly seen that there hasn't been a runaway game, and another battle typical of meetings between these teams is in store for tonight.

Investigation has finally found itself, with Ed Hargaden, the former Georgetown flash, as the key man in its attack. Roger Leverton, last year's University of Richmond captain, will toil at forward with Hargaden. Bill Hopkins, of Mount St. Mary's, will be at center, and Herbie Thompson, of Duke, and Bernie Jones, 1935 Sholl's captain, at guard.

Features High School Stars.

Rinaldi will open with five former high school stars—Bobby Lucas and Cliff Keyser, forwards; Bill Noonan, center; Sammy Hook and Ollie Tipton, guards.

Resettlement will start Jimmy Howell, late of George Washington; Gene Augusterre, of Catholic University, at forward; Bob Freeman, the Pennsylvania star, at center; Abe Rosenfeld and Bob Cleary, at guard, and Olmsted will rely on Johnny Sherman and Bob Raedy, forwards; Jim McGahey, center; Hal Kamp and Johnny Mitchell, guards.

It is interesting to note that three of the four seeded teams—Rinaldi, Investigation and Resettlement—are playing tonight. George Washington freshmen are the fourth.

Investigation had little difficulty defeating Agriculture last night, 41-28. The Aggies, beaten last week by Y. M. C. A., entered the picture again when the "Y" boys withdrew at the eleventh hour. The G-Men took things easy, as Hargaden and Joe Lynch rang up 9 points each.

Bovello Plumbers won a forfeit from Jewish Community Center in the 145-pound class. The Jewish team showed up with only five men and two of them were overweight.

Cook's Flashes eliminated MacFarland Young Men's Club, 29-28 after a five-minute extra period in another 145-pound game.

G. W. High Plays Roosevelt Today

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Alexandria, Va., March 5.—Washington High closes its basketball season tomorrow meeting Roosevelt's Rough Riders in Washington at 4 p. m.

A Sunday semi-pro baseball league for northern Virginia teams will be discussed at Fredericksburg, Va., tonight. The Celtics, Culpepper, Fredericksburg Elks and Heurichs, of Washington, are the four teams to be represented.

St. Agnes Girls School basketball team defeated the alumnae this afternoon, 12 to 10.

The St. Mary Celtics' nine opens its season here Sunday afternoon April 5 meeting the Fort Belvoir team.

Merrick Five Wins.

The Merrick B. C. 130-pounders defeated the Anacostia Eagles, 30 to 10, last night after the Merrick 120-pound courtmen had dropped a 20-18 game to St. Stevens. Counselman and Herrlien, of St. Stevens, were high scorers in the latter contest with 6 points each.

Hart Defends Plan to Shift Grid Site

By John R. Vosburgh.

PRINCIPAL CHARLES HART of Eastern High, in a letter to The Post, yesterday came to the defense of the board of principals' plan of holding the interhigh football series at the various schools instead of at Central Stadium.

The letter commented on an article in The Post disclosing a promise of Chairman Leonard T. Brown of the board of faculty advisers that he would appear before the board of principals to argue in favor of continuing the grid series entirely at Central Stadium.

Hart said the football and baseball schedules released by Brown have not definitely been adopted by the board. The baseball schedule, moving the interhigh series from Eastern's diamond to all the schools, he said, was originated by the faculty advisers. Brown said it had been turned over to the board of principals and nothing more had been heard of it.

Principal Hart's position on interhigh athletic questions now under discussion were expressed in the letter to this writer as follows:

"With five high school stadiums available for football it certainly seems to me that each school is entitled to have two games of the series played on its own field. There seems to be little reason, for example, for requiring Eastern and Western, each with an entirely adequate field, to go to Central to play their football games. By the home-and-home arrangement each school would have an opportunity every other year to have the game played on the place most convenient for its pupils.

"Moreover, the returns in a financial way would be much greater than by having all the games played in the Central High School Stadium. • • • Eastern, for the first time, had two of the games played on its field (last season) and its share of the net gate receipts from the series was $565, the largest amount the school has ever received as proceeds from a single sport. With the home-and-hom series in full operation next year the return will be even better."

Brown explained that Eastern's substantial profit from football was due to the appropriating of interhigh funds according to boy population of the schools. He said that the total profit for all the schools was less than in 1933, the last season the series was completely played. The treasurer reiterated he would present figures "showing to some extent" why it is preferable to play the football series at Central Stadium.

Little Hoyas, Montgomery In Finals

Capacity Rockville Crowd Sees Sportsmanship Tournament.

By Merrell W. Whittlesey.

MONTGOMERY High of Rockville and Georgetown Prep reached the finals of the eighth annual Rockville Sportsmanship Tourney before a capacity throng of 700 people last night in the Rockville gym. The senior schools were preceded by Leland and Rockville, who won their way to the junior high finals with impressive victories.

Montgomery High, exhibiting its usual tourney form, surprised with the ease in which it defeated Sherwood, 34 to 11. Georgetown Prep had little difficulty with Gaithersburg, winning, 33 to 15. Leland won over Takoma-Silver Spring, 36 to 22, and Montgomery defeated Poolesville, 28 to 9, in the junior semi-final battles.

Leland will face the Rockville juniors tonight at 7:30 in the opener. At 8:30 the Sherwood lassies, county champs, face an all-star girls' team, piloted by Catherine Cockburn, of Rockville. Georgetown Prep and Montgomery play in the final at 9:30 o'clock for the Sun Gold trophy.

Georgetown Prep, making its debut in the 8-year-old tourney, ran roughshod over the Gaithersburg High five, using 11 players in winning the 33 to 15 victory. The little Hoyas were held to an 11-4 advantage at the half, but, led by Higgins and O'Shaughnessy, soon widened the margin, with the reserves playing most of the last two quarters.

Coach Eddie Quinn's Takoma-Silver Spring High juniors led the Leslanders for a half, 17-12, but Chichester held a hot hand for the eventual winners in the latter periods and led them to the 36-22 victory. The Montgomery juniors were never pressed after overcoming a 2-0 lead that Luhn presented the Poolesville Club, leading 18-4 at half time and coasting in, 28-9. Bobbie Johnson, son of Walter Johnson, played a prominent part in the victory.

Thorpe Named Steward at R. I. Track

By the United Press.

NARRAGANSETT PARK, R. I., March 5.—Tom Thorpe, prominent horse racing, football and basketball official and member of the license board of the Florida State Racing Commission, late today signed a three-year contract as presiding steward at Narragansett Park Track.

For 16 years he managed the crack racing stable of the late James Butler, chain store magnate, and over the same period acted as general manager of the Empire City Racing Association, which operates the Empire Track at Yonkers, N. Y.

Athletes Must Wait to 'Die' For Dear New Wilson High

By Ben Dulaney.

STUDENTS at Washington's first new senior high school in more than 30 years are a little peeved—peeved because Woodrow Wilson High in all its shiny grandeur has been functioning for six months now and, as far as the sports pages are concerned, it might be still a large and muddy hole in Reno Hill.

In a very few weeks the green and white of Woodrow Wilson will appear for the first time in interschool competition when the baseball team begins looking for games. "If," says Athletic Director Carl F. Heintell, "if we can get some uniforms and a field to practice on."

Heintell has a brand-new plant, located just south of Chevy Chase at the highest point in the District, but he has his troubles. There is no senior class and most of the 400-odd male students are young and inexperienced. His athletic field-to-be now is a ringer for the shell-torn fields of France, and the business of equipping all teams must be begun from the very beginning.

So the former Tech High worker has evolved a sane plan for the future. Right now he is completing an inclusive program of intramural basketball. Every boy in the school has had a chance to play in interclass and inter-section contests. The baseball team will have few games, probably with local prep school outfits.

Next fall there'll be a football outfit, but it won't compete with other high schools.

"There's no use being slaughtered by heavy, trained teams," Heintell said. "Our team will be light and will try to book others in our class like, maybe, Friends, Landon, St. Alban's and so on."

If the court team shapes up next winter it may be the first to carry Wilson's colors into inter-high competition. Otherwise the 1937 baseballers will do it.

One of Heintell's principal troubles has been the subduing of overzealous students who believe that the honor of old—or rather new—Woodrow Wilson must be immediately paraded on the field of interhigh combat. Lots of the boys think that even a big zero on the scoreboard would be better than nothing at all.

Plans for other sports—tennis, golf and track—are still indefinite. Heintell, with no assistant, is kept pretty busy.

Yale Nine to Play Colonials on Trip

New Haven, Conn., March 5.—For the first time in five years Yale University will take a baseball trip during the Easter vacation, playing a seven-game schedule which will take the squad as far South as Norfolk, Va. Philadelphia, Washington and Richmond are the large cities to be visited. The team will play, respectively, Temple, George Washington and Richmond.

Capt. Tommy Curtin is seriously ill at his home in Pittsfield with complications following influenza and it is feared that he will be unable to play this season and that an acting captain will be chosen.

7 Grid Games Are Booked By C. U.

Only One Top-Notch Tilt, Mississippi State, Is Scheduled.

CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY'S 1936 football schedule, which as yet has neither beginning nor ending, was announced yesterday by Dutch Bergman, director of athletics, head football coach and booking agent, who is arranging the Orange Bowl champions' itinerary.

The seven-game list will not provoke dyed-in-the-wool fans to a wild outburst of cheering for it contains the name of only one top-notch attraction—Mississippi State, and that game, of course, will be played at Oxford, Miss. The remaining half-dozen are of the usual mediocre and subpar caliber.

Bergman, however, hinted that he is angling for a Thanksgiving Day game with a major opponent to be played in Washington, but if he was powerless to schedule Auburn when the Plainsmen were willing to come here, or Michigan State, which was equally willing to sign on the dotted line, it isn't logical that he can now obtain a team just as good.

La Salle, DePaul, the only team to defeat the Brooklanders last season; West Virginia Wesleyan, North Carolina State, and Western Maryland are the elevens who will meet Catholic in Washington. All of the Cards' home games, incidentally, probably will be played at Brookland.

October 3, open; 10, LaSalle; 17, DePaul; 24, Mississippi (away); 30, Loyola of South* (away); November 7, West Virginia Wesleyan; 14, North Carolina State; 21, Western Maryland; 26, open.

Deadline Near For Boxing Tourney

WITH a small army of ambitious leather-pushers already registered and chafing at the bit for action, District A. A. U. officials last night sounded a warning that entry lists for the annual boxing tournament will close tomorrow at the Washington Boys Club, 230 C street, and National Guard Armory, Sixth and Pennsylvania avenue. The process of selecting the 1936 champions begins next Tuesday at Turner's Arena.

Two new champions are certain to be crowned as the lads who won the flyweight and middleweight thrones last winter have abdicated, but there may be more new faces in the city's royal ring family, if the mood of the contenders is any criterion. One of the most formidable fields of fisticuffing ever arraigned for the annual tourney will be seen in action.

Matt Toomey's Olympic Club, which will defend its team honors, is certain to be extended, if not whipped, this season. One good reason for this statement is the presence of Jim McNamara's Jewish Community Center team in the lists. This aggregation is regarded as one of the best all-around punching units ever coached by the husky Irishman.

Maryland Golf Club, Finances Poor, Quits

Maryland Country Club, located on the outskirts of Baltimore, has discontinued operations, it was learned last night.

One of the oldest golf clubs in this section, the Maryland club as far back as a year ago was reported in bad financial condition and members pointed out that it was only a matter of time before it would collapse.

J. E. Totman, president, said that if golf is continued at the club, the name of the club will be changed. A reorganization committee has been appointed, it is understood.

Glenn Spencer was professional at Maryland Country Club. His brother, Cliff is pro at Beaver Dam here.

Washington Boys Club Rasslers Break Even

The Washington Boys Club wrestling teams broke even last night in a pair of engagements on the W. B. C. mats. The Senior team took a 21-3 beating from Jewish Community Center grapplers, but the Junior team evened things for the night with a 26-15 victory over Police Boys Club, No. 4.

2,500 Watch O'Mahoney Pin Cox

Disputed World Champion Requires 48 Minutes to Set Foe Down.

By George Considine.

DANNO O'MAHONEY, very much disputed world wrestling champion, outlasted Kansas City Joe Cox before some 2,500 spectators last night at the Turner Arena. Consuming 48 minutes, the match was the longest and perhaps the tamest of the indoor season.

The winning hold? Ah, that was a classic. It seems that Cox, obviously in a playful mood, leaped on Danno's back and proceeded to ride piggy-backy all over the rostrum. O'Mahoney finally grabbed the top rope, sprang back and squooshed the Kansan into the rosin. It was a good five minutes before Cox regained consciousness.

Much tribute is due Cox for the pleasing manner in which he conducted himself throughout the contest. It was his showmanship that made the thing entertaining. It was his talent that pulled the match out of the ever-threatening doldrums. Time and time again his efforts seemed solely to make the handsome Irisher "look good."

Looks a Bit Worried.

Like all well-behaved world rassle champions, O'Mahoney allowed the "challenger" to wait four minutes before he put in an appearance. As the bout opened Danno pitched in to his task with unexpected enthusiasm. He looked a bit worried.

Cox took a deal of punishment for the first ten minutes, but then momentarily forgot himself and bashed Danno to the mat. Danno's next effort was quite a potent head scissors but Cox squirmed loose.

Usually a rough and tumble workman, Cox surprised ringsiders by pulling his punches and generally maintaining his peace while the Irishman labored long and strenuously on various parts of the Kansan's anatomy.

Five Minutes of Grief.

At the 20-minute mark O'Mahoney was producing his best work of the match. Somehow or other he persuaded Cox to lie down and clamped on what looked like a combination split and shin bender, thus causing his husky adversary considerable grief for more than five minutes.

Cox warmed to his task and rose to smite Danno to the mat. A moment later, while Cox was applying a meritorious armlock, Danno said in his rich brogue, "You're hurting me." That was enough for Cox, evidently, because he promptly released his hold.

In the flurry of fisticuffs which followed, both men wound up in the second-row ringside. Referee Bennah Bortnick started counting them both out and they jumped back on the mat like a couple of schoolboys.

Sonnenberg Wins.

Outside of that comical piggybacky ride, which ensued immediately, it was a rather ordinary exhibition, compared with the Gus Sonnenberg-Rusty Westcoatt semifinal. Looking nothing at all like the man who revolutionized the mat several years ago with his flying tackle, Sonnenberg, however, managed to destroy Westcoatt with his favorite plunge after 19½ minutes of bristling action.

Handsome Vic Christy and Scotty McDougall, representing youth and age, respectively, toiled to a stirring 30-minute draw. Time and again the large crowd demonstrated its approval with rounds of applause.

Prep School Matmen Open Tourney Today

The first annual prep school wrestling championship of Washington will open this afternoon at the Friends School gymnasium with a field of 52 entered in 17 classes. Boys ranging in age from 8 or 9 years to such 20-year-old notables as Rube Hayman, former Central High all-high tackle, now attending Devitt, make up the entry list.

In the entries listed below, classes in which only two boys are named will not see matches take place until tomorrow night. Matches in class A for boys under 12 years of age will start the tournament at 3:30 p. m., with class B, for boys 12 and older, occupying the evening program, starting at 7:30 p. m. The finals will be held at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow.

Hoyas' Early 6-to-0 Lead Is Erased as Hosts Run Up Big Lead.

By the Associated Press.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., March 5.—Paced by Gocke and Barna, who scored 11 and 10 points, respectively, West Virginia toppled Georgetown tonight, 41 to 26, in a fast game.

Petrosky led the scoring for the visitors with 8 points. The Hoyas jumped off to a 6-0 lead in the first six minutes, but the smooth-working machine of Phares, Mestrovic and their teammates got going then and rolled in 15 points before the Hoyas broke through for another field goal. Before half-time West Virginia ran up a 21-9 lead.

The second half was evenly played for the first 10 minutes, with West Virginia holding a 26-16 lead. Then Gocke's shots began to click and from that point the Mountaineers ran away with the game.

The squad broke about even from the free line. Georgetown had 14 chances and made eight of them good, while seven of the Mountaineers' 12 attempts swished through.

Haynes Meets Tornado in Feature

No. 2 Colored Heavy Will Show Tonight Against Tornado at Arena.

LEROY HAYNES, hailed in some quarters as second only to Joe Louis among colored heavyweights, will make his local debut tonight at the Turner Arena, where he is scheduled to encounter Jack Tornado, of Philadelphia, in the ten-round feature of an all-colored boxing card.

Included among Haynes' triumphs are wins over Reds Barry, of this city; Hans Birkie, Tony Cancela, Ford Smith, Willie Reddish, Tony Star and Salvatore Ruggirello. He is slated to meet Primo Carnera at the Philadelphia Arena on March 16.

In Tornado, who was substituted for Deacon Leonard Dixon at the eleventh hour, Haynes meets one of his sturdiest opponents to date. Tornado's outstanding accomplishment was a knockout victory over Abe Clark, the giant colored heavyweight, who was the first boxer in the country to extend Carnera.

However, Haynes is expected to win with something to spare. Both Joe Louis and Max Baer declined a $20,000 cash guarantee to meet Larruping Leroy before Carnera placed his name on the dotted line.

Preceding the main event there will be a battle royal, involving specially selected talent, while in the semifinal bout Sammy Williams and Jimmy Glascoe are to argue it out for the District colored middleweight title over an eight-round distance.

Fleetwings Meet Heurichs Sunday

The Heurich Brewers and the Gettysburg Fleetwings will renew their none too congenial basketball relationship Sunday, when the pell-melling Pennsylvanians sweep into the Heurich gym for their fourth crack at the Washington wizards. The main event will commence at 3:30 p. m.

In addition to having beaten the Brewers in two out of three games this season, the Gettysburg grapplers enjoy the distinction of being the roughest, toughest crew on the Heurich schedule. The last time the fouling Fleetwings made an appearance here, the game set some kind of a free-style record for plain and fancy fouling.

By the Associated Press.

Secretary Morgenthau said yesterday that his agreement to buy newly mined Canadian silver through the Bank of Canada was expected to absorb the Dominion's entire output. The production was estimated by Treasury officials at about 16,000,000 ounces per year.

Morgenthau said the Treasury would fix the price to be paid for the metal rather than to be governed by the prevailing New York price. The Treasury figure is about ¼ cent an ounce higher than that quoted in New York. He added that it was "perfectly possible" that similar arrangements might be negotiated with South American silver producing countries. This Government now has an arrangement with Mexico to purchase that republic's entire output of the newly mined metal.

The buying is done in pursuance of the silver purchase act requirement that Treasury stocks of the metal be built up to one-third those of gold or until the price reaches $1.29 an ounce—coinage value.

Latest Treasury calculations indicated a total of 663,900,000 ounces of silver had been acquired in the open market since passage of the silver purchase act on June 19, 1934. Silver stocks are now approximately 21 per cent of the gold base.

Ottawa, March 5 (AP).—Mining officials said today they exepected about 14,000,000 ounces of newly mined Canadian silver would be available for sale to the United States this year, in accordance with the agreement announced yesterday by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau to purchase the Canadian output.

Under the London silver agreement, which terminates next year, the Canadian government agreed to buy 1,671,802 ounces annually from Canadian mines, which must be deducted from the total available for sale to the United States.

Eastern Gas Files $75,000,000 Issue

New York, March 5 (AP).—Eastern Gas & Fuel Associates, the major unit of the Koppers Group, announced today a registration statement covering the proposed issue of $75,000,000 first mortgage and collateral trust bonds, series "A," 4 per cent, due in 1956, had been filed with the SEC.

The issue is primarily for refunding purposes.

Acme Steel Declares 25c Extra Dividend

Chicago, March 5 (AP).—Acme Steel Co. directors declared an extra dividend of 25 cents a share today in addition to a quarterly of 62½ cents payable April 1 to stockholders of record March 16.

Western Pacific to Get $3,000,000 RFC Loan

Announcements of a Reconstruction Finance Corporation agreement to lend the Western Pacific Railroad Co. $3,000,000 for rehabilitation of the road was made yesterday by Chairman Jesse H. Jones. The RFC, he said, will buy at par and accrued interest 4 per cent trustee certificates in this amount.

Jones reiterated at his press conference an earlier opinion that it might be desirable for the Northern Pacific to refund $115,000,000 of 6 per cent bonds at a lower interest rate. The bonds are callable at 110 after July 1.

N. Y. Central Plans $62,900,000 Financing

By the Associated Press.

The New York Central Railroad asked the Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday for authority to refinance $62,900,000 of outstanding demand bank loans.

The road proposed to issue $40,000,000 of 10-year 3¾ per cent secured sinking fund bonds, $15,000,000 of serial secured notes and $7,900,000 in a 5-year, 3 per cent promissory note.

$73,000,000 Rise in Money In Circulation

Demand for Cash Reduces Reserve Balances by $26,000,000.

By the Associated Press.

The Federal Reserve Board's condition statement of reserve banks showed last night the demand for month's end cash caused money in circulation to jump $73,000,000 during the week ended March 4.

To meet this additional demand, the Treasury transferred cash from reserve institutions to commercial banks, while the commercial banks in turn drew down from their reserve balances. As a result, Treasury deposits with revenue banks dropped $51,000,000 during the week, while reserve balances were depleted by $26,000,000.

The total of reserve balances, $5,813,000,000 is still about $3,040,000,000 in excess of legal requirements.

Monetary gold stocks of the Nation were augmented by net imports of $4,000,000 during the week. The condition statement said:

"The daily average volume of Federal Reserve bank credit outstanding during the week ended March 4, as reported by the Federal Reserve banks, was $2,478,000,000, a decrease of $4,000,000, compared with the preceding week and an increase of $19,000,000 compared with the corresponding week in 1935.

"On March 4 total reserve bank credit amounted to $2,475,000,000, unchanged from a week ago. Increases of $73,000,000 in money in circulation and $13,000,000 in nonmember deposits and other Federal Reserve accounts were offset by increases of $4,000,000 in monetary gold stock and $4,000,000 in Treasury and national bank currency and decreases of $26,000,000 in member bank reserve balances and $51,000,000 in Treasury cash and deposits with Federal Reserve banks. Member bank reserve balances on March 4 were estimated to be approximately $3,040,000,000 in excess of legal requirements."

The Market

Stocks Edge Upward on Buying of Rail, Farm, Aircraft Shares; Government Bonds Strong.

New York, March 5.—Stocks milled around most of the day and made only moderate progress on balance, with a turnover of 2,600,000 shares, compared with 3,000,000 shares yesterday. A number of favored issues climbed briskly, but the tone in general was no better than steady. Treasury bonds were bid up to their best prices. May wheat closed ⅜ of a cent lower at $1 a bushel.

Except for signs that a good deal of labored breathing, if any at all, for many corporations lies ahead, what with new tax proposals, a fresh drive against public utilities and a reminder given by the new Federal Reserve Board that the Administration now is in full authority over all credit, and intends to exercise it, the day brought nothing new that greatly affected the markets.

Abroad the markets took calmly enough what seemed to be louder war threats in the Far East and the publicity surrounding the feverish haste to increase British military power. As a partial offset the outlook for settlement of the Italian war in Ethiopia appeared brighter. At all events foreign exchange trading was dull, with little change in rates.

Stocks that attracted buyers were able for the most part to advance without meeting much selling opposition. Without active buying, prices had a tendency to sag. The market merely gave another illustration of how quickly buyers and sellers can change their minds when prodded a bit by the ticker tape, all which suggested a greater percentage than usual of professional operation. Some of the stocks which rose the highest, incidentally, are by no means those which have drawn the attention of investors looking for solid earning power.

In the lost of strong groups were rails, airplanes and farm implements. Tobaccos continued weak, as they have been in recent weeks, doubtless on realization that some of the large companies are failing to cover their dividends. The rise in the rails stretched as far as 5 points, with Union Pacific the leader. U. P. reached its best price since 1931. Santa Fe, Delaware & Hudson and New York Central rose a point or so.

Curtiss-Wright.

Curtiss-Wright, both classes headed the airplane list. Turnover was large. The stocks sold at their best prices in five years. Wright Aero jumped more than a half-dozen points. Farm implements were pushed up another 2 to 4 points as more details of the vast new scheme for distributing Government money among the farmers under the camouflage of soil conservation were revealed. Farm implement and mail order stores shares are now moving independently of the market for farm prices, which has been indifferent lately.

Public utility shares were mixed, feeling the weight of local and national animosity in official circles. Consolidated Gas lost a large fraction. Telephone, on the other hand, moved up a point. Motors were narrow for the most part, but Auburn, without any reference to a changed position in the industry, was hoist another 3 points, something which seems moderately easy to do, in view of the scanty number of shares outstanding and the still further attenuated floating supply.

Rail equipments and motor accessories were irregular. General American Transportation rose nearly 3 points. Baldwin preferred dropped 2 points. Strength was outstanding in Amerada, which bid for membership in the $100 a share class on a gain of 6 points; American Safety Razor, selling at a new record high price; Beatrice Creamery and BMT reaching a new peak. Other good gainers were Certain-teed, Scott Paper, Bohn Aluminum and A. O. Smith.

Metals were led by American Smelting. Howe Sound, Anaconda and Kennecott were firm. Oils were less active. Merchants were higher. Soft spots were found here and there. Greyhound, Manville and Western Union retreated 1 to 3 points. Foster Wheeler broke more than 3 points.

Political Banking.

Some of those optimists in Wall street who were horrified at the suggestion that the new Federal Reserve Board might once in a great while be swayed by politics rather than by good banking judgment probably are beginning to wonder if, after all, water can rise higher than its source. Although the expense of operating the Federal Reserve Banks is a matter in which the Government has no legitimate interest, the new board under the flimsy excuse of saving money has decided to lop off a few heads, particularly those of the chairmen of the old local boards. Provision for the elimination of Federal Reserve Bank chairmen was put into the original bill amending the Federal Reserve act, but that section was deleted, and with good reason. Now the new central board is doing by indirection that which it was given no direct authority to do by law, and the reason is partly one of personal pique and partly one of medieval discipline. By shooting every tenth man in the ranks, certain disciplinarians used to hold, the spirit of mutiny could be checked. What chance is there now for any Federal Reserve Bank president to question any policy of the New Dealers?

Graduated Tax.

Some people see growing out of the tax discussions the possibility for a graduated earnings tax on corporations reaching into penalty figures, which would at once help to carry out the views of the President on the desirability for breaking up large corporations. Should that come about the picture would present an odd scene of autocratic twisting of business organizations. First the consolidated tax income return is attacked, forcing a widespread amalgamation into one company of many subsidiaries. Then when one vast whole is created, the size-tax on earnings is slapped on, the ox having been fattened for the slaughter.

Uncertainties.

A graduated income tax calculated to penalize severely a corporation merely for the size of its net earnings, regardless of the percentage earned on capital employed, probably would have some interesting effects in the stock market. A railroad such as Union Pacific, for example, might find it necessary to distribute its investments, and many industrial organizations would distribute stock in some of their enterprises. At this point in President Roosevelt's breathing spell for business a stout heart, steady nerves and sound lungs are required.

La Salle Bldg. To Pay Overdue Note Interest

3 Per Cent Installment to Be Distributed on North Portion.

For the first time since receivers were appointed for the LaSalle Building, north portion, at Connecticut avenue and L street northwest, the noteholders are to be paid some long-overdue interest upon their notes, secured by the deed of trust on the leasehold, originally made for 99 years.

Edward F. Colladay and Enoch A. Chase, receivers for the North LaSalle Building, appointed on June 26, 1931, obtained an order from the court on February 24 authorizing them to pay holders of notes of the north building 3 per cent of the face value of their notes; being the semiannual installment of interest at 6 per cent. As the deed of trust is $650,000 this will involve a total payment of $19,500, to be distributed among some 500 persons listed with the receivers as the owners and holders of 870 notes.

Payment will be made through the Second National Bank, 1333 G street northwest, beginning March 10.

Both portions of the LaSalle Building are now in receivership. The north building was the first unit to default upon the interest payment upon its deed of trust. The south section, with $800,000 notes outstanding, was forced into receivership in November, 1932, and the court appointed as receivers Paul B. Cromelin and John Walsh.

Auto Employment Near 1929 Record

New York, March 5.—The Automobile Manufacturers Association today announced that production of automobiles gave work in 1935 to a higher average number of persons than in any preceding year except one. The employment total for last year came within 10,000 of equaling the 1929 all-time record of 447,000 workers.

This occurred despite the fact that the 1935 output of motor vehicles was still 1,250,000 cars below the 1929 mark, according to Alfred Reeves, vice president and general manager of the association.

$50,000,000 Bills Offered by Treasury

The Secretary of the Treasury gives notice that tenders are invited for Treasury bills to the amount of $50,000,000, or thereabouts. They will be 273-day bills, and will be sold on a discount basis to the highest bidders.

Tenders will be received at the Federal Reserve banks or branches up to 2 p. m. Monday, March 9. Tenders will not be received at the Treasury Department.

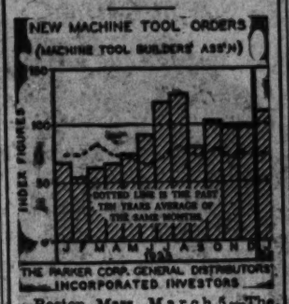
Tool Orders Gain 69 Per Cent in Year



Boston, Mass., March 5.—The placing of orders for new machine tools, which is basic equipment, is an excellent indicator of future activity in manufacturing industries. January orders exceeded a year ago by 69 per cent, while orders during last year were nearly double 1934 orders. About one-third of United States machine tool output is exported.

Loans for the corresponding week a year ago totaled $731,000,000.

Bank Clearings Maintain Lead Over Last Year

By the Associated Press.

New York, March 5.—A rise occurred in bank clearings for the week ended Wednesday, March 4. The total for 22 leading cities in the United States, as reported to Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., was $6,062,379,000, against $5,947,995,000 for the same period of last year, an increase of 1.3 per cent.

In the preceding five-day week the gain amounted to 8.9 per cent. Clearings at New York City were $4,003,294,000, or 2.4 per cent below last year's, while the aggregate for centers outside of New York of $2,059,085,000 rose 11.5 per cent above the 1,846,764,000 reported in 1935.

There were gains this week at 18 of the 22 cities reporting. The most substantial rises over last year's totals occurred at New Orleans, Chicago, Omaha and San Francisco.

The Federal Diary

Registered in U. S. Patent Office.

By Morgan Baker.

BAKER.

It will perhaps surprise many to learn there are still 300 NRA employes occupying offices in Commerce Building, occupying 71,000 square feet of space that is needed by the Shipping Board and several units of Commerce. No NRA dismissals are being made, officials say, because the entire 800 employes will be out March 31 when the authorization expires on that date. A few resignations are submitted daily by persons who have located jobs elsewhere.

The present congestion problem is caused principally by moving 96 NRA workers and their equipment from the La Salle Building, which has been taken over by the Veterans' Administration for bonus payment work. These 96 people have in the last few days been placed in offices already crowded at Commerce.

The Shipping Board is marking time at its present quarters at 1712 G street northwest until some time in April, when it will take over approximately 50,000 square feet at Commerce. There are no NRA employes left in the field.

Department Observes Anniversary.

Employes and friends of Labor Department last night celebrated the twenty-third anniversary of the department's establishment at the Mayflower Hotel. Credit for the successful affair goes to Leigh L. Nettleton (P) and his committee on arrangements. Dancing and cards were the chief entertainment. Secretary Frances Perkins headed the receiving line.

The Labor Department was created as a separate executive department by act of Congress, approved March 4, 1913. A Bureau of Labor was first established by Congress in 1884 under the Interior Department. Soon thereafter the bureau was made independent as a Department of Labor, but without executive rank. Later it again became a bureau in Commerce and Labor Department, which was created by act of February 14, 1903.

WITH 64 contestants taking part, Norman Engleberg (C), WPA, won the final round of the first annual Federal Table Tennis League tourney this week at 403 E street northwest, by defeating Jack Chasin, WPA. In the semifinals Chasin eliminated A. Chasanow (P), Hydrographic Office, Navy.

Champions in the doubles are Diosdado M. Yap, AAA, and Aron Smith, who defeated Engleberg and George Clark (C), Internal Revenue.

U. S. D. A. Buildings Joined.

Closer contact between the Administration Building and the South Building at Agriculture is rapidly being brought about with the work on two connecting bridges well under way. The bridges are to be supplemented by underground tunnels. Completion of both projects is expected by the first of August and will greatly facilitate communication between the two buildings.

Diary Guest Tickets.

IF F, P or C appears after your name in this column, call in person on the Federal Diary editor today only between 3:30 and 5 p. m. You will receive tickets to one of the following Loew's Theaters: F, Loew's Fox (stage, Fats Waller and his C. B. S. Orchestra and other acts; screen, Bing Crosby in "Anything Goes"); or to P, Loew's Palace (second week of Mae West and Victor McLaglen in "Klondike Annie"); or to C. Loew's Columbia (Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy in "Rose Marie").

Voting Ends Today.

Voting in the biennial election of officers of Local No. 2, National Federation of Federal Employes, will close at 6 p. m. today, according to Joseph Stansfield, retiring president. The polls are located at the union's headquarters in Suite 604, 710 Fourteenth street northwest.

Harlow Bacon, Commerce, and Robert W. Cushman, Library of Congress, are candidates for president. On the ticket for vice presidents are Dr. Howard A. Edson, Agriculture; John L. Bateman, General Accounting Office, and Robert W. Cushman.

Secretary-treasurer candidates are Henry G. Nolda (F), Veterans' Administration, and Edwin F. Ludwig, Commerce. A. M. Reising, Interior, and Mr. Bateman are candidates for recorder.

To the National Symphony.

Cleopatra had Mark Antony;
Napoleon had Josephine;
England had her Shakespeare
And Elizabeth the Queen.

Washington fathered a country;
Lincoln freed a race;
The President scatters his New Deal

New York has grand opera;
Paris sets the style;
Our Capital has an orchestra
That makes life worth while.
MATTIE RICHARDS TYLER (F),
Register's Office, Treasury.

Government employes are invited to hear Will Durant on "What Are We Facing Today?" at the Center under auspices of the National Jewish Forum, at 8:15 p. m. Sunday.

Hollywood

By Sidney Skolsky

Hollywood, March 4.

"The Country Doctor": This modern version of "Babes in the Woods" was able to get on the screen because Charles Blake, reporter noted for his coverage of the quintuplets' story, wrote a letter to Harry Brand, the publicity chieftain at Twentieth Century-Fox. Brand acted as ambassador between Darryl Zanuck and Blake. It was a 300-word letter that Blake wrote. He outlined the story, and in those brief paragraphs he had the three vital situations the flicker contains: The tale of the two brothers, the country doctor and the city doctor; a scene about the birth of the quintuplets, and the last sequence in which the doctor is knighted.

About two weeks later, Blake was on his way to Hollywood. He worked on his story here for five weeks. For his services and for the original story, Blake received $5,000.

• • • •

The next task, now that they had a story about the quints, was to get the quints to appear in the picture. Dr. Dafoe and the public welfare commissioner of Canada already had refused offers to make the children movie stars. The quints performed for the newsreel and in one-reelers for Pathe. The guardians believed this sufficient. Harold Lloyd wanted the quints for his flicker, "The Milky Way." Several other companies made bids and were refused. The man really responsible for the signing of the quints is Joseph Moskowitz, of Twentieth Century-Fox. He got on a train, went to Callander, let Dr. Dafoe and the welfare commissioner read the scenario, and agreed to move Hollywood to Canada to shoot the scene.

• • • •

The excursion to Callander consisted of Director Henry King, Jean Hersholt, Dorothy Peterson, a cameraman, a sound crew, and Scenarist Sonya Levien, who fashioned the screen play and is credited to be one of the best constructionists in pictures.

The actual scenes of the quintuplets were not written in the scenario. They were merely "hoped for." Director King held rehearsals every night in the hotel. Hersholt and Peterson using five pillows in place of the babies. The quints did as they pleased before the camera. The first two days' shooting had to be discarded and reshot. Director King and his crew wore sterilized gowns while in the nursery during the filming, only between 11 o'clock and noon. The longest actual shooting time, any day, was 25 minutes; the shortest, six minutes. Dr. Dafoe was present always.

The fact that the quints mistook Hersholt for Dr. Dafoe, and Peterson, in costume, for the nurse, made the filming easier.

DON'T ANSWER ADS
Yet want a clean, honest position that will insure them a fair return for their work. I sincerely believe you will be glad you investigated this opportunity.

If you meet our requirements of neat appearance, industrious nature, 25 to 50 years of age, we will set you up in a little business in your own neighborhood—without one cent investment on your part. You won't get rich, but you should net from $38 to $70 a week.

By this time next week one of your friends may have the franchise to your locality, so don't put this off. Investigate this plan—it costs you nothing but your time and it may be just what you have been looking for.

You're the Life of the Party with a Piano ACCORDION

. . . the easiest of all Instruments to Play

★ Everywhere the popularity of this fascinating instrument is growing by leaps and bounds! Two years ago you seldom saw one—now you see them everywhere in orchestras, bands, on the stage, at private parties, etc.—everywhere people gather. Why not learn to play yourself? It's very easy with our simplified method of instruction—average students play popular music after only 20 lessons! And best of all the cost is nominal—$1.50 weekly pays for both the accordion and the PRIVATE lessons. All you have to do is come in, make arrangements for the lessons, pay for a few weeks in advance and we give you the accordion (in case).

AUBURN—'36

NED BRANT—A Story of College Athletics

By Bob Zuppke

Famous Football Coach

WITH UNBELIEVABLE SPEED, THE UNHERALDED BOY FROM CARTER COLLEGE, RED LIGHT, HAS BURST INTO THE LEAD!

APPLE MARY

By Martha Orr

—AND THE CHIEF SAYS LOOTER GAVE THE FIRST INFORMATION ABOUT THE RIVER GANG. IT MAKES ME SO HOT I COULD BOIL.
WHAT!!
WHY, THE DIRTY DOUBLE-CROSSING CROOK. I'LL MAKE HIM TELL THE TRUTH ABOUT THAT BUSINESS—
HERE, JAKE. YOU KEEP THE DOG WITH YOU. I'M GOING TO PAY A CALL ON SOMEBODY TOO LOW FOR THE DOG TO ASSOCIATE WITH.
I'M GOING WITH YOU.
WE SHOULD HAVE THE REWARD FOR THE CAPTURE OF THAT RIVER GANG. IF IT HADN'T BEEN FOR US, THE RAIDING SQUAD WOULD HAVE BEEN BLOWN TO PIECES IN THAT OLD WAREHOUSE.

DICK TRACY

South Via the Dining Room

AND IT'S MY OPINION, TRACY, THAT YOU'VE PROGRESSED SO NICELY YOU MIGHT JUST AS WELL GO RIGHT ON DOWN SOUTH IMMEDIATELY.
IN OTHER WORDS, WE'LL JUST GO HOME LONG ENOUGH TO PACK OUR GRIPS.
EXACTLY! I'VE MADE RESERVATIONS FOR US ON TOMORROW'S TRAIN.
DICK! WHAT A SIGHT IT IS TO SEE YOU UP AND AROUND.
MOTHER, TESS AND DICK AND I ARE LEAVING TOMORROW.
I'VE PACKED ALL OF YOUR GRIPS—AND I'VE GOT DINNER—A DINNER OF REAL THANKSGIVING YOU COULD CALL IT.

I'LL ADMIT HE GOT MY NAME AND I DIDN'T GET HIS BUT I FOUND OUT HE HANGS AROUND THE RACE TRACK.
I ASKED THE CLERK AND LEARNED HIS NAME IS CRISP AND THAT HE AND HIS WIFE CHECKED OUT RIGHT AFTER HE TALKED TO ME.
WELL, DID HE WANT TO LET YOU IN ON SOMETHING GOOD?
YES—BUT I GUESS HE DECIDED I WASN'T BIG ENOUGH GAME AND HAS MOVED ON. ANOTHER OPPORTUNITY OF A LIFETIME GONE!

Detectives to Fight Pay Rule Change

A meeting was held at Police Headquarters yesterday of a large group of detective sergeants to discuss a pending provision in legislation which may take away their rank of sergeant, and deprive them of promotional status.

The change proposed would permit precinct detectives to work out of the Detective Bureau without receiving the additional pay of a sergeant.

As the law reads now, any detective working out of headquarters must receive the pay of a sergeant.

Husband, 104, Cleared.

Taunton, Mass., March 5 (AP).—The police declined to make an arrest in this case: Mrs. Slebea Barber, a robust woman of 54, today complained her husband assaulted her. Upon investigation,

Boy Scout Troop No. 10 Will Honor Sousa Today

A wreath will be placed on the tomb of the late John Philip Sousa in Congressional Cemetery at 4 p. m. today by the Boy Scout Troop No. 10, whose headquarters are at the Ninth Street Christian Church.

Lawrence J. Bach, a former member of a Detroit Scout troop, will lay the wreath on the tomb and deliver the dedication address. Bach belonged to the Boy Scout troop which, during the World War days, was presented with a silk troop flag by Sousa.

Zeppelin Lands Safely.

Friedrichshafen, Germany, March 5 (AP).—The LZ129, Germany's enormous new Zeppelin, landed safely today after a second test flight of 2 hours and 52 minutes. The first test was made yesterday. On today's jaunt Dr. Hugo Eckener took the airship over Lake Constance, then to Munich and returned by way of Bad and Loelz.

Family in Small Boat Missing Off California

San Pedro, Calif., March 5 (AP).—Two Coast Guard cutters put to sea today to search for Dave Belt of Long Beach, missing since yesterday in a small boat with his wife and two children.

Henry Utrecht, of Long Beach, reported Belt borrowed his tiny motorboat to fish outside the breakwater, and failed to return. Utrecht said he feared the boat is disabled in the fog.

U. S. in Move to Free Airplane of Rickett

Paris, March 5 (AP).—The United States Embassy intervened with the French government today to lift a padlock from the plane of Francis M. Rickett, British oil promoter. The plane, registered in the United States and piloted by the American Vernon A. Dorrell, was grounded at Le Bourget after Dorrell failed to obtain authorization from the air ministry to fly over France. The embassy's intervention brought permission for the pilot to fly to England.

Rickett, who negotiated a concession for American interests in Ethiopia which later was abandoned, arrived at Brindisi, Italy, from Rome.

Arms Delegates Delayed.

London, March 5 (AP).—The four-power naval conference became so involved today in the wording of a proposed treaty that the American delegation was forced to cancel plans to sail for home next week. Instead, the delegation made reservations to leave March 26.

Georgetown, Virginia U. To Debate Court Issue

Georgetown and the University of Virginia will debate a Supreme Court issue tonight at Charlottesville in the first contest of this kind between the schools in many years.

A foreign service school debating team consisting of Richard E. Corrigan, Simon Rottenberg and Bunting Oliver will represent Georgetown. They will argue giving power to Congress, by a two-thirds vote, to override Supreme Court decisions declaring its acts unconstitutional.
